Headline: Salaam Fayyad resigns as Palestinian Prime Minister

President Mahmoud Abbas met with Mr Fayyad late in the day and accepted his resignation, thanking him from his service. He asked Fayyad to continue to serve in his post until Abbas forms a new government. Mr Abbas was expected to name a new prime minister within days, according to Palestinian officials. Mr Abbas and Mr Fayyad had been locked in an increasingly bitter dispute over the extent of the prime minister's authority. Fayyad offered his resignation on Thursday, but Abbas did not respond to Fayyad's offer until Saturday. His departure could spell trouble for Mr Abbas. Mr Fayyad, a Western-trained economist, is well respected in international circles, and he is expected to play a key role in American efforts to revive peace talks.

Headline: UN says it is Committed to Working Toward Palestinian State

The United Nations said Monday that it is committed to working with its Palestinian partners and President Mahmoud Abbas toward state-building to achieve independence in spite of the resignation of Prime Minister Salam Fayyad. A statement by United Nations Special Coordinator for the Middle East Peace Process, Robert Serry, on the resignation of Fayyad said "the United Nations remains committed to working with its Palestinian partners, under the leadership of President Abbas, towards development, state-building and to achieve the long-overdue negotiated two-state solution." Serry met Monday with Fayyad "to express on behalf of the United Nations appreciation for his achievements," said the statement.

Headline: Netanyahu: If We Must, We'll Go to War

"Since our inception as a people, we had to fight for our freedom and our existence," Prime Minister Binyamin Netanyahu said at a Sunday afternoon ceremony at Beit Yad Labanim in Jerusalem, marking the start of Memorial Day for the IDF's Fallen Soldiers. "Today, too, there are those who threaten to annihilate us -- they haven't succeeded in the past, they won't ever succeed", he said. Netanyahu seemed to be alluding to Iran, which Israel believes is working toward achieving military nuclear capabilities and has issued countless threats to annihilate the Jewish state. "If we have no choice, we will grasp our swords and go to battle," Netanyahu said, in one of the more sternly worded warnings he has issued to date. "We are not belligerent, we are not bloodthirsty. Our hand is extended in peace to all nations and states, far and near, but over the centuries we learned that only a strong defense force will ensure that we are not harmed."

Headline: Hamas: 123 Israeli Spies Exposed

Terror group Hamas was quoted Saturday as saying that members of the hacking group Anonymous broke into a Mossad website and revealed the names of 123 Israeli spies. According to a report in Egyptian newspaper Al Shaab al Masri, the claim was made by an officer for the "internal security intelligence" mechanism in the interior ministry of the Hamas government of Gaza. The officer said that 48 of the spies work in Egypt's and Saudi Arabia's stock exchanges. Another 52 work in the EMPC building, where Egypt's central television studios are located, 15 work on oil rigs in the Persian Gulf and Libya, ten in Egyptian communications media networks, and three in private firms. He said that the names would be passed on to Egyptian intelligence in the next few days.

Headline: Israeli NGO to sue PA for terrorism

An Israeli civil rights NGO is preparing to sue the Palestinian Authority in the International Criminal Court (ICC) for its alleged responsibility for thousands of terrorist attacks on Israel. "Terrorizing Terror" is the Shurat HaDin - Law Center's tagline for the campaign, meant to deter Palestinian efforts to file lawsuits against Israeli soldiers. The publicity material shows the tagline on top of photographs of Palestinian President Mahmoud Abbas and Hamas Prime Minister Ismayil Haniyeh behind bars. After the United Nations upgraded its status to non-member observer state in late November, the Palestinian Authority hinted its intentions to sue Israelis for alleged war crimes at the ICC in The Hague. Though recent attempts to revive the peace process appear to have halted these efforts, Shurat HaDin started preparing thousands of cases against the Palestinian Authority and its leaders.

Headline: PA leader makes 1st Kuwait visit in 20 years

Palestinian Authority President Mahmoud Abbas made the first visit of a Palestinian leader to Kuwait for more than two decades on Monday, cementing ties soured by late Palestinian leader Yasser Arafat's failure to denounce Iraq's 1990 invasion of the Gulf state. Abbas, due to attend the opening a Palestinian embassy in Kuwait, is trying to rally support in the face of deadlocked peace talks with Israel amid differences over Jewish settlement building in the West Bank. Kuwait was an important supporter and funder of Arafat, who launched his Fatah movement while working in the oil-producing Arab state in 1964. But ties were broken over Arafat's perceived sympathy for Iraqi President Saddam Hussein's decision to occupy his small neighbor.

Headline: Turkey first foreign country to post ambassador in PA

Turkish officials are warning Israel that they should prepare to pay substantial compensation to the families of victims who were killed on the 2010 Mavi Marmara flotilla, and should avoid "horse trading or dirty bargaining," Turkish Hurriyet Daily News reported Monday. An anonymous Turkish diplomat told Hurriyet that "Israel should perfectly know that this is not a process of bargaining. Compensation talks should not be turned into horse trading or dirty bargaining." The source added that he hoped the issue would be solved in coming weeks. "We want to close this issue in one session. Discussing human life for money is not a pleasant thing. This should be concluded in a most appropriate way," the source reportedly said. Meanwhile, the Turkish Huriyet newspaper reported that Turkey has become the first foreign country to post an ambassador in the Palestinian Authority. ## Jordan

Headline: Majority of Jordanians call for end to Syrian refugee influx

A recent poll showed that over 70 per cent of Jordanians believe the government should stop the flow of Syrian refugees to the Kingdom. Over half those surveyed believed that the country is moving in the wrong direction as a result of the increasing flow of refugees, the bad economic situation, and reform failures. According to the results of a poll conducted by the University of Jordan's Centre for Strategic Studies between April 4 and 9, some 52 per cent of the national sample believed that Jordan was not moving in the right direction. This is an increase from previous similar surveys, conducted in October 2012 and February of this year, when the percentage of citizens who felt negatively about Jordanian progress stood at 35 and 40 per cent respectively. Additionally, 44 per cent of the opinion leaders surveyed agree with the national sample, another increase from the previous polls, which stood at 39 per cent in October and 34 per cent in February. A total of 1,200 citizens were interviewed as part of the national sample, along with opinion leaders. Out of those contacted by pollsters, 98 per cent responded. According to the outcome of the poll, economic difficulties remain the main concern for Jordanians, with more than 55 per cent of the national sample considering it a major challenge, and 46 per cent of the opinion leaders agreeing with this opinion.

Headline: Lebanon to issue complaint over Syria border fire

Artillery fire from Syria killed two people and injured at least four others in northeastern Lebanon on Sunday, the Lebanese army and state news agency said. "This afternoon, the border town of Qasr in the Hermel border region came under artillery shell fire from Syrian territory, killing one citizen, injuring three others and damaging several homes," the Lebanese army said in a statement. Shortly afterwards, Lebanon's state NNA news agency reported a second death in the village Hosh Sayyed Ali in the same region. Lebanon on Monday condemned the spillover of fire from Syrian rebel and regime forces onto its territory and said it would protest to the Arab League. The decision comes after two Lebanese citizens were killed by artillery fire from Syria on Sunday. "The safety of every Lebanese citizen and village is the responsibility of the Lebanese state, and any attack from any side is unacceptable," Social Affairs Minister Wael Abu Faour said after a ministerial meeting. He said Lebanon's Foreign Ministry would "undertake all necessary measures and communications to ensure all sides bear their responsibilities and do not repeat such attacks."

Hezbollah is continuing to assist Syrian President Bashar Al-Assad in his fight against the rebels. Over 1,000 members of the Lebanese Shiite terrorist group entered Syria in the past few days via waterways in the Mediterranean Sea, the Saudi daily Al-Watan reported on Sunday. According to the report, around 1,200 fighters arrived at Syria's Tartus port in order to fight alongside regime troops. The armed members who arrived from Lebanon to Syria committed "a hideous crime" in the town of Talkalkh, the daily said, adding that tens of thousands of fighters entered from Iraq to aid the Syrian regime. Meanwhile, The UN's special coordinator to Lebanon met Monday with Hezbollah International Relations Department chief Sayyed Ammar Moussawi Monday to discuss developments in Lebanon and the region.

Egypt

Headline: Egypt summons Canadian envoy over FM's E. Jerusalem visit

Egypt's foreign ministry summoned Canada's charge d'affaires in Cairo on Monday over Foreign Minister John Baird's controversial visit to annexed east Jerusalem to meet an Israeli minister. The foreign ministry expressed its "astonishment" at Baird's visit and demanded "a clarification of the reasons for convening the meeting in the occupied capital of Palestine," it said in a statement. Baird's meeting with Israeli Justice Minister Tzipi Livni last week could be seen as "partial recognition of Israel's illegal attempts to annex east Jerusalem and consider it part of Israel's capital," the statement added. Baird met Livni, lead peace negotiator in Israel's cabinet, at her office in east Jerusalem last Tuesday, in a move normally avoided by visiting diplomats because it could be seen as legitimising Israel's controversial annexation. According to Israeli media, Baird did so deliberately to set a "precedent."

Jeremiah 49:24-27

New King James Version (NKJV)

24 Damascus has grown feeble;
She turns to flee,
And fear has seized her.
Anguish and sorrows have taken her like a woman in labor.
25 Why is the city of praise not deserted, the city of My joy?
26 Therefore her young men shall fall in her streets,
And all the men of war shall be cut off in that day," says the LORD of hosts.
27 "I will kindle a fire in the wall of Damascus,
And it shall consume the palaces of Ben-Hadad."<sup>[a]</sup>

The burden of Damascus. Behold, Damascus is taken away from being a city, and it shall be a ruinous heap.

Headline: Syria warplanes pound Damascus

At least 25 people, many of them children, have been killed in two Syrian government air strikes, activists say. The UK-based Syrian Observatory For Human Rights (SOHR) said one strike hit a rebellious Damascus suburb, killing at least nine children. It said a second targeted rebel-held areas in the Kurdish-majority Hasaka province, killing at least 16 people. Human rights groups accuse the Syrian government of targeting civilians. The air strike in Damascus hit the suburb of Qaboun, which has been a frequent battle ground between the Syrian military, loyal to President Bashar al-Assad, and rebel forces intent on overthrowing him. The strikes in Hasaka province targeted rebel-held areas around the village of Haddad.

Headline: Syria rebels slam Al Nusra over Al Qaeda pledge

A decision by the head of the jihadist Al Nusra Front to pledge allegiance to Al Qaeda chief Ayman Al Zawahiri has prompted unprecedented criticism from some of Syria's Islamist rebel brigades.

Until now, rebels had sought to bury their differences with Al Nusra, reluctant to jeopardise ties with a force that is militarily superior to most of the country's rebel factions. But an announcement this week by Al-Qaeda in Iraq, claiming Al Nusra as part of its network, and a pledge of allegiance from Al Nusra's chief to Zawahiri have prompted rare direct and public criticism. "When we in Syria launched our jihad [holy war] against the sectarian regime... we did not do so for the sake of any allegiance to a man here or another there," the Syrian Islamic Liberation Front, an umbrella group of rebel brigades, said in a statement on Thursday. It criticised the announcement from Al Qaeda in Iraq, accusing the group of seeking to "impose a state on us without consulting us, led by an emir we did not choose or even hear of except through media outlets". "Pledging allegiance to someone who does not understand our reality does not serve our people or nation," the group added.

Headline: Assad's forces break rebel blockade in north Syria

Headline: Syrian activists: 40 Hezbollah, regime fighters killed in Homs clashes

Syrian government troops have broken through a six-month rebel blockade in northern Syria and are now fighting to recapture a vital highway, opposition and state media said on Monday. Rebels had kept the army bottled up in the Wadi al-Deif and Hamidiya military bases in Idlib province. But on Sunday, President Bashar al-Assad's forces outflanked the rebels and broke through, the pro-government al-Baath newspaper said. The insurgents counter-attacked on Monday but their front has been weakened in recent weeks due to infighting and the deployment of forces to other battles, activists said. The break-out from the bases, located outside Maarat al-Nuaman town, may enable the army to recapture the main route into Aleppo, Syria's largest city, and bolster their fragile supply lines in the heart of the rebel-held north.

Iran: Jeremiah 49:34-39

*“Thus says the LORD of hosts: ‘Behold, I will break the bow of Elam, The foremost of their might. <sup>36</sup> Against Elam I will bring the four winds From the four quarters of heaven, And scatter them toward all those winds; There shall be no nations where the outcasts of Elam will not go. <sup>37</sup> For I will cause Elam to be dismayed before their enemies And before those who seek their life. Headline: Iran warns of World War III

The Iranian Army announced on Saturday the successful testing of three new missiles, the Iranian Fars News Agency reported. The army revealed no details about the weapons, but did say that they were different from the Naze'at 10 and Fajr missiles that Iran has in its arsenal. The report stated that the Fajr-5 has a range of 75 km. which is a longer range than the medium range Naze'at 10. The three types of missile were developed by the Army and Defense Industries and were test fired in the ground forces recent war-games, Lieutenant Commander of the Iranian Army's Ground Force Gen. Kioumars Heydari told Fars on Saturday. The army's missile and rocket units test fired the missiles on the first day of the ground drills being held in Kashan in Isfahan Province "to display their latest achievements and defensive tactics," Fars reported. Meanwhile, Iran ratcheted up its vitriol against Israel and the United States over the weekend, warning that an attack on the Islamic regime's nuclear facilities could lead to global war. The rhetoric eerily matched that currently coming out of North Korea against its perceived enemies.

Headline: Bombs kill more than 30 across Iraq before local poll

Car bombs and blasts in cities across Iraq, including two explosions at a checkpoint outside Baghdad's international airport, killed at least 33 people on Monday days before provincial elections. No one claimed responsibility for the attacks in Baghdad, Kirkuk, Tuz Khurmato and other towns to the north to south, but al Qaeda's local wing is waging a campaign against Shi'ites and the government to stoke sectarian confrontation. Iraqis will vote on Saturday for members of provincial councils in a ballot that is seen as a test of political stability since the last U.S. troops withdrew in December 2011. The ballot for nearly 450 provincial council seats will also be an important measure of Shi'ite Prime Minister Nuri al-Maliki's political muscle against his Sunni and Shi'ite rivals before a parliamentary election in 2014. A dozen candidates have already been killed so far in campaigning, including two moderate Sunni politicians over the weekend.

Headline: Obama to meet with Putin in Russia in September

President Barack Obama will meet with Russian President Vladimir Putin in September when he travels to Russia for the G20 summit, the White House said on Monday. The United States is pressing Russia to use its influence to help reduce tensions with North Korea. Washington and Moscow are also at odds over the civil war in Syria. The announcement of the September meeting came after Obama's national security adviser Tom Donilon held discussions with Putin and other leaders during a trip to Russia. Those talks covered "the full range of bilateral and global issues in preparation for the meeting between President Obama and President Putin on the margins of the G8 Summit and a U.S. - Russia bilateral summit in early September," White House spokeswoman Caitlin Hayden said in a statement. "The discussions were comprehensive and constructive," she said. The White House has previously announced that Obama and Putin would meet together at the G8 summit in June in Northern Ireland. The September meeting would be their second this year.

Headline: Anti-euro party officially launched in Germany

A new party calling for the dissolution of the eurozone held its founding congress in Berlin on Sunday (14 April), hoping to capitalise on disillusioned voters in the September elections. Around 1,500 delegates gathered early Sunday morning in Hotel Intercontinental in former West Berlin - so many that the organisers had to book an extra conference room. All the participants believe that the euro is a doomed project that should be ended soon for the benefit of all the single currency countries. "We take pride in being called populists. There is something like a free speech police here in Germany saying there is no alternative to the euro. We are the alternative now, Alternative for Germany," Konrad Adam, an ex-journalist and co-founder of the new party said in the opening speech, often interrupted by standing ovations.

Headline: North Koreans mark major national holiday amid missile launch fears
North Korea on Sunday dismissed Seoul's offer of dialogue as a "cunning gimmick," darkening hopes for defused tension and normalizing the suspended joint industrial park anytime soon. President Park Geun-hye proposed talks with Pyongyang on Thursday to resolve the dispute over the Gaeseong industrial complex sparked by the North's ban on South Koreans' entry and withdrawal of its workers. The North's propaganda agency responded that the overture was an "empty shell" intended "to conceal (South Korea's) confrontational identity," "It is too brazen for those who have been engrossed in nuclear war games and fratricidal confrontation plots to mention dialogue without saying a word about apologies or their responsibilities," Pyongyang's Committee for the Peaceful Reunification of Korea said in a statement carried by the official Korean Central News Agency. The agency demanded the South give up its “hostile attitude” if it wants talks. “Whether the dialogue is realized depends on the attitude of the South Korean government,” it added.

Headline: US Offers Direct Talks to North Korea

U.S. Secretary of State John Kerry has dangled the option of direct talks before North Korea, in exchange for Pyongyang dropping its nuclear ambitions -- primarily, its threat to rain nuclear destruction upon America. Kerry made the offer during a meeting Sunday with a small group of journalists in Tokyo as he wrapped up a nine-day Asian tour, according to McClatchy.

“We are prepared to reach out, but we need an appropriate moment, appropriate circumstance,” Kerry said. Kerry told reporters he would not rule out back-channel talks via Chinese leaders, nor direct negotiations – but in either case, the U.S. first wanted to see a commitment from North Korea towards ending its nuclear technology program.

Headline: H7N9 Bird Flu Cases Jump To 60 In China; Shanghai Reports Two New Deaths

Two people in the central Chinese province of Henan have been infected by a new strain of avian influenza, the first cases found in the region, while the death toll has risen to 13 from a total of 60 infections after two more deaths in Shanghai. One of the Henan victims, a 34-year old man in the city of Kaifeng, is now critically ill in hospital, while the other, a 65-year old farmer from Zhoukou, is stable. The two cases do not appear to be connected. A total of 19 people in close contact with the two new victims were under observation but had shown no signs of infection, state news agency Xinhua said. Another four cases have been confirmed in eastern Zhejiang, Xinhua said on Sunday, bringing the total number in the province to 15. None of the 483 people in close contact with the victims has presented any symptoms. Three more victims were identified in Shanghai, China's business hub, bringing the total number of cases in the city to 24, with a total of nine deaths, state media said. Three cases have now been reported outside the original clusters in eastern China, including one in the capital Beijing, but there is nothing out of the ordinary so far, the China representative of the World Health Organization said. "There's no way to predict how it'll spread but it's not surprising if we have new cases in different places like we do in Beijing," Michael O'Leary told reporters. On Saturday, the China Centre for Disease Control and Prevention confirmed that a seven year-old child in the capital of Beijing had been infected by the H7N9 bird flu virus, the first case to be reported outside of the Yangtze river delta region in east China, where the new strain emerged last month.

Headline: Florida battles slimy invasion by giant snails

South Florida is fighting a growing infestation of one of the world's most destructive invasive species: the giant African land snail, which can grow as big as a rat and gnaw through stucco and plaster. More than 1,000 of the mollusks are being caught each week in Miami-Dade and 117,000 in total since the first snail was spotted by a homeowner in September 2011, said Denise Feiber, a spokeswoman for the Florida Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services. Residents will soon likely begin encountering them more often, crunching them underfoot as the snails emerge from underground hibernation at the start of the state's rainy season in just seven weeks, Feiber said. The snails attack "over 500 known species of plants ... pretty much anything that's in their path and green," Feiber said.

"Now the Spirit expressly says that in latter times some will depart from the faith, giving heed to deceiving spirits and doctrines of demons, <sup>2</sup> speaking lies in hypocrisy, having their own conscience seared with a hot iron, <sup>3</sup> forbidding to marry, and commanding to abstain from foods which God created to be received with thanksgiving by those who believe and know the truth." (1 Timothy)

"Behold, the days are coming," says the Lord GOD, "That I will send a famine on the land, Not a famine of bread, Nor a thirst for water, But of hearing the words of the LORD." (Amos)

"For this reason God gave them up to vile passions. For even their women exchanged the natural use for what is against nature. Likewise also the men, leaving the natural use of the woman, burned in their lust for one another, men with men committing what is shameful and receiving in themselves the penalty of their error which was due"(Romans)

Headline: French Upper House Backs Same-Sex Marriage Law

The French Senate voted Friday to legalize same-sex marriage in France, putting a landmark bill on track to become law by summer. The vote in the upper house of Parliament — led by President Francois Hollande's Socialists — comes despite boisterous protests. Opponents, mostly conservatives and fervent Roman Catholics, have sought to defend traditional marriage. France's justice minister, one of the bill's loudest supporters, said the reform recognizes that many children are already living with same-sex parents and deserve the same protections afforded children of opposite-sex parents. "These are children that scrape their knees, eat too much candy, don't like broccoli, drive you crazy . . . we protect them," Christine Taubira told senators following the vote. The justice minister said the reform will "move our institutions towards ever more freedom, equality and personal respect."

Headline: Rebel group vows revenge for attacks on Christians

A rebel group in southern Nigeria says it will avenge the killings of Christians in northern Nigeria by the radical Islamist group Boko Haram. The Movement for Emancipation of Niger Delta will attack mosques, Islamic institutions and some clerics in what the group called "Operation Barbarosa," the Nigerian Tribune reported Monday. In a statement "on behalf of the hapless Christian population in Nigeria," the movement said it would start "a crusade to save Christianity in Nigeria from annihilation." The group said it would bomb "mosques, hajj camps, Islamic institutions, large congregations in Islamic events" and assassinate "clerics that propagates doctrines of hate." The bombings would begin May 31, the statement said.

A brilliant ball of flame streaked across the sky above the Spanish capital Madrid, dazzling stargazers and astronomers alike. The celestial display was so bright it could be seen across the entire country.

The eye-popping moment was caught on camera by the Hita Observatory at the University of Huelva at around 11:45pm local time (2145 GMT). The object struck the atmosphere above the Villamuélas district in the province of Toledo, southwest of Madrid. "The impact was so abrupt that the object immediately caught fire, creating a ball of flame around 100 kilometers above the Earth," Jose Maria Madiedo of the University of Huelva told the Huffington Post. The meteor then shot towards Madrid at over 75,000 kilometers an hour before disintegrating completely at an altitude of 70 kilometers. The Spanish Institution for the Study of Meteors and Meteorites, which tracked the fireball, classified the meteorite as a piece of a comet that was flying by Earth.

Headline: Sun unleashes biggest solar flare of the year yet

The most powerful solar flare of the year erupted from the sun Thursday, April 11, sparking a temporary radio blackout on Earth, NASA officials say. The solar flare occurred at 3:16 a.m. EDT (0716 GMT) and registered as a M6.5-class sun storm, a relatively mid-level flare on the scale of solar tempests. It coincided with an eruption of super-hot solar plasma known as a coronal mass ejection. "This is the strongest flare seen so far in 2013," NASA spokeswoman Karen Fox explained in a statement. "Increased numbers of flares are quite common at the moment, since the sun's normal 11-year cycle is ramping up toward solar maximum, which is expected in late 2013."

A strong earthquake shook Japan today near the southwestern city of Kobe, leaving 23 people injured, seven of them seriously - mostly elderly tripping while trying to flee, police said. No one was killed. The magnitude - 6.3 quake left some homes with rooftop tiles broken and cracked walls, while goods fell off store shelves, according to the Meteorological Agency and Japanese TV news footage. The earthquake was centered on Awaji Island, just south of Kobe, at a depth of 15 kilometres. The quake was in the area where a magnitude-7.2 temblor killed more than 6,400 people in 1995. TV news footage showed that some areas of the island had liquefied, a common effect of strong earthquakes. The agency warned there may be aftershocks for about a week.

A 6.6 magnitude earthquake struck 46 miles west of Bougainville island in Papua New Guinea on Sunday but there were no immediate reports of damage. The quake, originally registered at 6.7 magnitude, was 40 miles deep. "Although anything at less than 100 km (62 miles) depth is considered shallow, we're not expecting anything major from this," said David Jepsen, senior seismologist at Geoscience Australia. "It's nothing like the quake we had there in February."

The Arab Spring in Prophecy

(Perilous Times Luke 21:9 & Nation against Nation, Kingdom against Kingdom Matt.24:7)
(Revelation 6:3-4 Revelation 6:8)

"For nation shall rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom.
There will be earthquakes in various places, and there will be famines and sedition; these are the beginning of the labor pains."

Mark 13:8

CIVIL UNREST

Luke 21:9 and Matthew 24:7 speak of nation against nation and kingdom against kingdom in the end times. Revelation 6:3-4 speaks of the fiery red horse given power to make men slay one another and Revelation 6:8 speaks again of this red horse in conjunction with the pale horse of Death and Hades, as the one that has the power to kill by sword. I like to call this "The Arab Spring in Prophecy" because for us it is easy to identify- that's what the world calls it.

Luke 21:9: wars & commotions; the Greek word here is Akatastasia, meaning instability, a state of disorder, disturbance, confusion (revolutions)

Matthew 24:7: the Greek word for nation is Ethnos & refers to various ethnic groups fighting among themselves, where the next sentence in the verse refers to kingdoms (basileiva) fighting one another (not to be confused with an actual kingdom but rather the right or authority to rule over a kingdom) I have tried to separate it into areas that sweep EAST from the point of North America.

***The Muslim Brotherhood has taken over other countries with the sword. Here this country is being given to them on a platter. Who would do such a thing knowing what we do about the Muslim brotherhood from their very recent history in this world. Just watch and listen to the news of the middle east. The old adage is this "Do not pay attention to what one says but rather what one does". This holds true in all things from our President to the Muslim Brotherhood. I do not see much difference in the two. Hand and glove or should I say hand and gauntlet. Given time - a liar will reveal himself in his actions - all you have to do is to give him enough rope to hang himself and pay attention while he does it and react before he hangs you. It is like a creeping cancer. Look at what is happening to Europe right now concerning the Muslim encroachment and the replacement of English Law. Look at the U.K. - France - Germany - Italy etc. Dual Law systems in the same country ie; Sharia and English law side by side for the very time being soon to be only Sharia. So it goes there and so it will come here the same way - from the inside.

Headline: Clashes in C.Africa leave over a dozen dead: officials

More than a dozen people were killed in weekend clashes between residents and fighters from the Seleka rebel coalition that seized power in Central Africa last month, according to medical and police sources and witnesses. Twelve people were killed in one area of the capital, several witnesses told AFP, while a source from the Red Cross said four had died in another part of Bangui, and three more elsewhere in the city. Police added that the clashes erupted as Seleka members were searching for weapons among residents. "We don't have all the details on the victims but after what we saw and the information we get from other medical sources there are close to 20 dead," said a source at a Bangui hospital morgue. Police said that according to first reports at their disposal and those provided by the Red Cross there were "nearly 20 dead and dozens of wounded", adding that the toll could rise. Witnesses contacted by AFP gave 12 dead in the capital's seventh district where mayor Joseph Tagbalet was among the wounded and taken to hospital. The shootings led residents to flee across the Oubangui river to neighbouring Congo.

Headline: Suicide raid, car bomb kill 34 civilians in Mogadishu

A nine-man suicide commando blasted its way into Mogadishu's main court complex Sunday, some blowing up their explosives vests while others sprayed gunfire in a rampage that left 29 civilians dead, while a separate bomb attack killed five more. The Al Qaeda-linked Shebab militant group claimed responsibility for the courthouse attack, from which Somalia's chief justice escaped unharmed.

It was the worst day of violence the capital has seen in months. 'The African Union force, the Somalia national army and local police have cleared the building. The latest figures indicate that there are 29 killed civilians, nine dead Shebab militants and 58 people injured,' a security officer told AFP on condition of anonymity. Interior Minister Abdikarin Hussein Guled said all the attackers were killed in the courthouse raid. 'Six detonated themselves, and three were shot dead by security forces,' he told reporters, adding that the government had regained control of the situation. The UN special representative to Somalia, Augustine Mahiga, said he was 'shocked and outraged' by the deadly attacks.

Headline: Chad Withdrawing Soldiers from Mali

Chad has begun withdrawing its troops from Mali, where for months they have helped battle Islamist militants in the country's north. Chad's President Idriss Deby said his troops have "accomplished their mission" and are not able to fight the type of guerrilla war now emerging in Mali. After France, Chad's 2,000 troops were the most sent by any nation to help Malian forces reclaim the northern part of the country. France pulled out 100 soldiers last week in the first step of its phased withdrawal. Three Chadian soldiers died in a suicide bombing last week in northern Mali, while 13 others were killed in battling militants in February. A U.N. force of up to 11,000 troops is expected to take over security while efforts are made to stabilize Mali and hold new elections.

Headline: Youth opposition takes responsibility for Bahrain car blast

A Bahraini youth opposition group has claimed responsibility for a car bomb explosion in the capital Manama just days ahead of the Formula One Grand Prix. The youth February 14 Movement claimed responsibility for the blast in a statement on its Twitter account, saying its aim was to disrupt "activity in Manama's financial centre in opposition to holding the Formula One race". The blast came as police fired tear gas and sound bombs to disperse protesters chanting "No, no to F1" in several villages around the capital on Sunday. Over the past few days, thousands of Bahrainis have taken to the streets across the country to express opposition to the sporting event. Bahrainis say Formula One's governing body, the FIA, should cancel the event in Bahrain over the ongoing crackdown by the Al Khalifa regime on the peaceful protests.
