Headline: Muslims throw firebombs at Israeli cops from inside Al Aqsa Mosque

Jewish Temple organizations demanded Sunday that the Prime Minister immediately establish an official commission of inquiry into Friday's events on the Temple Mount and the way the Temple Mount police handled them. Friday's events were worse even than those that took place during the Great Terror War that began in 2000, the groups said. For the first time ever, they said, fire bombs were thrown at police on the Mount, and one policeman caught fire and miraculously suffered only slight wounds. Police knew in advance of the intention to carry out severe violence but did not limit the age of worshipers allowed to enter or stay on the Mount, even after violence had broken out, the groups charged. Videos posted by Muslims show police refraining from quelling the violence, the Temple groups said. In private conversations, policemen described feelings of humiliation and betrayal by their commanding officers, the temple activists added.

Headline: Barak: Assad's Fall 'Inevitable,' Israel May Pay the Price

In his last appearance before the Knesset Foreign Affairs and Defense Committee as Defense Minister, Ehud Barak summed up recent events by saying that Israel should expect more instability on its northern border – instability that Iran was likely to take advantage of. “We are watching developments in the north very closely, and there are two major issues,” Barak told MKs of the current committee, whose makeup would be changing with the formation of a new government by Binyamin Netanyahu. “We are on alert for the transfer of advanced weapons from Syria to Lebanon,” into the hands of Hizbullah terrorists, Barak said, as well as “the possibility that chemical or other weapons of mass destruction will fall into the hands of terrorists. We have said that if there is an attempt to transfer these weapons we will stop it.” And there would definitely be attempts to undertake such transfers, Barak said. “It appears that the fall of Syrian President Bashar al-Assad is inevitable. In the end, the Alawite minority will be forced to retreat to a small part of Syria, probably along the coast.” Assad is a member of the Alawite group, with which most Sunni and Shi'ite Muslims have sharp theological differences with.

Headline: Syrian Rebels Vow to Conquer Golan, Refugees Refuse Israeli Aid

Syrian refugees might be desperate, injured and even starving – but they won't accept Israeli aid, as rebels vow to reconquer the Golan Heights. Foreign Ministry spokesman Yigal Palmor says Israel has offered to send humanitarian aid into Syria via the International Committee of the Red Cross, as the desperation of civilians fleeing the violence grows. Nevertheless, Palmor told the Turkish Hurriyet daily newspaper, the refugees are still unwilling to accept assistance from Israel, which had coordinated with the Red Cross to send humanitarian aid into the country. But at the private level, aid organizations are coordinating between Israel and Jordan to provide assistance to the refugees who have crossed the border into the Hashemite Kingdom, Palmor noted. "This shows that the Israeli public wants to help Syrians no matter what politics dictates," he pointed out. Jordan cannot possibly provide on its own all the assistance the refugees need, its own officials have repeatedly pointed out.

Headline: Obama's Visit to Begin on March 20

U.S. President Barack Obama's three-day visit to Israel and the Palestinian Authority (PA) will begin on March 20, Israel said on Sunday, in the first official announcement of the visit, AFP reported. A statement from Prime Minister Binyamin Netanyahu's office said Obama was due to arrive Wednesday, March 20, at Ben Gurion Airport and then head to Jerusalem for talks with President Shimon Peres and a dinner meeting with Netanyahu. The White House has not announced specific dates for the Obama visit, his first to the region as president. Israeli media reports and an official with the PA have said that the visit will run from March 20-22 and take in talks with both Israeli and PA Arab leaders in Jerusalem and Ramallah.

Headline: PA Plans to Prosecute Israel Via International Groups

Issa Karaka, the Palestinian Authority's Minister for Prisoner Affairs, is urging PA chief Mahmoud Abbas to enroll the PA in as many international organizations as possible as quickly as is feasible, in order to capitalize on the recognition the PA received at the United Nations last year and use its standing in the international community to sue and prosecute Israel. At a press conference in Ramallah Sunday, Karaka said that the PA should join the Geneva Convention, and once admitted, use the Convention's provisions to prosecute Israel in the International Criminal Court for "crimes against the Palestinian nation," he said. Speaking at the press conference, the head of the Al-Haq organization, Shawan Jabrin, said that international law was an excellent tool for the PA to pursue its agenda against Israel. "All the issues that are outstanding, such as settlements, the security fence and prisoners, can be used to achieve the rights of the Palestinians," he said.

Headline: U.N.: Hamas Rocket Killed Palestinian Child

A Hamas rocket killed the son of a Gaza-based BBC reporter, not an Israeli airstrike as originally reported by many Western media outlets, the United Nations has confirmed. Multiple news outlets, most notably the Washington Post, initially claimed the Israelis were responsible for the child's death despite conflicting evidence about the incident. However, a recently issued U.N. report discredits the story and sensationalistic photo of the dead Palestinian baby that the Post published on the front page of its Nov. 15, 2012, edition with the following caption: "Jihad Masharawi weeps as he holds the body of his 11-month-old son, Ahmad, at al-Shifa hospital after an Israeli airstrike in Gaza City." Post spokeswoman Kristine Coratti did not have a comment on the new report and could not say if the Post would be running a correction in the coming days. The U.N. human rights council investigated the incident and debunked this claim in its latest report, which will be formally presented by the body's high commissioner on March 18.

Headline: Jerusalem Arab residents contest highway route

A new Israeli highway project is threatening to add to tensions in Jerusalem by cutting through a quiet, middleclass Arab neighborhood to link a large bloc of Jewish settlements to the city. The project comes during a flurry of Israeli building in east Jerusalem, the section of the city claimed by the Palestinians as their future capital. City officials say the road is meant to serve everyone. Critics counter that the road is part of a grand scheme, including construction of thousands of apartments, to solidify Israel's control over the area and sever the connection between the holy city and any future Palestinian state. "It changes the geography and demography in ways that will make a two-state solution very, very difficult," said Aviv Tatarsky of Ir Amim, an organization that lobbies for equitable treatment of Jews and Arabs in Jerusalem.

Headline: 3rd wave of locusts from Sinai takes Israel by swarm

A new group of locusts crossed the border from the Sinai region on Sunday, ending up in the area of Moshav Be'er Malka, in the Ramat Haneghev region, the Agriculture Ministry reported. After entering Israel, the insects split up and continued their flight, with one faction heading toward Ashalim and another toward Ofakim, the ministry said. Once these swarms land on the ground, ministry workers will map out their locations in order to spray them with pesticides. They expected to begin their spraying at the first signs of light on Monday morning, the ministry said. This latest swarm of locusts follows a second that entered the country from Egypt on Friday in the Nitzana region, after which the Agriculture Ministry sprayed pesticide heavily throughout the weekend, both by air and on the ground.

Headline: Gantz says Lebanon will pay if Hezbollah attacks

Israel will respond to an attack from Hezbollah by striking Lebanese infrastructure, IDF Chief of General Staff Benny Gantz said on Monday evening in a sharply worded warning to the Shiite group sitting on Israel's northern border. "We will know how to act with Hezbollah and with Lebanon, including its infrastructure," Gantz told the audience of the Herzliya Conference, a local policy convention. "Lebanon cannot claim sovereignty but not bear responsibility. If a conflagration erupts, I would rather be an Israeli citizen than a Lebanese." Gantz said that despite the semblance of security calm in Israel, not a week goes by without the IDF having to deal with threats "of strategic dimensions." In the past, Gantz said, Israel used to be able to address threats emanating from Lebanon by exerting pressure on Syria. But that is no longer the case. "Syria has become an exceptionally dangerous place," he said. The likelihood of a Syrian conventional attack against Israel has dramatically decreased, but has been replaced by a terrorist threat along the Israeli-Syrian border. "We will be next in line after Assad," Gantz said, referring to the day after the expected ouster of the Syrian president.

Headline: Saudis hold anti-regime demo in Qassim

Protesters in Saudi Arabia have once again held a demonstration against the Al Saud regime in Qassim Province, Press TV reports. On Sunday, the demonstrators chanted anti-regime slogans in the city of Buraidah, located about 330 kilometers (205 miles) north of the capital, Riyadh. They also called for the immediate release of political prisoners. The protesters demanded the release of a group of women who were arrested more than a week ago while holding a sit-in outside the central prison in Buraidah against the detention of their relatives. Some 170 people were taken into custody in the incident. Saudi authorities, however, claim to have already freed some 100 of the detainees.

Headline: Egypt's police strike spreads nationwide; Morsi deploys Army

Headline: Egypt on alert as striking police demand an end to 'Brotherhoodization'

The strike by Egypt's police has created a security crisis throughout the country. Egypt's official Middle East News Agency said that at least 30 police stations have stopped working amid nationwide unrest. MENA said police shut down their facilities as part of their demand for the dismissal of Interior Minister Mohammed Ibrahim. "They have declared a revolt against the policy of the Interior Ministry," a police source said. The police shutdown has prompted President Mohammed Morsi to order the deployment of the Egyptian Army. Morsi urged the Army to take over law enforcement and security responsibilities in Port Said, where police fled amid bloody riots in March. "The Egyptian armed forces is a combat institution not a security institution," Egyptian Gen. Ahmed Wasfi, head of the Army division in Port Said, said. "No one can imagine the Army replacing the Interior Ministry." On March 9, some of the protesters tried to attack the Suez Canal and torched buildings along the coast. Army units were said to have helped douse the flames and block the protesters from interfering with canal traffic.

Jeremiah 49:24-27

New King James Version (NKJV)

24 Damascus has grown feeble;
She turns to flee,
And fear has seized her.
Anguish and sorrows have taken her like a woman in labor.
25 Why is the city of praise not deserted, the city of My joy?
26 Therefore her young men shall fall in her streets,
And all the men of war shall be cut off in that day," says the LORD of hosts.
27 "I will kindle a fire in the wall of Damascus,
And it shall consume the palaces of Ben-Hadad."^[a]

The burden of Damascus. Behold, Damascus is taken away from being a city, and it shall be a ruinous heap.

Headline: UN: Syrian government reportedly using militias for mass killings

The Syrian government is reportedly using local militias known as Popular Committees to commit mass killings which are at times sectarian in nature, UN human rights investigators said on Monday. The uprising in Syria erupted two years ago with largely peaceful protests but escalated into a civil war pitting mainly Sunni Muslim rebels against President Bashar Assad, whose Alawite faith is an offshoot of Shi'ite Islam. "In a disturbing and dangerous trend, mass killings allegedly perpetrated by Popular Committees have at times taken on sectarian overtones," the UN commission of inquiry on Syria, led by Brazilian Paulo Pinheiro, said in its latest report to the UN Human Rights Council in Geneva. "Some appear to have been trained and armed by the government," they said.

The independent investigators, who cited accounts from witnesses and victims, said people were being harassed or arrested by government-allied militia because they came from regions perceived as being supportive of the revolt.

Headline: Al Qaeda claims killing of Syrian soldiers in Iraq

Al Qaeda has claimed responsibility for killing 48 Syrian soldiers and state employees in Iraq last week, saying their presence proved collusion between the Shi'ite-led government in Baghdad and Syrian President Bashar al-Assad. Unidentified gunmen last week attacked a convoy of Syrians who had fled across the border into Iraq from a Syrian rebel advance, and were being escorted back home through the western province of Anbar, Iraq's Sunni Muslim heartland. "Military detachments succeeded in annihilating an entire column of the Safavid army," al Qaeda's Iraqi wing, Islamic State of Iraq, said in a statement posted online, referring to the dynasty that ruled Shi'ite Iran from the 16th to 18th centuries. Tehran is Assad's closest regional ally. "The lions of the desert and the men entrusted with difficult missions laid ambushes on the road leading to the crossing," it said.

The group said the presence of the Syrians in Iraq showed the Baghdad government's "firm cooperation" with Assad. The Syrian leader's Alawite faith is an offshoot of Shi'ite Islam. Iraq's Defense Ministry has blamed the attack, which also killed nine Iraqi soldiers, on Syrian armed groups it said had infiltrated the country.

Headline: Syria jets bomb Homs as mortar strikes rock Damascus

Syrian rebels launched a surprise dawn raid Sunday to retake a key district of the central city of Homs, as Islamists set up a religious council to administer rebel-held areas of the oil-rich east, AFP reports. The assault on Baba Amr district came as UN High Commissioner for Refugees Antonio Guterres warned that the number of Syrian refugees, which has already passed the million mark, could double or triple by the end of the year. Activists said the raid sparked fierce fighting on the ground and saw President Bashar al-Assad's forces call in air strikes in a bid to repulse the rebel fighters. They said the attack was a bid to take pressure off other rebel-held areas following the launch last week of a wide scale army offensive in Homs, which has been dubbed 'capital of the revolution' against Assad's forces.

Iraqi security officials say at least nine people have been killed and over 160 others injured in bomb and shooting attacks carried out across the country. Three civilians and two police officers were killed after a bomb explosion near a police station in the town of Dibis, northwest of the oil city of Kirkuk on Monday. Local officials say most of the people injured in the attack were pupils at a neighboring Kurdish girls' secondary school. Elsewhere, gunmen killed one person in the Al-Amil district of Baghdad and another north of the capital, security and medical officials said. Gunmen also killed a blacksmith near Baquba, north of Baghdad, and a soldier in the main northern city of Mosul. The violence comes as Iraqi security forces arrested a senior militant leader with links to the al-Qaeda network in Iraq in the western province of al-Anbar.

Headline: Gunfire breaks out along Iraq-Kuwait border

Gunfire broke out along the Iraq-Kuwait border on Monday, sources from both sides said, in the latest sign of localized tensions over the position of the frontier that remain more than two decades after Saddam Hussein's invasion. Kuwaiti media said shots were fired from the Iraqi side of the frontier, aimed at members of a border demarcation team working inside Kuwait. Iraqi police gave a different account, saying officers had fired into the air to break up a demonstration inside Iraq by locals unhappy about the position of the boundary. Kuwaiti news website Al-Aan quoted a security source saying an exchange of fire broke out on Monday after Iraqis hurled stones at Kuwaitis doing maintenance work on border posts. Kuwait withdrew the border demarcation team after the shooting "to calm the situation," the country's Al-Rai newspaper reported in a brief story. State news agency KUNA said Iraqis in the border area had "sabotaged" the border fence and "obstructed U.N.-supervised border signs maintenance," but did not mention any shooting.

Headline: Hundreds of Tunisians hold anti-government demo in Tunis

Hundreds of Tunisians hold an anti-government demonstration in the capital Tunis, criticizing the country's new cabinet line-up amid political crisis in the North African nation. The protest rally took place on Saturday in the city where protesters reportedly chanted slogans against the ruling Ennahda Party. The demonstrators chanted slogans such as "The people demand the fall of the regime." They also carried banners that read, "The cabinet reshuffle was a piece of theatre." This comes after Tunisia's Prime Minister-designate Ali Larayedh unveiled the country's new government on Friday. "I presented to the President (Moncef Marzouki) the dossier containing the list of the new government and a summary of the government program," Larayedh said. "We expect that the government line-up will receive the confidence," he added. The assassination of leftist opposition figure Shokri Belaid outside his home in the capital Tunis in early February triggered violent demonstrations across the country, with the headquarters of the ruling Ennahda party being attacked in more than a dozen cities.

Headline: EU Chiefs Seeking to Stave Off Euro Crisis Turn to Cyprus

European leaders grappling with political deadlock in Italy and spiraling unemployment in France will turn to a financial rescue for Cyprus in an effort to stave off a return of market turmoil over the debt crisis. European Union leaders will meet for a March 14-15 summit in Brussels to discuss terms for Cyprus, including the island nation's debt sustainability and possibly imposing losses on depositors.

That comes as Italy struggles to form a government after an inconclusive Feb. 24-25 election and as concern over the French economy mounts with unemployment at a 13-year high. "We haven't turned the corner yet, but we're on a good path," German Finance Minister Wolfgang Schaeuble told Austria's Der Standard newspaper in a March 8 interview. "It would be wrong at this point to change course." The European Central Bank's pledge to intervene in bond markets and the prospect of an economic recovery by the end of the year are holding the three-year-old sovereign debt crisis in check. Still, gridlock in Italy has raised the specter of renewed turmoil in the euro area's third-largest economy, while growth has ground to a halt in France, the second-largest.

Headline: 46,609,072 People on Food Stamps in 2012; Record 47,791,996 in December

On Friday, the United States Department of Agriculture quietly released new statistics related to the food stamps program, officially known as SNAP (the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program). The numbers reveal, in 2012, the food stamps program was the biggest it's ever been, with an average of 46,609,072 people on the program every month of last year. 47,791,996 people were on the program in the month of December 2012. The federal government also says that in a given month in 2012, the number of households on food stamps was 22,329,713. The state with the highest average number of participants per month in 2012 was Texas, with an astonishing 4,038,440 folks drawing from the program. The second highest is California, with 3,964,221, and then Florida, at 3,353,064. Washington, D.C., with an estimated population of 617,996, had an average of 141,147 participants. Meaning, roughly 23 percent of folks living in D.C. are on food stamps, according to the numbers provided by the federal government. The participation rate in Texas, which has an estimated population of 26,059,203, 15.5 percent. The US and South Korea have begun annual military drills amid high tensions with North Korea in the wake of a UN sanctions vote. Pyongyang has strongly condemned the exercises, threatening to scrap the armistice that ended the Korean War. Seoul says North Korea also appears to have carried out a threat made last week to sever a cross-border hotline. The drills come days after the UN approved new sanctions on North Korea following its nuclear test in February. The test last month was the communist country's third. It followed an apparently successful launch in December of a three-stage rocket, seen as a banned test of missile technology. Meanwhile, The North Korean army has declared invalid the armistice agreement that ended the Korean War in 1953, the official newspaper of the country's ruling Workers' Party said Monday.

Prophecy Sign: Pestilence & Plagues Luke 21:11 & Revelation 6:8

“And there will be great earthquakes in various places, and famines and pestilences; and there will be fearful sights and great signs from heaven.” (Luke)

“So I looked, and behold, a pale horse. And the name of him who sat on it was Death, and Hades followed with him. And power was given to them over a fourth of the earth, to kill with sword, with hunger, with death (Thanatos in Greek meaning the death of the body whether natural or violent), and by the beasts of the earth" (Revelation)

Headline: Antibiotics resistance 'as big a risk as terrorism' - medical chief

Headline: New wave of 'superbugs' poses dire threat, says chief medical officer

The danger posed by growing resistance to antibiotics should be ranked along with terrorism on a list of threats to the nation, the government's chief medical officer for England has said. Professor Dame Sally Davies described it as a "ticking time bomb". She warned that routine operations could become deadly in just 20 years if we lose the ability to fight infection. Dame Sally urged the government to raise the issue during next month's G8 Summit in London. Dame Sally said: "If we don't take action, then we may all be back in an almost 19th Century environment where infections kill us as a result of routine operations. We won't be able to do a lot of our cancer treatments or organ transplants." She said pharmaceutical companies needed to be encouraged to develop new drugs, because the manufacture of antibiotics was not viewed as profitable.

Prophecy Sign: Animal Deaths Hosea 4:1-3 & Ezekiel 38:20 & Zephaniah 1:3

"I will consume man and beast; I will consume the birds of the heavens, The fish of the sea, And the stumbling blocks along with the wicked. I will cut off man from the face of the land," Says the LORD."
(Zephaniah)

"There is no faithfulness, no love, no acknowledgment of God in the land. There is only cursing, lying and murder, stealing and adultery; they break all bounds, and bloodshed follows bloodshed. Because of this the land mourns, and all who live in it waste away; the beasts of the field and the birds of the air and the fish of the sea are dying. [Hosea 4:1-3]

The fish of the sea, the birds of the air, the beasts of the field, every creature that moves along the ground, and all the people on the face of the earth will tremble at my presence. The mountains will be overturned, the cliffs will crumble and every wall will fall to the ground. [Ezekiel 38:20]

Headline: Plague of pigs in Shanghai river raises concerns over drinking water safety

More than 1,000 dead pigs have been found floating in Shanghai's main waterway, the Chinese city's government said Monday, as residents expressed fears over possible drinking water contamination. Workers in the south-western district of Songjiang fished more than 1,200 dead swine out of the Huangpu river, which goes on to cut through the commercial hub and create its waterfront Bund district. The haul included both piglets and huge adult pigs, the Shanghai government said in a statement on its website. Reports said the pigs probably came from the adjoining upstream province of Zhejiang, where farmers were believed to have dumped them in the river after they died of disease, and the first bodies were discovered last Thursday.

Headline: Bird flu outbreak in Bihar India

More than 2,000 chickens were culled and a large quantity of eggs destroyed in Bihar's Purnea district in the last 24 hours following an outbreak of avian flu, officials said Monday. Purnea District Magistrate Manish Verma said bird flu was detected last week. "More birds would be culled as a precautionary step. The administration had issued bird flu alert as a preventive measure. We are fully prepared to deal with an outbreak," the district magistrate said. An official of the animal husbandry department said the state government had also alerted neighbouring districts of Kishanganj, Katihar and Araria, and asked concerned officials to take emergency measures in view of the bird flu outbreak in Purnea. Verma told IANS over telephone that kits, medicines and other material have been distributed to all medical centres for treatment of any patient suspected to be affected by bird flu.

Headline: Hundreds of Christians Clash With Pakistani Police After Muslim Mob Torches 170 Homes

Comment: Please continue in prayer for Pastor Fiaz and his family and all Pakistani Christians

Hundreds of Christians clashed with police across Pakistan on Sunday, a day after a Muslim mob burned dozens of homes owned by members of the minority religious group in retaliation for alleged insults against Islam's Prophet Muhammad. Christians are often the target of Pakistan's harsh blasphemy laws, which rights activists say are frequently used to persecute religious minorities or settle personal disputes. Politicians have been reluctant to reform the laws for fear of being attacked by religious radicals, as has happened in the past. As TheBlaze previously reported, the latest incident began Friday after a Muslim in the eastern city of Lahore accused a Christian man of blasphemy — an offense punishable by life in prison or even death. A day later, hundreds of angry Muslims rampaged through the Christian neighborhood, burning about 170 houses.

Headline: Egyptians protest death of Christian in Libya

The video is startling enough: a room full of dozens of Egyptian Christians, lorded over by Libyan Islamist militiamen who have shaved their captives' heads and are abusing them over the bibles and religious images sitting on the table in front of them. What was to come was worse, according to those held, victims of a round-up of Christians by an Islamist militia in the Libyan city of Benghazi. "When I visited him he was in a pitiful condition," Ragaa Nagah, wife of one of the detainees, Emad Seddeek, told The Daily Telegraph this week. "He was afraid to tell us how he was tortured, but he couldn't see out of one of his eyes. "They were standing over him and beating him while they asking him to confess and when they were about to give him an electric shock he said, 'Don't do that and I will say anything you want me to say'." The round-up of scores of expatriate Coptic Christians last month in Benghazi, a centre of militant Islam in the new Libya, has turned into a wider purge of hundreds of Egyptians, the latest in a string of diplomatic clashes between the neighbouring, post-Arab Spring states. The initial action was taken by a militant group claimed to be part of Ansar al-Sharia, a notorious Islamist militia accused of involvement in the death of Chris Stevens, the American ambassador in the city last September.

Headline: Iran puts five Christians on trial for their faith

Five Iranian Christian converts who were detained late last year will reportedly begin trial in Iran's Revolutionary Court this week, according to a human rights group following the case. The five men were among seven arrested in October when security forces raided an underground house church in the city of Shiraz during a prayer session. They will be tried at the Revolutionary Court in Shiraz's Fars Province on charges of disturbing public order, evangelizing, threatening national security and engaging in Internet activity that threatens the government, according to Christian Solidarity Worldwide, a religious persecution watchdog group. "Judging from recent cases, it is likely that, at the very least, those detained may face lengthy prison sentences," said CSW spokesperson Kiri Kankhwende. According to Kankhwende, the crackdown against Christian converts and house churches parallels a general increase in repression against many, including journalists, religious and cultural minorities and others as the government is leading up to June's presidential elections.

Headline: Four Asteroids Buzz Earth in Single Week

In the last seven days, an asteroid 131 feet (40 meters) across and three smaller space rocks have zoomed safely by Earth, the latest demonstration that we live in a solar system that some scientists have dubbed a "cosmic shooting gallery." All four asteroid flybys occurred between March 4 and today (March 10). The asteroids were also all discovered this month, some just days ago. The biggest space rock encounter occurred Saturday (March 9), when the asteroid 2013 ET passed just inside 600,000 miles (965,606 kilometers) of Earth, about 2.5 times the distance between the planet and the moon. Early estimates for the asteroid suggested its size could be up to 460 feet (140 meters) across - about the size of a city block

Headline: Small earthquake hits near Benton in southern Illinois

A small earthquake measuring 2.7 magnitude hit near Benton in southern Illinois this morning but appears to have done little, if any, damage in the rural area. The quake occurred around 5 a.m. about 11 miles east of where Interstate 57 passes through Benton, the seat of Franklin County, according to the U.S. Geological Survey. The closest town is Macedonia, population 50. The Franklin County sheriff's office said it had gotten no reports of injuries or damages. The quake hit to the north and west of what is called the New Madrid seismic zone.

The Arab Spring in Prophecy

(Perilous Times Luke 21:9 & Nation against Nation, Kingdom against Kingdom Matt.24:7)
(Revelation 6:3-4 Revelation 6:8)

“For nation shall rise against nation,
and kingdom against kingdom.
There will be earthquakes in various places, and there will be famines and sedition; these are the beginning of the labor pains.”

Mark 13:8

UNREST

Luke 21:9 and Matthew 24:7 speak of nation against nation and kingdom against kingdom in the end times. Revelation 6:3-4 speaks of the fiery red horse given power to make men slay one another and Revelation 6:8 speaks again of this red horse in conjunction with the pale horse of Death and Hades, as the one that has the power to kill by sword. I like to call this “The Arab Spring in Prophecy” because for us it is easy to identify- that’s what the world calls it.

Luke 21:9: wars & commotions; the Greek word here is Akatastasia, meaning instability, a state of disorder, disturbance, confusion (revolutions)

Matthew 24:7: the Greek word for nation is Ethnos & refers to various ethnic groups fighting among themselves, where the next sentence in the verse refers to kingdoms (basileiva) fighting one another (not to be confused with an actual kingdom but rather the right or authority to rule over a kingdom) I have tried to separate it into areas that sweep EAST from the point of North America.

Middle East- ONLY COUNTRIES NOT IN PROPHECY

Headline: Bahrainis stage new anti-regime demonstrations

Bahrainis have staged fresh anti-regime demonstrations despite the ongoing heavy-handed crackdown on peaceful pro-democracy protesters in the Persian Gulf country, Press TV reports. On Sunday, people poured out into the streets in the village of Sitra, southeast of Manama, and chanted slogans against the ruling Al Khalifa royal family. Protesters also staged another anti-regime rally in Nuwaidrat village, southeast of Manama. Bahraini forces fired teargas canisters and stun grenades to disperse the protesters. Activists say several protesters sustained injuries as a result. The Bahraini revolution began in mid-February 2011, when the people, inspired by the popular revolutions that toppled the dictators of Tunisia and Egypt, started holding massive demonstrations.

Headline: Thousands of Spaniards stage nationwide protests against austerity

Tens of thousands of Spaniards have staged nationwide protests against the government's inefficient handling of the economy and cuts within public services. The rallies took place in the capital Madrid and 60 other cities on Sunday by 150 organizations including trade unions representing construction, car industries, police and health services. They want to cut what most sustains a country, which is education and health care," said health care worker Isabel Montanes. Madrid's regional government has proposed to sell off the management of six of its 20 public hospitals and 10 percent of its public health centers. Officials have said that these steps are vital to tackle regional finances and secure health services in the long term. A record 5.04 million Spaniards were registered unemployed in February, as many young graduates and qualified professionals are forced to find work abroad.
