Headline: Turkey PM delays Gaza trip after U.S. warns it may harm reconciliation with Israel

Turkish Prime Minister Recep Tayyip Erdogan has postponed his planned visit to the Gaza Strip at the request of U.S. Secretary of State John Kerry. Kerry told Erdogan during their meeting in Istanbul last Sunday that visiting Gaza at this time could harm effort to normalize relations with Israel, and urged him consider postponing the trip to a later date, according to reports in the Turkish press. During a press briefing for reporters Tuesday night en route to Kyrgyzstan, however, Erdogan said, "It seems the visit to Gaza will take place after I return from the United States." Erdogan is expected to arrive in Washington on May 16 and meet with President Barack Obama at the White House. The meeting was scheduled following the reconciliation agreement with Israel and after a long period in which Obama refrained from extending an invitation to the Turkish prime minister. The reconciliation talks with Israel that were supposed to begin Thursday in Ankara have been postponed to April 22.

Headline: Turkey Vetoes Israeli NATO Membership

Two weeks after the Israeli reconciliation with Turkey, that country nonetheless vetoed the participation of Israel in the NATO 'Mediterranean Dialogue' Conference. The veto and additional Turkish hostility towards Israel preventing implementation of the reconciliation is a source of great pessimism for Israel, according to NRG.

Headline: Analysis: Hamas wants bigger regional role

Hamas chief Khaled Mashaal has set an ambitious agenda for his new term, seeking to transform his Islamic militant movement that rules Gaza into a widely recognized political force, but without making concessions toward Israel needed for international acceptance. Re-elected last week, Mashaal will try to deepen ties with regional powers Qatar, Turkey and Egypt, which have already given money or political support to Hamas-run Gaza and could be conduits to the U.S. and Europe, several leading Hamas figures said. Mashaal will also push for a power-sharing deal with his Western-backed Palestinian rival, President Mahmoud Abbas.

Headline: Guatemala formally recognizes Palestinian state

Guatemala has recognized Palestine as a sovereign state in the belief that this will help foster peace in the Middle East, the president's office announced Tuesday. Guatemala "has decided to join the vast majority of Latin American and Caribbean countries and recognize the State of Palestine, as a free, sovereign and independent state," the statement said. "This decision in no way alters Guatemala's long tradition of friendship and cooperation with the State of Israel, a relationship the Guatemalan government highly values," the statement added. Guatemala, the statement said, "fervently wishes for a renewal of the negotiation process between the State of Israel and the State of Palestine, backed by the international community, to reach an agreement that allows both sides to live in peace, with defined, secure and internationally recognized borders."

Jordan

Headline: Jordan ready to deal with Damascus retribution?

Jordan's long-held "neutral" position towards the ongoing violence in Syria is seemingly changing now with emerging voices in the refugee-plagued kingdom urging for closing the northern borders and irreversibly enforcing a buffer zone in southern Syria. Beset by deep concerns of retribution by Damascus and the possibility of radical groups' dominance in post- Assad Syria, Jordan's public line towards the civil war in its northern neighbor has been notably marked by neutrality, detachment and diplomatic caution, cunningly succeeding in not siding explicitly with the pro- nor anti-Assad camps. Meanwhile, Jihadi Salafists on Tuesday urged the government to open its borders with Syria to facilitate the entry of hundreds of Islamist fighters allegedly waiting to join the armed opposition. In a rally in front of the Prime Ministry, some 200 members of the hardline movement called on Jordan to ease restrictions along the border with Syria. "We demand that the government ease the entry of hundreds of dedicated Muslims willing to fulfil their duty and defend their brothers and sisters in Syria," said Mohammed Shalabi, or Abu Sayyaf, head of the Jordanian jihadist movement. "Jordan's ongoing policy of arresting young men ready to fight in the name of God is serving only the Godless regime of Bashar Assad and is prolonging the massacre of innocent Muslims," he said.

Egypt

Headline: Egyptians march against sectarianism

Hundreds of people marched in the Egyptian capital on Tuesday to condemn sectarianism and call for unity between Muslims and Christians. The march began at Al-Fath Mosque in downtown Cairo and ended at St Mark's Cathedral, the headquarters of Egypt's Coptic Orthodox Church, in the Abbasiya district. Two people were killed and at least 90 injured on Sunday when unknown assailants attacked mourners outside St Mark's Cathedral where a funeral service was being held for four Copts killed on Saturday in sectarian violence in Qalioubiya, north of Cairo. It was one of the worst flare-ups of sectarian violence since the fall of Hosni Mubarak. At Tuesday's protest, angry crowds condemned President Mohamed Morsi, Egypt's Islamist-led government, the Muslim Brotherhood and the interior ministry. "The people want the downfall of the regime," the crowds chanted.

Jeremiah 49:24-27

New King James Version (NKJV)

- 24 Damascus has grown feeble;
She turns to flee,
And fear has seized her.
Anguish and sorrows have taken her like a woman in labor.
- 25 Why is the city of praise not deserted, the city of My joy?
- 26 Therefore her young men shall fall in her streets,
And all the men of war shall be cut off in that day," says the LORD of hosts.
- 27 "I will kindle a fire in the wall of Damascus,
And it shall consume the palaces of Ben-Hadad."^[a]

The burden of Damascus. Behold, Damascus is taken away from being a city, and it shall be a ruinous heap.

Headline: Al Qaeda Confirms Syria's 'Al Nusra Front' Membership

A man claiming to be the head of a key group fighting the Syrian government has purportedly pledged allegiance to al-Qaeda, but also distanced his group from earlier claims it had merged with the Iraq branch of the armed network. "The sons of Al-Nusra Front pledge allegiance to Sheikh Ayman al-

Zawahiri," the man who identified himself as Abu Mohammed al Julani said in an audio clip posted on YouTube that went public on Wednesday. Zawahiri is known to be the chief commander of al-Qaeda. Julani, who is recognised as the head of the group Jabat al Nusra, or Al-Nusra Front, said in the video that his fighters had declared from the start of the uprising that Islamic law needs to be enforced across Syria, but did not want to announce the group's affiliation to al-Qaeda prematurely. He added, "we were not consulted" on an announcement by al-Qaeda in Iraq chief Abu Bakr al-Baghdadi on Tuesday of a merger with the Al-Nusra Front.

Britain is hosting a meeting of foreign ministers of the Group of Eight countries Wednesday and Thursday in London. Some of the ministers will meet with members of the Syrian opposition on the sidelines of the meeting, in a continued effort to reach a political and diplomatic breakthrough in that country's political crisis. U.S. Secretary of State John Kerry has confirmed that he also will meet with members of Syria's opposition in London. He spoke to reporters Tuesday at the end of his three-day visit to Israel and the West Bank. Kerry said the discussion will focus on how to get Syria's President Bashar al-Assad to accept the reality of his situation.

Iran: Jeremiah 49:34-39

"Thus says the LORD of hosts: 'Behold, I will break the bow of Elam, The foremost of their might.

³⁶ Against Elam I will bring the four winds From the four quarters of heaven, And scatter them toward all those winds; There shall be no nations where the outcasts of Elam will not go. ³⁷ For I will cause Elam to be dismayed before their enemies And before those who seek their life. I will bring disaster upon them, My fierce anger,' says the LORD; 'And I will send the sword after them Until I have consumed them. ³⁸ I will set My throne in Elam, And will destroy from there the king and the princes,' says the LORD. ³⁹ 'But it shall come to pass in the latter days: I will bring back the captives of Elam,' says the LORD."

Headline: Defiant Iran inaugurates two new uranium production sites

Iranian President Mahmoud Ahmadinejad has said his country has "gone nuclear" and ordered officials to "speedily" launch five more reactors. Ahmadinejad was speaking at a ceremony to mark Nuclear Technology Day, as well as launch two uranium mines and a yellow cake production plant in the city of Yazd. The controversial president once again made clear that Iran has every right to pursue its nuclear programme, even though the western powers believe it is a covert mission to produce atomic weapons. In a veiled remark to the US, Ahmadinejad said Iran has already become a "nuclear country" and nobody is entitled to deny this status, according to the official Islamic Republic News Agency.

Headline: WTO cuts 2013 trade growth forecast

The World Trade Organization (WTO) has cut its trade growth forecast for 2013 because of risks from the eurozone crisis and from greater protectionism. Global trade is now expected to grow by 3.3% this year, the WTO says, down from its earlier forecast of 4.5%. Next year, however, growth should rebound to about 5%, said WTO director general Pascal Lamy. Countries might turn to protectionism as other attempts to boost growth have been "found wanting", he said. "There is a need for more rules-based trade in order to reduce unemployment and to stimulate growth," he said. The WTO also warned that the weakness in Europe's economies would continue to weigh on trade.

Fitch Ratings has downgraded China's sovereign credit rating, warning about a credit build-up in the economy that could threaten the recovery. The agency cited "underlying structural weaknesses" and a growing risk from shadow banking. The downgrade is for yuan-denominated debt, not foreign currency debt. Some analysts have raised concerns over China's debt levels since 2009, when state-owned banks gave out a massive amount of loans to boost growth. Fitch downgraded China's long-term local currency rating from AA- to A+, the first major international agency to cut China's sovereign credit rating since 1999.

Headline: Italy’s Debt to Rise to Record in 2013 as Recession Lingers

Italy’s debt will reach a postwar record this year as the recession-hit country borrows to contribute to bailouts and pay arrears to suppliers. The public debt will rise to 130.4 percent of gross domestic product in 2013 from 127 percent last year, Prime Minister Mario Monti’s office said in a statement after his Cabinet reviewed its budget plan. The budget deficit will drop to 2.9 percent of GDP this year, putting Italy within the European Union’s 3 percent limit. “Many are suggesting we change strategy in the management of public finance,” Monti said at a press conference in Rome. “Discipline in public finances needs to be maintained in the years to come. Only if Italy stays out of the procedure for excessive deficit will it be able undertake actions needed for the country, like the recent payment of public administration debts.” The government forecasts that the euro region’s third- biggest economy will contract 1.3 percent this year, before expanding by the same amount next year and by 1.5 percent in 2015, Finance Minister Vittorio Grilli told reporters in Rome today.

U.S. defense officials are "highly confident" that North Korea is planning the imminent launch of a medium-range missile, echoing warnings from South Korea that the probability of Pyongyang carrying out its threat is "very high." Pentagon officials say they believe the rogue communist state is preparing to fire one or more Musadan missiles from its east coast. The North has been threatening the United States and its "puppet" South Korea almost daily in recent weeks, and the Commander of U.S. Pacific Command told Congress on Tuesday that he could not recollect a more tense time in the region since the end of the Korean War. "According to intelligence obtained by our side and the U.S., the possibility of a missile launch by North Korea is very high," South Korea's Foreign Minister Yun Byung-se told a parliamentary hearing in Seoul, according to Reuters. Musudan missiles could be launched "at any time from now," he said.

The deputy chief of staff of the Iranian Armed Forces, Major General Masood Jazayeri announced that Iran will stand by North Korea and defend it in a war between the United States and North Korea. Jazayeri made the statement on Friday, April 5. He blamed increasing tensions in the Korean peninsula on "excessive demands by the United States," which he said was "tightening the noose on North Korea." The Iranian military leader said that those aggressive activities on the part of the U.S. left the North Koreans with no option but to confront the "big Satan." "The nation and government of North Korea has always been subject to threat, despotism, and imperialism by the U.S, therefore they consider it their right to boost their own defensive power in order to inhibit their enemy," said Jazayeri. Chinese government ships temporarily entered the territorial waters of disputed Tokyo-controlled islands on Tuesday, Japan's coastguard said. The three surveillance ships were navigating for about five and a half hours in the 12-nautical-mile limit around the Senkakus, which Beijing claims and calls the Diaoyus, the coastguard said. They had all left the area by 3:40 pm (0640 GMT), it added. Pakistan raised its nuclear ante Wednesday by saying it had conducted a successful test of an intermediate-range ballistic missile capable of carrying a nuclear warhead almost 600 miles, far enough to strike deep within India, its nuclear-armed neighbor. The Shaheen-1 missile struck its intended target at sea, according to a statement from the Pakistani military. Headline: New bird-flu outbreak reported on Western Cape ostrich farm

A type of bird flu has been detected on an ostrich farm near Oudtshoorn, Western Cape agriculture MEC Gerrit van Rensburg said on Tuesday. “The tests indicated that the causative organism is a H7N1 virus,” he said. “The pathogenicity of this virus is still unknown, but samples have been submitted to determine the type.” About 50,000 ostriches have been culled in South Africa since the H5N2 bird-flu virus was detected in the Klein Karoo in April 2011. The industry’s biggest buyer, the European Union, imposed an export ban that resulted in losses of more than R1bn. Several farmers culled their entire flocks and laid off all their workers. The source of the latest infection was not yet clear, but the provincial department had started an “intensive epidemiological investigation,” according to Mr van Rensburg. As a precaution, the MEC has prohibited all movement of ostriches and ostrich products within a 3km radius of the farm where the outbreak occurred.

During the 24-hour period ending 5 p.m. on Wednesday, China has confirmed five new cases of H7N9 avian influenza, with two each in east China's Shanghai City and Jiangsu Province, and one in neighboring Zhejiang Province. In a daily update on H7N9 cases across China, the National Health and Family Planning Commission also said one child patient, who had been a confirmed H7N9 case, was discharged from hospital on Wednesday. China officially confirmed the occurrence of human infection with the H7N9 virus late last month. So far, the country has reported a total of 33 H7N9 cases, including nine which ended in fatalities. A total of 15 cases, including five ending in fatalities, have been reported in Shanghai. Ten cases, including one death, have been reported in Jiangsu, and two cases, including one death, in Anhui. Six cases have been reported in Zhejiang, with two deaths.

First the pigs, then the birds, now the fish: more than 600 pounds of dead fish were pulled from the Sijing Tang River in Shanghai in early April, according to state news agency Xinhua. Jiegang Daily ran a report commenting on an Internet post with a picture of dozens of fish corpses floating in the river and the question, "What's wrong with Sijing Tang?" The river flows through Shanghai's Songjiang district. According to the report, local residents said that the fish die-off started at the end of March and recently got worse, making the water turbid and smelly. Another batch of dead fish appeared around the same time in a Beijing lake. The cause of the deaths is unclear, but the administrator of surrounding Chaoyang Park says it has nothing to do with pollution, state media Beijing News reported.

Headline: Now Your iPhone Can Read Fingerprints, Scan Irises and ID Your Face

Cops and soldiers may soon be able to pull out their iPhones to track the eyes, facial features, voice and fingerprints of suspected criminals and combatants. The California-based company AOptix rolled out a new hardware and app package that transforms an iPhone into a mobile biometric reader. As first reported by Danger Room in February, AOptix is the recipient of a $3 million research contract from the Pentagon for its on-the-go biometrics technology. Opting for what it considers ease of use, the company decided to build its latest biometrics package, which it calls Stratus, atop an iPhone. A peripheral covering wraps around the phone — it's an inch and a half thick, three inches wide and six inches tall — while the AOptix Stratus app presents a user interface familiar to any iOS user. Except you're not going to be recording Vine videos, you're going to be recording the most unique physical features of another human being. "From an end-user perspective, it's much, much smaller, lighter and easier to use an app-based capability" than the bulky biometrics tools currently in military use, Joey Pritikin, an AOptix vice president, tells Danger Room. "Anyone who's used an iPhone before can pick this up and use it."

Prophecy Sign: EARTHQUAKES/WEATHER
(Isaiah 24:19-20 , Matthew 24:7 , Mark 13:8 , Luke 21:11 , Luke 21:25 - storms)

Headline: Iran: Dozens of aftershocks follow deadly earthquake

More than 80 aftershocks have hit south-west Iran following Tuesday's 6.1 magnitude earthquake, which killed at least 37 people and injured 850. Twelve villages were completely destroyed and terrified residents spent the night in the open, reports say. Iran's Red Crescent says the search and rescue operation is now over and affected families are being relocated. Iran's only nuclear station located in Bushehr, 90km (55 miles) from the scene, was not damaged, officials say. Scores of aftershocks - the strongest measuring a magnitude of 5.4 - struck within an hour, and they continued into Wednesday morning.

The Arab Spring in Prophecy

(Perilous Times Luke 21:9 & Nation against Nation, Kingdom against Kingdom Matt.24:7)
(Revelation 6:3-4 Revelation 6:8)

“For nation shall rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom.
There will be earthquakes in various places, and there will be famines and sedition; these are the beginning of the labor pains.”

Mark 13:8

CIVIL UNREST

Luke 21:9 and Matthew 24:7 speak of nation against nation and kingdom against kingdom in the end times. Revelation 6:3-4 speaks of the fiery red horse given power to make men slay one another and Revelation 6:8 speaks again of this red horse in conjunction with the pale horse of Death and Hades, as the one that has the power to kill by sword. I like to call this “The Arab Spring in Prophecy” because for us it is easy to identify- that’s what the world calls it.

Luke 21:9: wars & commotions; the Greek word here is Akatastasia, meaning instability, a state of disorder, disturbance, confusion (revolutions)

Matthew 24:7: the Greek word for nation is Ethnos & refers to various ethnic groups fighting among themselves, where the next sentence in the verse refers to kingdoms (basileiva) fighting one another (not to be confused with an actual kingdom but rather the right or authority to rule over a kingdom) I have tried to separate it into areas that sweep EAST from the point of North America.

Africa- ONLY COUNTRIES NOT IN PROPHECY

Headline: Mali crisis: French withdraw troops amid fears of prolonged war

France has withdrawn its first batch of 100 troops out of the 4,000 deployed in Mali as it prepares to hand over operations to a UN peacekeeping force, with 1,000 French troops to remain on the ground by the end of the year. However, fears are mounting that Mali will become a drawn-out war, spilling into other regions and fueling terrorism. France justified its January intervention into Mali as a necessary battle to stem the advance of Al-Qaeda-linked militants who had seized northern Mali, and threatened to gain control over the capital Bamako. Months later, the French succeeded in driving out Islamist insurgents from northern Mali, with some retreating to desert hideouts in the vast area, which increased fears that the conflict might turn into a long war and spill over into other African regions. French troops are still battling insurgents in Gao, as well as in the historic desert city of Timbuktu.

Headline: Bahrainis stage anti-regime protests despite crackdown

Headline: U.S. upgrading Fifth Fleet base despite Shi'ite revolt in Bahrain

Anti-regime protesters have staged fresh demonstrations across Bahrain despite the ruling Al Khalifa regime's heavy-handed crackdown. Protesters took to streets across the Persian Gulf kingdom, shouting slogans against the Al Khalifa regime. An unknown number of demonstrators were arrested by Bahrain security forces, while many others were snatched from their homes in different villages. On Monday, protesters blocked a road in the capital, Manama, by burning trash bins, to protest against the Bahraini regime.

Headline: 1 killed in Bangladesh opposition demo

At least one person has been killed in protests in Bangladesh by supporters of the opposition Bangladesh Nationalist Party (BNP). On Tuesday, protests against the arrest of BNP leaders turned violent in the northern town of Bogra, leading to the death of a bystander. The victim, who was a truck driver, was injured and taken to hospital, where he died later. The protesters threw handmade bombs at police forces, who fired rubber bullets to disperse the crowds. BNP officials have been accused of alleged war crimes in Bangladesh's war of independence from Pakistan in 1971. Meanwhile, supporters of Gonojagoron Mancha (People's Resurgence Platform), a forum demanding the trial of war criminals, staged a counter demonstration by taking to the streets of the capital Dhaka. Also on Tuesday, the BNP called for a 36-hour nationwide strike to demand a fair trial for the leaders.
