Headline: PM: Israel will become bi-national without peace

Headline: White House drumming up Arab support for Palestinian state

Israel needs to reach peace with the Palestinians to prevent becoming a bi-national state, Prime Minister Binyamin Netanyahu said Wednesday, stressing – however – that the core of Israel's conflict with the Palestinians is not territory, but a Palestinian unwillingness to recognize Israel's legitimacy within any boundaries. Netanyahu's comments at a meeting with top Foreign Ministry officials comes amid signs of revived motion on the Palestinian track. "The root of the conflict is not territorial," he said at the meeting, his first with the Foreign Ministry since the elections and his assumption of the foreign ministerial mantle until the fate of Avigdor Liberman is determined in court. "It started long before 1967. You saw what happened when we left Gaza. We uprooted the last settler, and what did we get in return? Missiles," he said. Netanyahu's comments came just days after the Arab League officials indicated, after meetings in the US with Vice President Joe Biden and US Secretary of State John Kerry, that they would accept in their Arab Peace Initiative a slight modification to the 1967 lines as part of an Israel-Palestinian peace accord.

Headline: Israeli reserves called up for Syrian, Lebanese borders. Military drill starts Sunday

Headline: IDF launches surprise drill on northern border

The call-up of thousands of Israeli military reservists for the Syrian and Lebanese borders starting Tuesday, April 30, will continue until the end of the week, ready for the launch of a military exercise on those borders next Sunday, May 5. This is reported by debkafile. These steps are expected to sent military tensions shooting up between Israel, Iran, Syria and Hizballah in Beirut. The phased mobilization of IDF reserves is planned to keep pace with President Barack Obama's momentum on US military action against Syrian chemical weapons. He was clear in the comments he made Tuesday that he needs more information – and therefore more time – to find out who and when used chemical weapons in Syria before rethinking “the range of options for action he has on the shelf.”

Headline: Israel carries out first deadly airstrike in Gaza since November truce

An Israeli aircraft attacked a motorcycle in Gaza on Tuesday, killing a man who the military said was a top militant in a shadowy al Qaeda-influenced group who had been involved in a recent rocket attack on southern Israel. It was the first deadly airstrike in Gaza since a truce was reached with Palestinian militants last November, and is the most serious test yet of the Egyptian-brokered agreement. The strike came alongside the fatal stabbing of an Israeli settler in the West Bank, the first killing by a Palestinian of an Israeli in the territory in over a year. The aircraft hit the motorcycle as it was travelling northwest of Gaza City, killing the driver and wounding a passenger. A bystander was also wounded, according to Gaza medical officials. The Israeli military said it had successfully killed Haitham Mishal, describing him as a jihadi militant involved in an April 17 rocket attack on the southern Israeli resort town of Eilat and other violence. Ashraf al-Kidra, Gaza's Health Ministry spokesman, said Mishal was a policeman. Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu had warned in recent days that Israel would not tolerate rocket fire from either the Gaza Strip or Egypt's Sinai Desert. “We hit today one of those involved in the despicable rocket fire on Eilat. I said that we would not be quiet over that,” Netanyahu said Tuesday.

Headline: Jordan warns U.N. of 'crushing weight' of Syria refugees

Jordan on Tuesday warned the U.N. Security Council that the growing exodus of Syrian refugees was a threat to its stability and the council is now considering a visit to the camps. Jordan faces a "crushing weight" if the refugee numbers, already over 500,000, keep growing at the current rate, said the ambassador, Prince Zeid al-Hussein, after a private meeting with Security Council envoys. Zeid said international help had been "insufficient" and that "from the perspective of the Jordanian government unless the support is forthcoming then we consider this to be a threat to our future stability." Up to 2,000 Syrians are crossing the border each night and on Sunday 4,000 had fled the two-year-old conflict into Jordan, the ambassador said. The United Nations has predicted that there could be 1.2 million refugees in Jordan by the end of the year -- equivalent to a fifth of the kingdom's population.

Headline: Syria opposition denounces Hezbollah 'threat'

The chief of Lebanese Shiite Muslim party Hezbollah, a close Damascus ally, said on Tuesday that Syria's friends would not let the embattled regime of President Bashar al-Assad fall. "Syria has true friends in the region who will not allow Syria to fall into the hands of the United States, Israel and 'takfiri' groups," Hassan Nasrallah said, referring to Sunni Muslims fighting to overthrow Assad. Reports have emerged that Hezbollah fighters were fighting with Assad forces against rebels in Shiite villages near the Lebanon border. However, Nasrallah's comments on Tuesday were the strongest indication yet that his group was ready to get more substantially involved to rescue Assad's government. In his speech, Nasrallah said the Syrian opposition fighting pro-Assad forces will not be able to topple the Syrian president militarily, adding that dialogue was their only way out.

Jeremiah 49:24-27

New King James Version (NKJV)

24 Damascus has grown feeble;
She turns to flee,
And fear has seized her.
Anguish and sorrows have taken her like a woman in labor.

25 Why is the city of praise not deserted, the city of My joy?

26 Therefore her young men shall fall in her streets,
And all the men of war shall be cut off in that day," says the LORD of hosts.

27 "I will kindle a fire in the wall of Damascus,
And it shall consume the palaces of Ben-Hadad."^[a]

The burden of Damascus. Behold, Damascus is taken away from being a city, and it shall be a ruinous heap.

Headline: Turkey: Iran pressured Assad to use chemical weapons

Syrian Ambassador to the UN Bashar al-Ja'afari announced on Tuesday that a new chemical attack had occurred in a small town near its border with Turkey. Ja'afari claimed that, as the Syrian army was gaining territory from rebel forces in the north, plastic bags filled with white powder were distributed, resulting in symptoms associated with the effects of chemical weapons among its residents. "The victims were transported to Turkey to be treated in Turkish hospitals and then, of course, today or tomorrow you will hear again that the Turkish government has new tools indicating that the Syrian government used chemical weapons against its own people," Ja'afari charged.

Headline: Syrian air strike on Turkish border kills at least five

A Syrian air strike on a headquarters of a rebel brigade along the Turkish border killed at least five people and wounded dozens more on Tuesday, opposition activists said. The attack targeted buildings belonging to the Ahrar al-Sham, a Salafist Islamist rebel unit fighting to topple Syrian President Bashar al-Assad, the activists said. A Turkish aid worker said the strike also hit a warehouse used by aid groups. "The target appears to be Ahrar al-Sham but most of the fighting brigades have presence at and around the crossing and it is impossible to get them without harming civilians," said Mohammad, an activist at the crossing, who gave only his first name. "This is the closest air strike we have seen to the border. The crossing had been seen as a safe haven before," he said.

Headline: Syria's Assad in rare visit as rockets hit capital

Two bombs in central Damascus killed one person and wounded several others on Wednesday, a monitoring group said, a day after another bombing killed 13 people in the Syrian capital. One bomb detonated near a police station on the Khaled bin al-Walid main road, killing one, and the second went off in Bab al-Musalla square, the Syrian Observatory for Human Rights said. State news agency SANA said the blasts wounded 15 people, saying the bombs were planted by "terrorists", the term the regime uses for rebels trying to topple it. Several blasts have already targeted Khaled bin al-Walid road. On Tuesday, a bomb ripped through the Damascus district of Marjeh, killing 13 people. A day earlier, Prime Minister Wael al-Halqi survived a car bombing in an upscale area of the capital.

³⁶ Against Elam I will bring the four winds From the four quarters of heaven, And scatter them toward all those winds; There shall be no nations where the outcasts of Elam will not go. ³⁷ For I will cause Elam to be dismayed before their enemies And before those who seek their life. Headline: Iran source: President Ahmadinejad arrested

Iranian President Mahmoud Ahmadinejad was arrested and held for seven hours Monday and warned to keep his mouth shut about matters detrimental to the Islamic regime before he was released, according to a source within the Revolutionary Guard's intelligence unit. After his visit to Tehran's 26th international book fair Monday, the source said the head of Ahmadinejad's security team informed the Iranian president that he had been asked to appear at the supreme leader's office for an urgent matter. On the way to the meeting, contact between the security team within the president's convoy was disconnected while three other cars joined the convoy, instructing the lead car to take a different direction. Ahmadinejad, instead of being taken to the supreme leader's office, was taken to a secret location in one of the buildings belonging to the Foreign Ministry, which is under the control of the Revolutionary Guards' intelligence unit.

Headline: Iraqi premier vows crackdown on militants amid rising violence

Shiite-dominated areas in southern and central Iraq were rocked Monday by car bomb explosions that killed at least 22 people and fueled fears that the country is sliding into a civil war. The violence occurred as Iraqi security forces surrounded the Sunni cities of Ramadi and Fallouja demanding that the area's tribes hand over those responsible for killing five Iraqi soldiers over the weekend. Authorities gave the tribes 48 hours. The deadline passed, but Jaber Jabri, a member of parliament from Ramadi, said late Monday that a tentative deal had been reached to defuse the situation. He said a committee of military commanders, local officials and tribal figures would search for those thought to be responsible, and the tribes would remove their guns from the streets of Ramadi. The army would be allowed to search specific areas for weapons but would not launch an attack, he said, adding, "I hope now the situation will get better." Fallouja and Ramadi, former hotbeds of the insurgency against American troops when they were in Iraq, have led a four-month protest movement against Prime Minister Nouri Maliki. Politicians fear that an assault on Anbar province could be the beginning of a new sectarian conflict

Gunmen demanding the sacking of former officials from the ousted regime of Moamer Kadhafi were on Wednesday still surrounding the foreign and justice ministries in the Libyan capital. Vehicles equipped with anti-aircraft guns and rocket launchers blockaded the justice ministry building, several kilometers from the city center, where traffic flowed smoothly on the May Day holiday. Militiamen also showed no sign of lifting the siege of the foreign ministry, which they first encircled on Sunday.

Tunisian troops clashed on Wednesday with a group of around 50 armed jihadists in the remote Mount Chaambi border region, a security source at the scene said. An AFP journalist nearby reported hearing an exchange of gunfire in the area, which is close to Tunisia's border with Algeria.

The group is commanded by an Algerian and two Tunisians originally from the regional capital Kasserine, the source said. Tunisian forces have been conducting search operations in the mountainous region since Monday, targeting a group of "terrorists," the authorities have said, while refusing to give further details because the operations were ongoing.

Headline: Arizona lawmakers pass bill making silver, gold legal tender

The Arizona Senate on Tuesday approved a measure to make gold and silver legal currency in the state, in a response to what backers said was a lack of confidence in the international monetary system. The legislation cleared the Republican-controlled Senate by an 18-10 vote after being approved by the state House earlier this month. It now goes to Republican Governor Jan Brewer, who has not indicated if she will sign it into law or veto it. The bill calls for Arizona to make gold and silver coins and bullion legal tender beginning in mid-2014, joining existing U.S. currency issued by the federal government. If signed into law, Arizona would become the second state in the nation to establish these precious metals as legal tender. Utah approved such legislation in 2011.

Headline: World growth still too slow to generate jobs: IMF

The world economy is not growing fast enough to generate jobs for millions who have become unemployed due to the financial crisis but it is gaining strength gradually, a top IMF official said Wednesday. While global growth is seen at 3.3 percent in 2013 and four percent next year, this masks a significant divergence in prospects, said Naoyuki Shinohara, deputy managing director of the International Monetary Fund. The world is seeing a "three-speed" global recovery without "enough growth to generate jobs for the millions who have fallen into unemployment over the past five years", Shinohara told a gathering of diplomats and business people. Creating jobs must be "an overarching issue" as it goes to the heart of the global economic crisis that is "falling disproportionately on young people", he said in a speech in New Delhi.

Headline: Sex Superbug Could Be 'Worse Than AIDS'

An antibiotic-resistant strain of gonorrhea—now considered a superbug—has some analysts saying that the bacteria's effects could match those of AIDS. "This might be a lot worse than AIDS in the short run because the bacteria is more aggressive and will affect more people quickly," said Alan Christianson, a doctor of naturopathic medicine. Even though nearly 30 million people have died from AIDS related causes worldwide, Christianson believes the effect of the gonorrhea bacteria is more direct. "Getting gonorrhea from this strain might put someone into septic shock and death in a matter of days," Christianson said. "This is very dangerous." "It's an emergency situation," said William Smith, executive director of the National Coalition of STD Directors. "As time moves on, it's getting more hazardous."

Dangerous antibiotic-resistant bacteria has been found in ground turkey on U.S. grocery shelves across a variety of brands and stores located in 21 states, according to a report by a consumer watchdog organization. The non-profit, independent product-testing organization said in the June issue of its magazine that the sampling marked the first time it had conducted a laboratory analysis of ground turkey, a popular consumer alternative to hamburger. Headline: FDA OK's Morning-After Pill Without a Prescription

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration late Tuesday approved the over-the-counter sale of Plan B One-Step, a version of the so-called "morning after" pill, for use as emergency contraception by girls and women aged 15 and older. The move ends years of debate over the issue, and follows a federal judge's order earlier this month that the FDA make Plan B available to all women, regardless of age. The emergency contraceptive is made by Teva Women's Health Inc. "Research has shown that access to emergency contraceptive products has the potential to further decrease the rate of unintended pregnancies in the United States," FDA Commissioner Dr. Margaret Hamburg said in an agency news release. "The data reviewed by the agency demonstrated that women 15 years of age and older were able to understand how Plan B One-Step works, how to use it properly and that it does not prevent the transmission of a sexually transmitted disease," she said.

Religious liberty groups have grave concerns after they learned the Pentagon is vetting its guide on religious tolerance with a group that compared Christian evangelism to “rape” and advocated that military personnel who proselytize should be court martialed. The Military Religious Freedom Foundation is calling on the Air Force to enforce a regulation that they believe calls for the court martial of any service member caught proselytizing. President Mikey Weinstein and others from his organization met privately with Pentagon officials on April 23. He said U.S. troops who proselytize are guilty of sedition and treason and should be punished – by the hundreds if necessary – to stave off what he called a “tidal wave of fundamentalists.” “Someone needs to be punished for this,” Weinstein told Fox News. “Until the Air Force or Army or Navy or Marine Corps punishes a member of the military for unconstitutional religious proselytizing and oppression, we will never have the ability to stop this horrible, horrendous, dehumanizing behavior.”

Dattatreya, director, Department of Seismology, India Meteorological Department (IMD), said. “It is a moderate tremor in Delhi and other northern regions. We ask public not to panic,” he said. “The quake was 10 km beneath the earth’s surface. The possibility of aftershocks are very minimal for such a low intensity quake,” said L.S. Rathore, IMD’s director general (meteorology). In Jammu, an official of the Met department said: “The maximum impact of the quake was felt in Doda and Kishtwar districts.”

The Arab Spring in Prophecy

(Perilous Times Luke 21:9 & Nation against Nation, Kingdom against Kingdom Matt.24:7)
(Revelation 6:3-4 Revelation 6:8)

“For nation shall rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom.
There will be earthquakes in various places, and there will be famines and sedition; these are the beginning of the labor pains.”

Mark 13:8

UNREST

Luke 21:9 and Matthew 24:7 speak of nation against nation and kingdom against kingdom in the end times. Revelation 6:3-4 speaks of the fiery red horse given power to make men slay one another and Revelation 6:8 speaks again of this red horse in conjunction with the pale horse of Death and Hades, as the one that has the power to kill by sword. I like to call this “The Arab Spring in Prophecy” because for us it is easy to identify- that’s what the world calls it.

Luke 21:9: wars & commotions; the Greek word here is Akatastasia, meaning instability, a state of disorder, disturbance, confusion (revolutions)

Matthew 24:7: the Greek word for nation is Ethnos & refers to various ethnic groups fighting among themselves, where the next sentence in the verse refers to kingdoms (basileiva) fighting one another (not to be confused with an actual kingdom but rather the right or authority to rule over a kingdom) I have tried to separate it into areas that sweep EAST from the point of North America.

Headline: Fighting breaks out in Venezuela's parliament

A brawl has broken out in Venezuela's parliament, amid disputes over the recent presidential election results. The physical altercation took place on Tuesday after the assembly passed a measure denying opposition members the right to speak in the chamber until they recognized President Nicolas Maduro's April 14 victory. "Until they recognize the authorities, the institutions of the republic, the sovereign will of our people, the opposition deputies will have to go and speak (to the private media) but not here in this National Assembly," said head of parliament Diosdado Cabello. The government legislators also blamed the opposition for initiating the fighting. "We knew the opposition came to provoke violence," said Maduro after the incident, adding, "This must not be repeated."

Middle East- ONLY COUNTRIES NOT IN PROPHECY

Headline: Bahrain police break up May Day demo

Police in Sunni Muslim-ruled Bahrain fired tear gas on Wednesday to disperse demonstrators demanding the reinstatement of Shiites sacked from their jobs during pro-democracy protests two years ago, witnesses said. Dozens of people came out onto the streets in Shiite villages around Manama on the occasion of May Day shouting: "We want those people sacked to be reinstated." The Wednesday protests were organized by the radical February 14 Revolution Youth Commission through social networking sites.

Headline: Greeks stage 24-hour anti-austerity general strike

As European financial markets close for the spring celebration of May Day, protesters across Europe and beyond have taken to the streets to demonstrate for workers' rights and, in many cases, against painful austerity measures. In Istanbul, Turkey, riot police gassed and fired water cannons at dozens of demonstrators trying to get to the popular-tourist destination of Taksim Square for May 1 demonstrations. Groups carrying May 1 international Workers' Day banners and chanting "Longlive Workers' Day" while trying to the square were dispersed using water cannons and tear gas in Istanbul's Besiktas district. Istanbul is now on a citywide shut down. Traffic has been restricted and public transportation to the square has been suspended including subways, metro buses as well as ferry services that connect the city's European side to the Asian side. "We are expecting a problematic May 1," said Istanbul Governor Huseyin Avni Mutlu told broadcaster CNN Turk. "It would have been easy to solve this," he said. Across the Aegean Sea, Greeks are turning out in Athens to show their anger at austerity measures that have sent the country's economy into a tailspin.

Comment: What I find very interesting here, is that CNN is already including Turkey in an article titled Protesters flood streets of Europe. They are included with other Euro countries like Spain, Italy & Greece.

Headline: Myanmar Anti-Muslim Violence Injures At Least 10 In Okkan As Mosques, Homes Attacked

Buddhist mobs hurling bricks overran a pair of mosques and torched more than 100 homes in central Myanmar, killing one person and injuring at least nine more in the latest anti-Muslim violence to shake the Southeast Asian nation. Terrified Muslim families who fled the assaults around Okkan, about 70 miles (110 kilometers) north of Yangon, could be seen late Tuesday hiding in forests along roads and crouching in paddy fields afterward. Some, in a state of shock, wept as their houses burned in the night and young men with buckets futilely tried to douse the flames. The unrest was the first reported since late March, when similar Buddhist-led violence swept the town of Meikthila, further north, killing at least 43 people. It underscored the failure of reformist President Thein Sein's government to curb increasing attacks on minority Muslims in a nation struggling to emerge from half a century of oppressive military rule.
