ISRAEL

(Zech.12:3 & 9 - The Burdensome Stone)

The Battle for Jerusalem Begins

The Beis Hamikdash (Temple) Revealion 11:1-2 & Daniel 9:27

Headline: Police Bar Jews from Temple Mount As Muslims Threaten More Riots

Police barred Jews from entering the Temple Mount on Thursday, after Muslim groups threatened violence in the wake of a plan to bring Jewish children to visit the site. The plan, organized by groups encouraging Jewish visits to the Mount, was meant to be an educational program that would demonstrate rituals associated with the Temple, such as the bringing of bikurim ("First Fruits", the gift to the Temple brought on Shavuot). Over the past few days, chatter on Islamic web sites indicated that the groups would be met by rioters. Instead of seeking to defuse the situation or defend the groups of visiting children, police chose to capitulate to the threats, and announced that they were closing the Mount to all non-Moslems out of "concern for public safety." The decision came only a little while before the tour was set to begin, at 8:30, and after dozens of children and their families – many coming from far distances – had already gathered at the Kotel.

Headline: UN: Ban presses Netanyahu over Jerusalem holy sites

UN leader Ban Ki-moon has expressed concern to Israel's Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu over restricting access to holy sites in East Jerusalem, a UN spokesman said Thursday. Ban spoke with Netanyahu and Palestinian president Mahmud Abbas on efforts to relaunch the deadlocked peace process, said deputy UN spokesman Eduardo del Buey. Ban pressed Netanyahu after several days of troubles in East Jerusalem. Police on Thursday closed the flashpoint Al-Aqsa mosque compound to non-Muslim visitors in what they said was an effort to end recent Palestinian unrest. Police used stun grenades and water cannons on Wednesday against Palestinians who hurled rocks during protests for the anniversary of Israel's foundation in 1948. "Regarding recent tensions in East Jerusalem, and more particularly restrictions of access to Muslim and Christian holy sites, the secretary general conveyed his concerns to the Israeli authorities," said del Buey. Ban urged Israel "to abide by its obligations under international humanitarian law. "The secretary general stressed to both leaders the importance of respect for the religious freedom of all, and that worshippers of all faiths should have access to their holy sites," the spokesman said.

Headline: Abbas meets Morsi; slam settlement construction

Palestinian President Mahmoud Abbas has met with Egyptian President Mohammed Morsi in Cairo. The two discussed ways to renew peace talks between the Palestinians and Israelis, as well as the internal Palestinian reconciliation between Fatah and Hamas. The two issued a joint condemnation of Israel's continued settlement construction and the "ongoing assault on Jerusalem's holy sites."

Headline: Report: Israel warns Syria to stop sending arms to Hezbollah

A senior Israeli official signaled on Wednesday that Israel was considering further military strikes on Syria to stop the transfer of advanced weapons to Islamist Hizbullah – and warned President Bashar Assad against any kind of retaliation against the Jewish state. The New York Times quoted the Israeli official who said, "Israel is determined to continue to prevent the transfer of advanced weapons to Hizbullah. The transfer of such weapons to Hizbullah will destabilize and endanger the entire region." "If Syrian President Assad reacts by attacking Israel, or tries to strike Israel through his terrorist proxies," the official said, "he will risk forfeiting his regime, for Israel will retaliate."

Russian President Vladimir Putin and Prime Minister Netanyahu ended their three-hour meeting in Sochi Tuesday, May 14, at loggerheads on Syria. In fact, Putin warned his guest that Israel and its army, the IDF, were heading for war with Syria in which Russia might well be involved – and not just through the advanced S-300 anti-air missiles supplied to the Assad government. The Israeli prime minister countered with a warning that Israel would continue to strike advanced weapons in Syria that were destined for Hizballah. And if President Bashar Assad hit back for Israel's May 5 bombardment of weapons stores on Mount Qassioun near Damascus, Israel would intensify its bombardments of Syrian military targets and weapons until Assad was left to fight off rebel assaults empty-handed. Putin rejected this threat as implausible. Wednesday, the day after Netanyahu's trip to Sochi, Jibril's group let loose with mortar fire on the Israeli Mt. Hermon ski site, firing from a Syrian army position. Israeli military sources confirmed later that these were no stray shells from a Syrian-army-rebel battle as in former cases, but a deliberate attack. In Jerusalem, it was taken as a direct consequence of Moscow's account to Assad of the conversation between the Russian and Israeli leaders. They concluded that Assad took it for granted that he was now at liberty to go on the offensive against Israel. Meanwhile, an unknown Palestinian group named the "Halal Abd al-Qader al-Husseini" claimed to have fired on Wednesday rockets at an Israeli observation point in the Golan Heights to mark Nakba Day.

Headline: Majority of MPs call for no confidence vote in government

More than half of the Lower House members have signed an official request calling for a vote of no confidence, accusing the government of “neglecting their demands”, a parliamentary source said on Wednesday. The source told The Jordan Times that these deputies are not happy with what they describe as a failure by Prime Minister Abdullah Ensour to honour a pledge to include parliamentarians in his Cabinet in the near future. On Sunday, 87 deputies in the 150-strong Lower House signed the petition to have the vote of no confidence, stating that the government has failed to respond to their unanimous decision on Wednesday to expel the Israeli ambassador from Amman to protest Israeli practices in occupied Jerusalem. But the parliamentary source said the issue of giving ministerial portfolios to deputies is also a main reason for the vote of no confidence request.

Headline: Jordan says following Al Aqsa violations with ‘great concern’

Headline: UN: Ban presses Netanyahu over Jerusalem holy sites

The government on Wednesday said provocative and unilateral Israeli measures in East Jerusalem and specifically against Al Aqsa Mosque must stop, adding that it has several options it can consider in order to protect Islamic sites in the holy city. Addressing a press conference yesterday, Minister of State for Media Affairs and Communications Mohammad Momani expressed the government’s concern over the escalation in Israeli violations in East Jerusalem, adding that the Foreign Ministry is following up on the situation in the holy city through Jordan’s embassy in Tel Aviv. In a related development, the government condemned in a statement carried by the Jordan News Agency, Petra, an Israeli decision to demolish supplements to two Jerusalem mosques. The statement said that Israel’s plan to remove the expansions to Mohammad the Conqueror Mosque in Bab Al Amoud and Khalid Bin Al Waleed in Hai Al Tur is completely illegitimate because Israel is an occupation force that has no authority over waqf buildings in the city. “Last week, acting Foreign Minister Hussein Majali summoned the Israeli ambassador and handed him a letter to give to his government that contained strong words of protest with regards to the developments at Al Aqsa and unacceptable Israeli behaviour,” Momani told The Jordan Times. “The Israeli ambassador returned to Israel immediately after his meeting with Majali,” Momani said, adding that Jordan will not tolerate any more Israeli violations in East Jerusalem.

Headline: Hezbollah to open 'new front' in Golan Heights

Iran has convinced Syria to allow Hezbollah to open a "new front" against Israel in the Golan Heights, the London-based Arabic-language newspaper al-Hayat reported Wednesday. Tehran, seeking to prevent the fall of Syrian President Bashar Assad's government, asked Damascus if Hezbollah could set up a new military front against Israel in the Golan. "All Arabs and Muslims" are requested to join the fight against Israel, Tehran said, according to Israel Radio. The report comes a week after Hezbollah leader Hassan Nasrallah vowed to respond to Jerusalem's ostensible aggression against Syria with the help of Syria's advanced "game-changing" weapons. The next stage, he warned during a speech, would be opening up a front on the Golan Heights. The Palestinian newspaper al-Quds also reported Wednesday that Tehran had persuaded Damascus "to open the door to jihad" in the Golan Heights in an effort enable Arab and Muslim fighters to unite and confront Israel, so that they're "ready" if Israel strikes Syria again. According to unnamed Israeli and American sources, Israeli planes struck sites outside Damascus twice during the first weekend in May, targeting weapons transfers from Iran to Hezbollah. The Syrian regime warned a few days later that it would retaliate immediately to future Israeli attacks on its soil.

Headline: The imminent Hezbollah-Nusra war

The Syrian Salafist group Jabhat Al-Nusra declared in Jordan that it has set the confrontation with Hezbollah militants in Syria as a top priority. Jordan-based al-Qaeda-affiliate Mohammad Al Shalabi, alias Abi Syyaf, said that Jabhat al-Nusra has taken a decision to fight Hezbollah militants, who have become "our Jihadists' main target" across Syria. This came after Hezbollah's secretary general Hassan Nasrallah declared last week that Hezbollah will stand by Syria and helps it become a state of resistance. He announced that Hezbollah is ready to receive any sort of qualitative weapons even if it is going to disrupt the regional balance. For the Syrian rebels, al-Nusra and others, this is a declaration of war against them, knowing that what Nasrallah really means is that Hezbollah is now in charge of Syria, upon Iran's decision. Hezbollah and Iran are running the show and if the Syrian rebels want to prevail, they need to target Hezbollah, not Assad or the Syrian regime. Assad has been pushed to the background to make way for Hezbollah. Therefore, it is not strange that Al-Nusra has decided to shift its priority to fighting Hezbollah as its main enemy.

Headline: 7 Egyptian security personnel abducted in Sinai

Headline: Egypt's Morsi holds crisis talks over kidnappings

Suspected militants in Egypt's Sinai abducted seven security personnel as they headed to Cairo for holidays early Thursday, security officials said. It was the first such kidnapping of security forces in the lawless peninsula. The officials said masked gunmen ambushed two taxis at gunpoint outside the city of el-Arish, the capital of North Sinai governorate, fleeing with five policemen and one border guard captive. None of those abducted were in uniform, officials said. Four of the policemen work in the Rafah border terminal leading to the Gaza Strip, and one was in a riot police unit deployed in Sinai. The border guard was a member of the military. The taxi drivers reported that a seventh member of the security forces was also kidnapped, but authorities said they are still trying to identify him. Security in the Sinai has deteriorated sharply in the two years since the overthrow of longtime authoritarian ruler Hosni Mubarak, as it has elsewhere across the country. A surge in crime as well as clashes between Islamist backers of President Mohammed Morsi and his opponents have combined with economic woes to feed the sense of insecurity.

Jeremiah 49:24-27

New King James Version (NKJV)

- 24 Damascus has grown feeble;
She turns to flee,
And fear has seized her.
Anguish and sorrows have taken her like a woman in labor.
- 25 Why is the city of praise not deserted, the city of My joy?
- 26 Therefore her young men shall fall in her streets,
And all the men of war shall be cut off in that day," says the LORD of hosts.
- 27 "I will kindle a fire in the wall of Damascus,
And it shall consume the palaces of Ben-Hadad."^[a]

The burden of Damascus. Behold, Damascus is taken away from being a city, and it shall be a ruinous heap.

Rebel fighters battled regime troops inside the walls of the sprawling central prison compound in Syria's largest city Wednesday, hours after blowing open the gate with twin car bombs in an attempted jailbreak, activists said. The orchestrated assault began at dawn, but by nightfall, the rebels had not dislodged regime forces or freed some 4,000 prisoners held there, according to two pro-opposition monitoring groups. Across Syria, the Internet was restored after a blackout of more than eight hours, the second nationwide outage in a week. Syria's Communications Ministry blamed a rebel bombing which it said cut a cable north of the capital of Damascus but gave no details. Earlier, the state news agency SANA had linked the outage to a technical problem. At the United Nations, the General Assembly voted 107-12 with 59 abstentions to approve an Arab-backed resolution calling for a political transition in Syria and condemning President Bashar Assad's regime for "gross violations" of human rights.

Headline: Iran tracking U.S.-headed anti-mine exercise in Gulf

Iran has been closely monitoring the U.S.-led naval exercise in the Gulf. The U.S. Navy has reported both Iranian air and surface vessel reconnaissance of the current International Mine Countermeasures Exercise, which began operations on May 12. Officers said Iran's Islamic Revolutionary Guard Corps was sending small fast attack craft to test the U.S. and other naval vessels. "Iran sure is curious of this major defense exercise underway in international waters," Capt. Jon Rodgers, commander of the USS Ponce, said. Iran has warned Gulf Cooperation Council states against joining the exercise or supporting U.S. Navy missions in the Gulf. IMCMEX-13, which includes 40 countries, has maintained headquarters in Bahrain, host of the Navy's Fifth Fleet. Rodgers said one IRGC vessel came close to a U.S. Navy warship during the exercise in mid-May. The officer said the IRGC was monitoring the Ponce, used as a so-called Afloat Forward Staging Base, designed to support mine-sweeping operations.

Headline: Car bombs in Iraq kill at least 17

At least 34 people have been killed in series of bomb attacks across Iraq, several of which targeted mainly Shia districts of Baghdad, officials say. Eleven blasts in the space of an hour in the capital left 23 people dead and more than 100 others injured. Bomb attacks also killed at least 10 people in the northern city of Kirkuk. Iraq has seen a sharp increase in sectarian violence in recent weeks amid growing tension between minority Sunni Arabs and the Shia-led government. Although the violence is less deadly than that seen during the heights of the insurgency in 2006 and 2007, it is the most widespread since the US military withdrawal in 2011. More than 700 people were killed in April.

Headline: Despite US objection, Erdogan to travel to Gaza, West Bank

US President Barack Obama hosted Turkish Prime Minister Recep Tayyip Erdogan at the White House Thursday and noted that US and Turkey had a "shared interest in peace," stressing the two nations' desire to "normalize ties with Israel." The US president added that he and the Turkish prime minister were to "keep working for a Syria that is free from Assad tyranny." In regards to "ending this bloody process in Syria," Erdogan noted that Turkey and the US were in "full agreement."

In regards to war in Syria, the Turkish prime minister added he was interested in speeding "things up in a way that would prevent the death of more people," adding that his aim was to end tyranny in the war-torn country and promote democracy. Obama said there was evidence of chemical weapons use in Syria but that it was important to get "more specific information" to confirm that before deciding how to respond. The Turkish prime minister also said that he intended to go ahead with a planned trip to the Gaza Strip in June despite US Secretary of State John Kerry's request that the Turkish leader postpone his visit to the Palestinian Authority, fearing that such a visit might endanger US efforts to revive Turkey's ties with Israel and to advance Middle East peace talks. "I place a lot of significance on this visit in terms of peace in the Middle East," Erdogan said, adding that he also planned to visit the West Bank on that trip.

Headline: Turkish police clash with students protesting car bombings

Turkish police on Wednesday fired tear gas and used water cannons to disperse hundreds of students demonstrating in Ankara against government policies they say resulted in last weekend's deadly twin bombings. Some 300 students hurled stones at the police as they vowed that those behind the car bombs in Reyhanli, near the Syrian border, "will pay a price" and demanded the resignation of Foreign Minister Ahmet Davutoglu. The attacks on Saturday, the deadliest in Turkey in years, killed at least 51 people and increased fears that the two-year conflict in Syria was dragging in neighboring states. Turkey has blamed a radical Marxist group affiliated with President Bashar al-Assad's regime for the attack. Damascus has denied involvement. The bombings have raised questions over the government's Syria policy with critics accusing Ankara of becoming a rear base for rebels and extremists fighting to topple Assad's regime, drawing the ire of Damascus.

Headline: Attack on U.S. Military Vehicles Kills at Least 16 in Kabul Afghanistan

A Toyota Corolla packed with explosives rammed a pair of American military vehicles in the Afghan capital, Kabul, on Thursday, setting off a blast that killed at least 16 people, including 6 American military advisers, and shook the relative calm that has prevailed for months in the city, Afghan officials said. The explosion was powerful enough to rattle windows across Kabul. It left bodies strewn along the street and one of the American vehicles — an armored Chevrolet Suburban that weighed nearly five tons — lying in ruins more than 30 feet from the blast site. Hezb-i-Islami, a relatively small insurgent faction that often competes with the Taliban for influence, claimed responsibility for the attack, which also wounded more than three dozen Afghans. Haroon Zarghon, the group's spokesman, reached by telephone in Pakistan, said the bombing was carried out by a 24-year-old man who had grown up south of Kabul. More attacks against Americans will come soon, Mr. Zarghon added, saying that Hezb-i-Islami was dismayed by the current talks between Afghanistan and the United States about a long-term security deal under which thousands of American soldiers could be based in Afghanistan for years to come.

Headline: France's Hollande says wants euro zone government

France has entered its second recession in four years after the economy shrank by 0.2% in the first quarter of the year, official figures show. Its economy shrank by the same amount in the last quarter of 2012. President Francois Hollande has said he expects zero growth in 2013, lower than a 0.1% growth forecast by the French government. Separate figures showed that the recession across the 17-nation eurozone has continued into a sixth quarter. A recession is defined as two consecutive quarters of negative growth. The economy of the 17-nation bloc shrank by 0.2% in the January to March period, according to the EU's statistics office Eurostat, with nine of its members now in recession. Within the zone, France has record unemployment and low business and consumer confidence. Meanwhile, French President Francois Hollande called on Thursday for an economic government for the euro zone that would have its own budgetary capacity, a harmonized tax system and a president. Speaking at a news conference marking his first year in power, he said France wanted to create a full political European Union within two years.

The eurozone economy continues to shrink as Germany's economy grew by a meagre 0.1 percent in the past three months, while France slid back into recession, according to data from the EU statistics office Eurostat published on Wednesday (15 May). Shrinking by 0.2 percent in the first three months of 2013, the eurozone economy has now been in recession for the past one and a half years, the longest period since 1995, when Eurostat started collecting the data. The worst off are Greece - whose economy shrank by 5.3 percent - and Portugal (-3.9%) compared to the same period last year. France is also officially back in recession, after its economy shrank by 0.2 percent over the past six months, amid unemployment rates of over 10 percent and low business and consumer confidence. An economy is considered to be in recession if its economy shrinks two quarters in a row.

Headline: Jobless Claims in U.S. Jump to Highest Level in Six Weeks

The federal government says it will temporarily suspend sales of U.S. Treasury securities to state and local governments at noon on Friday, the first step to avoid breaching the nation's borrowing limit. The move announced Wednesday by Treasury officials is expected to be followed by other bookkeeping maneuvers, all of which have the same goal: To keep the government functioning until Congress decides whether to raise the $16.39 trillion borrowing limit. Earlier this year, Congress temporarily suspended the borrowing limit so lawmakers could focus on other budget debates. But that suspension ends this weekend. The Treasury Department can keep the government operating for several months through its maneuvers. The government is spending more than it takes in, running up annual deficits in excess of $1 trillion in each of the past four budget years. It has been borrowing the difference to meet its obligations.

Headline: FDIC Seizes Failed Bank in AZ on a WEDNESDAY

Central Arizona Bank, Scottsdale, Arizona, was closed today by the Arizona Department of Financial Institutions, which appointed the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC) as receiver. To protect the depositors, the FDIC entered into a purchase and assumption agreement with Western State Bank, Devils Lake, North Dakota, to assume all of the deposits of Central Arizona Bank. The sole former branch of Central Arizona Bank will reopen tomorrow as a branch of Western State Bank during its normal business hours. Depositors of Central Arizona Bank will automatically become depositors of Western State Bank. Deposits will continue to be insured by the FDIC, so there is no need for customers to change their banking relationship in order to retain their deposit insurance coverage up to applicable limits. Customers of Central Arizona Bank should continue to use their current branch until they receive notice from Western State Bank that systems conversions have been completed to allow full-service banking at all branches of Western State Bank. This evening depositors of Central Arizona Bank can access their money by writing checks or using ATM or debit cards. Checks drawn on the bank will continue to be processed. Loan customers should continue to make their payments as usual. As of March 31, 2013, Central Arizona Bank had approximately $31.6 million in total assets and $30.8 million in total deposits. In addition to assuming all of the deposits of the failed bank, Western State Bank agreed to purchase essentially all of the failed bank's assets.

Headline: Chinese general says Okinawa not Japan's

A senior Chinese military officer has said the Ryukyu Islands -- which include Okinawa and its US military bases -- "do not belong to Japan", as a territorial row mounts between the Asian powers. The comments by People's Liberation Army Major General Luo Yuan were published by the China News Service website Tuesday, after the country's leading newspaper last week carried a call to review Tokyo's sovereignty over the chain. Luo emphasised that the islands were historically in a vassal relationship with imperial Chinese dynasties. Those ties did not necessarily mean they were part of China, he said, adding: "But we can be certain of one point. The Ryukyus don't belong to Japan." "(If) the Ryukyus don't belong to you," he said, referring to Tokyo, "how can you talk about the Diaoyus?" China and Japan have been in a long-running dispute over islands in the East China Sea that Tokyo administers as the Senkakus, but Beijing claims as the Diaoyus.

Headline: South Korea criticizes Japan over official's visit to North Korea

South Korea has criticized Japan over a visit to North Korea by a senior Japanese official, saying the move has undermined the 'united front required to deal' with Pyongyang. Isao Iijima, who is a top advisor to Japan's Prime Minister Shinzo Abe, arrived in the North Korean capital, Pyongyang, on May 14. The purpose of his trip is unclear, especially in the light of the fact that Japan and North Korea have no diplomatic relations. The trip surprised Washington and Seoul, which are closely allied to Tokyo. The three countries have been working on a coordinated North Korea policy.

Describing the coordination between the US and its two close allies as "important," South Korea's Foreign Ministry spokesman Cho Tai-Young said on Thursday, "In that sense, we think that the visit by Iijima to North Korea is unhelpful." Glyn Davies, the US State Department's special representative for North Korea, also told journalists in the South Korean capital that he had not been aware of the journey.

Headline: WHO reports first patient-to-nurse spread of new SARS-like virus

Two health workers in Saudi Arabia have become infected with a potentially fatal new SARS-like virus after catching it from patients in their care - the first evidence of such transmission within a hospital, the World Health Organization said. The new virus, known as novel coronavirus, or nCoV, is from the same family of viruses as those that cause common colds and the one that caused the deadly outbreak of Severe Acute Respiratory Syndrome (SARS) that emerged in Asia in 2003. "This is the first time health care workers have been diagnosed with (novel coronavirus) infection after exposure to patients," the Geneva-based U.N. health agency said in a disease outbreak update late on Wednesday. The health workers are a 45-year-old man, who became ill on May 2 and is currently in a critical condition, and a 43-year-old woman with a coexisting health condition, who fell ill on May 8 and is in a stable condition, the WHO said. France has also reported a likely case of transmission within a hospital, but this was from one patient to another patient who shared the same room for two days.

Headline: Death toll rises to 36 in H7N9 outbreak

The first patient in China's Hunan province with confirmed H7N9 influenza has died, lifting the outbreak's fatality count to 36, according to official and media reports today. The patient is a 64-year-old woman who died yesterday morning at a hospital in Shaoyang, about 20 days after her illness was detected, according to a report from Xinhua, China's state news agency. The source of the information is the Hunan Provincial Health and Family Planning Commission. The number of new H7N9 infections has tailed off in recent week, with the latest one reported May 7, which edged the number of cases to 131. However, the death toll continues to rise, because many of the previously confirmed patients are still hospitalized, battling the often serious complications of the disease, which can include acute respiratory distress syndrome and organ failure. It's not clear why the outbreak has stalled. Influenza experts suspect closures of live-poultry markets could be curbing infections in humans, or the virus could be showing a drop in warm weather months seen with other avian influenza viruses. Another possibility is that H7N9 could be dying out, a pattern that has been seen before with other novel flu viruses. In other developments, a veterinary epidemiologist from Scotland yesterday raised the possibility that H7N9 could emerge and circulate in the poultry trade without a link to commercial farms. Nick Honhold, BVSc, MSc, PhD, a consultant based in Edinburgh, detailed his suggestion in a post on ProMED Mail, the online reporting system of the International Society for Infectious Diseases.

Prophecy Sign: Animal Deaths Hosea 4:1-3 & Ezekiel 38:20 & Zephaniah 1:3

"I will consume man and beast; I will consume the birds of the heavens, The fish of the sea, And the stumbling blocks along with the wicked. I will cut off man from the face of the land," Says the LORD.
(Zephaniah)

"There is no faithfulness, no love, no acknowledgment of God in the land. There is only cursing, lying and murder, stealing and adultery; they break all bounds, and bloodshed follows bloodshed. Because of this the land mourns, and all who live in it waste away; the beasts of the field and the birds of the air and the fish of the sea are dying. [Hosea 4:1-3]

The fish of the sea, the birds of the air, the beasts of the field, every creature that moves along the ground, and all the people on the face of the earth will tremble at my presence. The mountains will be overturned, the cliffs will crumble and every wall will fall to the ground. [Ezekiel 38:20]

Headline: Pandemic swine flu virus found in seals

The swine flu virus that caused a 2009 pandemic has been found in elephant seals off the central California coast, according to new research. The study, published in the journal PLoS ONE, is the first report of the virus H1N1 in any marine mammal. Researchers are now being advised to wear protective personal gear when working around marine mammals, to avoid the possibility of infection. "H1N1 was circulating in humans in 2009," lead author Tracey Goldstein said in a press release. "The seals on land in early 2010 tested negative before they went to sea, but when they returned from sea in spring 2010, they tested positive. So the question is where did it come from?" "We thought we might find influenza viruses, which have been found before in marine mammals, but we did not expect to find pandemic H1N1," said Goldstein, an associate professor at the University of California at Davis. "This shows influenza viruses can move among species."

Headline: 'A beautiful victory': Supporters celebrate as Minnesota legalizes gay marriage

When momentous events happen like the election of a new president, White Bear Lake resident Laurie Wenker makes sure to get two copies of that day's newspaper to tuck away in memory boxes for her teenage daughters. She did just that -- and more Tuesday. Wenker and daughters Eleanor, 16, and Lillian, 13, joined a crowd of an estimated 6,000 people who gathered at the state Capitol to witness Gov. Mark Dayton sign a bill legalizing same-sex marriages in Minnesota. "I wanted my kids to experience history, to take in and breathe in the equality in the air," Wenker said. "We were talking on the car ride here, and Lillian said to me, 'My kids will never know a world where people weren't allowed to marry the person they love.' That's so true." Generations of families -- gay and straight -- endured the heat and erupted in cheers as Minnesota became the 12th state in the nation to legalize marriage equality and the first in the Midwest to do so legislatively. Before signing the bill, Dayton thanked the legislators and activists who worked to change public opinion on same-sex marriage. They went from fighting a ballot amendment that would have banned gay marriage in the Minnesota Constitution to defeating it last fall and now making marriage for all couples legal.

Headline: United Nations releases video for gay rights

The United Nations will renew its fight for equality for gays, lesbians, bisexuals and transgender people, according to a video released Tuesday by the UN Human Rights Commission. In a video titled "The Riddle," the UN states that same-sex relationships are illegal in more than six dozen nations, ""suffer violent attacks and discriminatory treatment" and face the death penalty in some nations. "There is widespread bias at jobs, schools and hospitals, and appalling violent attacks, including sexual assault," UN Secretary-General Ban ki-Moon said last year. "People have been imprisoned, tortured, even killed. This is a monumental tragedy for those affected — and a stain on our collective conscience. It is also a violation of international law." A shift in attitudes and law is under way throughout the world, the secretary-general noted, with the climate improving for those with non-traditional sexual preferences. "To those who are lesbian, gay, bisexual or transgender," he said, "let me say: You are not alone. Your struggle for an end to violence and discrimination is a shared struggle. Any attack on you is an attack on the universal values the United Nations that I have sworn to defend and uphold. I stand with you, and I call upon all countries and people to stand with you, too."

Headline: Christian leader gunned down by Islamic militants in Nigeria

A Nigerian Christian leader was killed when suspected Muslim militants burst into his home and shot him, as the religious fighting in Africa’s most populous nation continues to worsen. Two members of Islamic militant group Boko Haram shot Faye Pama Moya, a Pentecostal pastor and secretary of the Christian Association of Nigeria, in his home Wednesday, according to multiple reports. The attack came just after President Goodluck Jonathan declared a state of emergency because of ongoing attacks. “The Borno CAN secretary has been killed,” CAN spokesman Kenny Asaka told the BNL news service “We’ve got the report and the national president received it with heavy heart. It is very sad.” Jonathan had earlier called the state of emergency to address “systematic effort by insurgents and terrorists to destabilize the Nigerian state and test our collective resolve,” referring to a surge in violence that threatens to engulf northern and central Nigeria. The violence has given rise to widespread concern Boko Haram could be on the verge of seizing control of the state.” The murder of Moya is likely to stoke tensions between Christians and Muslims, which were already at a breaking point after southern militants threatened to unleash a "crusade" against Boko Haram, the Muslim group behind a recent attack last month in which 185 people were killed.

Headline: Ten tornadoes - including one a MILE wide - wreak havoc across North Texas

North Texas residents have begun to survey the devastation inflicted after 10 tornadoes ravaged their towns on Wednesday night, leaving six dead and more than 100 people injured. Homes were flattened, trucks were tossed into the air and trees were ripped from the ground after the massive storms - including one a mile wide - barreled through towns in what Hood County Sheriff Roger Deeds described as a 'nightmare' situation. Seven people remain missing and more than 250 have been left homeless after the tornadoes hit around 7pm local time, with many properties being crushed with people still inside. The worst damage inflicted by the twisters - which were the deadliest to hit the country so far this year - was in Granbury, a town of 8,000 people around 35 miles southwest of Dallas-Fort Worth.

Headline: Tropical Storm Mahasen strikes southern Bangladesh

A tropical storm has lashed coastal areas of Bangladesh, killing 12 people, destroying thousands of huts and forcing up to a million people to flee. Officials had prepared for a cyclone, but the storm, called Mahasen, weakened considerably before making landfall. The storm hit Patuakhali district on Thursday with heavy rain and wind of up to 100km/h (60mph). Early reports suggest Muslim Rohingya living in camps on both sides of the Burma border were spared the worst. The United Nations had warned that 8.2 million people were at risk from Mahasen in Bangladesh, Burma and north-east India. Several Indian states issued storm alerts and warned people to take precautions against severe weather conditions.

The Arab Spring in Prophecy

(Perilous Times Luke 21:9 & Nation against Nation, Kingdom against Kingdom Matt.24:7)
(Revelation 6:3-4 Revelation 6:8)

Mark 13:8

CIVIL

Luke 21:9 and Matthew 24:7 speak of nation against nation and kingdom against kingdom in the end times. Revelation 6:3-4 speaks of the fiery red horse given power to make men slay one another and Revelation 6:8 speaks again of this red horse in conjunction with the pale horse of Death and Hades, as the one that has the power to kill by sword. I like to call this “The Arab Spring in Prophecy” because for us it is easy to identify- that’s what the world calls it.

Luke 21:9: wars & commotions; the Greek word here is Akatastasia, meaning instability, a state of disorder, disturbance, confusion (revolutions)

Matthew 24:7: the Greek word for nation is Ethnos & refers to various ethnic groups fighting among themselves, where the next sentence in the verse refers to kingdoms (basileiva) fighting one another (not to be confused with an actual kingdom but rather the right or authority to rule over a kingdom) I have tried to separate it into areas that sweep EAST from the point of North America.

Headline: Nigeria declares 'massive' military campaign on borders

Headline: Nigeria set for air strikes against Islamists

Nigeria has sent a "massive deployment of men and resources" to combat Islamist militants in three north-eastern states. A statement said the drive was aimed at "asserting the nation's territorial integrity" and "enhancing security". On Tuesday President Goodluck Jonathan declared a state of emergency in Yobe, Borno and Adamawa states after a series of deadly attacks by militants. Fighters from the Boko Haram group are blamed for most of the violence. The group, which has its roots in north-eastern Nigeria, is linked to bloodshed in which some 2,000 people have died since 2010. Boko Haram has seized control of parts of the north-east over the past three years, and much of the violence has been confined to that region.

Headline: CAR slid into anarchy, UN envoy says

The Central African Republic (CAR) has slid into "a state of anarchy," with massive unrest and large-scale displacement across the country, a UN envoy says. There are "indiscriminate and often targeted killings, rampant rapes and assaults on the innocent population, flagrant recruitment of children as soldiers, looting of homes, not just of the rich but even of already struggling citizens," AFP quoted Margaret Vogt, the UN representative to country, as saying to the UN Security Council on Wednesday. The country has "collapsed into a state of anarchy," Vogt told the council, adding that "there is an urgent need to help restore stability in the CAR. This should be done by deploying a neutral security force that would contain the current state of anarchy." She also called on the body to consider imposing sanctions against rebel groups for gross violations of human rights.

Headline: Greek strikes halt air travel

Flights in Greece were halted for four hours Thursday as the country's two largest labor unions staged work stoppages to protest austerity measures and a government decision to cancel a teachers' strike. Flights resumed after being grounded between 12:00 and 4:00 p.m. (0900-1300 GMT), when air traffic controllers joined the protest called by labor unions GSEE and ADEDY. The government this week issued an emergency order to force high school teachers to work through the May 17-31 university entrance exams and cancel plans for rolling strikes. It was the third time the conservative-led government used the emergency civil mobilization order to end a strike this year. The government is pursuing unpopular budget cuts to reduce debt as a condition of its international rescue package. It claims it will be able to return to borrowing on bond markets next year, when it also hopes the country's crippling recession will end.
