Headline: Palestinian statehood at "dead-end," Israeli minister says

Finance Minister Yair Lapid met Palestinian counterpart Shukri Bishara in Jerusalem on Sunday and came to an understanding on restarting frozen economic ties between the sides. Sources in the Finance Ministry said that the ministers agreed on a time frame in which they would resume cooperation with one another and that future meetings would discuss promoting joint investment and trade projects. After the meeting, Lapid said that future cooperation between Israel and the Palestinian Authority would be mutually beneficial. The meeting with Bishara, who was sworn in earlier this month along with new Prime Minister Rami Hamdallah, was the first high-level meeting between the two offices in several months. Official economic ties between Jerusalem and Ramallah were cut off in November after Israel responded to the Palestinian bid for UN recognition by withholding hundreds of millions of shekels in taxes that Israel had collected on behalf of the Palestinian Authority.

Headline: Report: Hamas' Mashaal, Haniyeh to meet Erdogan on Tuesday

Hamas' political bureau called on Hezbollah on Monday to remove its forces from Syria and focus its energies on Israel. Hezbollah's entrance into Syria was polarizing the region along religious lines, the Islamist militant group added in a statement from Cairo, where it was holding a meeting of political bureau members. The Cairo gathering has drawn a furious response from the Egyptian street, according to local reports: Egyptian forces have encircled the hotel venue where the bureau members, led by chief Khaled Meshal and the prime minister of the Hamas government in Gaza, Ismail Haniyeh, are meeting.

Headline: Islamist students vow to fight PA crackdown in West Bank

A group of Hamas-affiliated students living in the West Bank has launched a campaign calling for civil disobedience against harassment by Palestinian Authority security forces. Titled "It Makes No Difference To Me," and organized by the Union of Islamic Students in the West Bank, the campaign aims to fight what members say is a PA crackdown on Hamas activists across the West Bank, including repeated summonses for investigations in PA security headquarters. Hamas has defined the harassment and political arrest of its West Bank operatives as a key issue in its ongoing reconciliation talks with rival movement Fatah, which dominates the Palestinian Authority.

The effort is a follow-up to a campaign launched two years ago, dubbed "I'm Not Going," Palestinian news agency Safa reported. On Monday, the campaign received the endorsement of the Islamist student bloc, which advised its activists not to turn up to summonses for investigations issued by the PA.

Headline: New Iran Prez: Our Economic Problems All Israel's Fault

Hassan Rohani, Iran's new President, is being termed a "moderate" in Western media, but it appears that his moderation stops when it comes to Israel. In his first speech as Iran's new leader, Rohani quickly launched into a diatribe against Israel, blaming the Jewish state for Iran's economic problems. Those problems largely have their roots in the sanctions imposed by the West on Iran. Yet the sanctions are not the result of Iran's actions, Rohani said in his first speech; it was Israel that got the West to impose those sanctions, in an attempt to ruin Iran economically. "The Iranian nation has done nothing to deserve these sanctions," he said. "Our activities are in line with international norms. If the sanctions help anyone, it is Israel. They are directed only at us. The Western nations do not have sanctions against anyone else." It was part of Israel's plan to "ruin" Iran, he added.

Israel's military service began a week-long military exercise this week that involves testing the various defense systems. Air force personnel and aircraft will be involved in the drill, as well as ground forces and various military vehicles, according to the IDF Spokesperson's Unit. The exercise is part of the annual routine military exercise program that takes place across the country, spokespersons stressed. The Iron Dome System, which in the last offensive against terror-ruled Gaza protected Israelis against a massive onslaught of rocket attacks, will also be tested during the drill.

Headline: Syrian forces training to storm Israel's border

Thousands of Syrians are currently training in Iran to serve as a force ready to storm Israel's northern Golan Heights, according to informed Middle Eastern security officials. The officials said between 3,000 and 5,000 Syrian men were being trained in the event Syrian President Bashar al-Assad decides to open a front against the Golan Heights, which borders Syria. The training is being overseen by the Al Quds Force, the elite unit of Iran's Revolutionary Guard responsible for the country's extraterritorial operations, the sources said. The Syrian forces are slated to return to their country next month, the sources added. This is not the first report of Iran aiding Syria in preparations for ground attacks against Israel. In May, WND reported the Iranian-backed Hezbollah was establishing training camps near the Syrian capital of Damascus to prepare for possible guerrilla warfare targeting the Golan Heights, according to informed Middle Eastern security officials.

Jordan's King Abdullah said on Sunday the kingdom was ready to defend itself from any threat to its security from the conflict in neighboring Syria. "If the world does not help as it should, and if the matter becomes a danger to our country, we are able at any moment to take the necessary measures to protect the country and the interest of our people," he said. King Abdullah was speaking as Jordanian and U.S. forces proceeded with joint military exercises with the participation of 17 other countries. Diplomats say the exercises, which entered their second week, aim to send a strong message to Syrian President Bashar al-Assad.

Headline: Hezbollah's new battle tactics bad news for Israel

The battle for the Syrian city of al-Qusayr near the Syrian-Lebanese border was a major assault in an urban environment, in which observers say Hezbollah showed new techniques learned since the resistance group fought the Israelis in 2006, according to report from Joseph Farah's G2 Bulletin. These observers say that the new urban warfare tactics will be useful in any future battle with the Israelis. In the 1990s, most Hezbollah fighting was in rural areas. In its 2006 fight with the Israelis, Hezbollah fought from mostly defensive positions in villages and towns. According to sources, Hezbollah took the initiative in al-Qusayr beginning on May 20 to secure the city which constitutes a strategic crossroads for the Syrian rebels, their foreign fighter allies and the Syrian government. Control over al-Qusayr means Hezbollah can halt the flow of logistics and fighters to the more northern cities of Homs and ultimately Aleppo, the business capital of Syria. It also means that territory stretching from Damascus to the coast now will be in the hands of the Syrian government.

Headline: Saudi Arabia wants missiles for Syrian rebels: report

Saudi Arabia plans to supply the Syrian opposition with anti-aircraft missiles to counter President Bashar al-Assad's air force, German news weekly Der Spiegel reported Sunday. The article, citing a classified report received by the German foreign intelligence service and the German government last week, said Riyadh was looking at sending European-made Mistral-class MANPADS, or man-portable air-defence systems. Der Spiegel noted the shoulder-launched surface-to-air missiles can target low-flying aircraft including helicopters and had given mujahideen fighters in Afghanistan a decisive edge against Soviet troops in the 1980s.

Political prisoners have gone on a hunger strike in Saudi Arabia to protest against their imprisonment without charge or trial, and the horrible jail conditions, Press TV reports. Activists say more than 70 inmates have stopped eating in a bid to draw international attention to the inhuman prison conditions in Saudi Arabia. They hope that their protest would prompt an immediate action to stop the gross violation of human rights in Saudi jails. Saudi activists say there are more than 40,000 political prisoners, mostly prisoners of conscience, in jails across the kingdom. According to the activists, most of the detained political prisoners are being held by the government without trial or legitimate charges.

Headline: Mursi cuts ties with Assad's regime, calls for no-fly zone

Headline: Thousands of Egypt Islamists rally for Syria jihad

Egyptian President Mohammad Mursi announced on Saturday the "definitive" cutting of ties with the regime of President Bashar al-Assad and called for imposing a no-fly zone over the war-torn country. Egypt "decided today to definitively break off relations with the current regime in Syria, to close that regime's embassy in Cairo and to recall Egypt's charge d'affaires," President Mursi said at a rally in Cairo on Saturday. The "Support for Syria" rally was organized in Cairo and came a day after the Muslim Brotherhood denounced Hezbollah's military intervention in Syria and backed calls for Jihad (holy war) there. Sunni Muslim clerics had gathered in Cairo early this week urging the Muslim youth to go and fight in Syria against the Shiite Hezbollah and Iran. In his speech on Saturday, Mursi also urged world powers not to hesitate to enforce a no-fly zone over Syria.

Headline: Protests to give new turn to Egypt revolution

Does Egypt face a new revolution? Millions hope so, it seems; they have signed a national petition demanding the president resign and plan to take to the streets on June 30, when Mohamed Mursi marks a year in office. Their slogan is a call for revolt: "Tamarud - Rebel!" But for all the simmering discontent with the Islamist who has presided over political and economic paralysis, millions more are ready to defend Egypt's first freely elected leader; they say those campaigning for him to quit are agents of the old regime and plan their own pro-Mursi rallies starting Friday. Their counter-campaign - "Tagarud" - calls for open minds. There is a risk of more of the violence that has punctuated the two and a half years since Hosni Mubarak was toppled by a blast of rage from Tahrir Square. "June 30" crops up endlessly in conversation. The Cairo bourse has shrivelled in anticipation and security forces say they are preparing to deal with trouble.

Jeremiah 49:24-27

New King James Version (NKJV)

24 Damascus has grown feeble;
She turns to flee,
And fear has seized her.
Anguish and sorrows have taken her like a woman in labor.
25 Why is the city of praise not deserted, the city of My joy?
26 Therefore her young men shall fall in her streets,
And all the men of war shall be cut off in that day," says the LORD of hosts.
27 "I will kindle a fire in the wall of Damascus,
And it shall consume the palaces of Ben-Hadad."^[a]

The burden of Damascus. Behold, Damascus is taken away from being a city, and it shall be a ruinous heap.

Headline: Joint US-Israeli contingency plan: '18 chemical targets in Syria'

While the US prepares to arm rebels and after its confirmation that the Syrian army has used chemical weapons and crossed the much debated "red line", Time Magazine published a detailed account of how and when the US and Israel plan to destroy President Bashar Assad's chemical weapons stockpile. According to the report, the two countries have formed a number of contingency plans in case Assad's regime falls or rebels near the weapon caches, mandating a speedy Western response, in an attempt to prevent Syria's weapons of mass destruction from falling into the wrong hands. In the report, senior Israeli intelligence officials are quoted as telling Time that one of the possible scenarios for the attacks – which supposedly target some 18 different caches – is a sudden disappearance on Assad's part, either as a result of his death, fleeing to another country or going into hiding.

Headline: U.S. considers no-fly zone after Syria crosses nerve gas 'red line'

Headline: Russia says illegal to impose no-fly zone over Syria

The United States is considering a no-fly zone in Syria, potentially its first direct intervention into the two-year-old civil war, Western diplomats said on Friday, after the White House said Syria had crossed a "red line" by using nerve gas. After months of deliberation, President Barack Obama's administration said on Thursday it would now arm rebels, having obtained proof the Syrian government used chemical weapons against fighters trying to overthrow President Bashar al-Assad. Two senior Western diplomats said Washington is looking into a limited no-fly zone close to Syria's southern border with Jordan. "Washington is considering a no-fly zone to help Assad's opponents," one diplomat said. Imposing a no-fly zone could require the United States to destroy Syria's sophisticated Russian-built air defenses, thrusting it into the war with the sort of action NATO used to help topple Muammar Gaddafi in Libya two years ago. Washington says it has not excluded a no fly zone but a decision is not imminent.

Three hundred US Marines have been deployed to northern Jordan to pave the way for the West to arm Syrian rebels. A Patriot anti-aircraft missile system, designed to protect Jordanian territory from attack by Assad missiles, has also been moved into the area. The deployment, seen by The Times north of Al-Mafraq, has been put in place under cover of a military training exercise being held this week, but it will remain there for months. Our sources disclose that this American force numbers 1,000 troops, the largest to land in Jordan since the Syrian civil war erupted in March 2012. They are members of the 26th Marine Expeditionary Force carried aboard the USS Kearsage amphibious assault ship, which has been anchored off neighboring Israeli Eilat since mid-May. Upon landing, the marines took to the road in a convoy of armored vehicles including Hummers.

Headline: Assad answers Obama announcement with assault on last key rebel stronghold

Some 80 thousand military forces trained by Lebanese Hezbollah were preparing to launch a ground offensive to recapture Syria's commercial city of Aleppo. According to a report in the UK-based Sunday Times, a Hezbollah commander said the fighters belonging to Syria's National Defense Force (NDF) have been taught "to fight street by street." The fighters were also trained by Iran's Revolutionary Guards, the newspaper added. The commander on Sunday said Hezbollah will not deploy its fighters in Aleppo, but will only provide tactical support for forces loyal to Syrian President Bashar al-Assad. "The battle for Aleppo will be fought by the NDF and the Syrian army, with Hezbollah supervising and providing military tactical advice on how to coordinate and conduct the offensive," the Hezbollah commander said as quote by Sunday Times. "It will consist mainly of commanders and experts advising and planning together with the Syrian army's commanders in charge of Aleppo, on how best to utilize the men on the ground, how to advance and where to fight," he added. The planned assault on Aleppo aims to drive back Syrian opposition fighters who have been in control of the country's second city.

Headline: Israel fears Rowhani victory might buy Iran more time on nukes

Headline: Hassan Rowhani is no "moderate." He was endorsed by the only Iranian leader ever to publicly call for Israel to be destroyed by nuclear weapons.

Israel's acting defense minister said Saturday he was concerned Hassan Rowhani's win in the Iranian presidential elections might buy Iran more time in diplomatic contacts with the West over its nuclear program. Gilad Erdan (Likud), who is filling in for Moshe Ya'alon, said he feared Rowhani's win, and his reputation as a centrist and reformer, might lead the West to give Iran more leeway in diplomatic contacts over its rogue nuclear drive. "There might be a temptation... to agree to another round of talks, and then another round. Meanwhile the centrifuges are still spinning," said Erdan, who is also minister of Homefront Defense and Communications. He told Channel 10 he was worried world powers might misconstrue Rowhani, because he is a cleric, as some kind of benevolent "spiritual" leader, who might change policies, when this was certainly not the case.

Headline: Deadly blasts rock southern Iraqi cities

Headline: 10 die in another day of carnage in Iraq

A wave of car bombs in southern Iraq has killed 30 people as the country grapples with a spike in violence and prolonged political deadlock, sparking fears of a sectarian war. A total of seven vehicles rigged with explosives went off on Sunday in five cities south of Baghdad, the capital, during morning rush hour, leaving 56 people wounded in primarily Shia Muslim areas of Iraq. No group immediately claimed responsibility for the attacks, but Sunni groups linked to al-Qaeda frequently target Shias, whom they regard as apostates, in coordinated attacks. Car bombs went off in Kut, Aziziyah, Mahmudiyah, Nasiriyah and Basra, officials said. In Kut, the provincial capital of Wasit located 160km south of Baghdad, a car bomb exploded outside a restaurant in an industrial area packed with vehicle repair garages, killing seven people and wounding 15. Another car bomb in nearby Aziziyah, in the town's main marketplace and near a Shia mosque, killed five and wounded 10. Twin blasts in the southern port city of Basra, meanwhile, killed five people, including a bomb disposal expert looking to defuse one of the rigged vehicles. At least three others were killed in bombings in Nasiriyah and Mahmudiyah.

Amid allegations of Turkey's police forces using excessive force in the early stages of the protests, the demonstrations have taken on a largely peaceful feel, punctuated by clashes between the two sides. Russian President Vladimir Putin has congratulated Iran's President-elect Hassan Rohani on his victory in the country's 11th presidential election, announcing readiness to expand bilateral relations with Tehran. "Putin expressed confidence that Hassan Rowhani's work on this high post will promote the flourishing of (Russia's) friend Iran and further strengthen Russian-Iranian relations," a Kremlin

"The Russian president also confirmed his readiness to advance the development of mutually-beneficial cooperation with Iran in various fields, in the interests of regional security and international stability," the statement added. Meanwhile, Russian President Vladimir Putin set the tone for the discussion on Syria at the G8 summit which opened in Northern Ireland Monday, June 17, when he rounded harshly on British Prime Minister David Cameron in London Sunday for supporting rebels who "kill their enemies and eat their organs." Hitting back at this week's decision by US President Barack Obama – whom he will meet privately at the summit - to give the rebels "military support" – Putin asked: "Are these the people you want to supply weapons?"

Headline: French Socialists repeat call for euro devaluation

The ruling French Socialist Party has repeated its calls for a devalued euro in a bid to stimulate France's ailing economy. The proposal, which forms part of a paper drafted by European centre-left parties ahead of next year's European elections, is unlikely to be popular in Berlin. But criticisms of Chancellor Angela Merkel as "self-centred" were removed from an earlier draft during a two-day weekend conference in Paris. A strong euro makes imports from outside the EU cheaper, but it also increases the price of exports, making it harder for the likes of France to sell their way out of trouble.

Prophecy Sign: Economic collapse Revelation 6:5-6 & James 5:1-3- Worldwide

"When He opened the third seal, I heard the third living creature say, "Come and see." So I looked, and behold, a black horse, and he who sat on it had a pair of scales in his hand. ⁶ And I heard a voice in the midst of the four living creatures saying, "A quart of wheat for a denarius, and three quarts of barley for a denarius; and do not harm the oil and the wine." (Revelation)

"Come now, you rich, weep and howl for your miseries that are coming upon you! ² Your riches are corrupted, and your garments are moth-eaten. ³ Your gold and silver are corroded, and their corrosion will be a witness against you and will eat your flesh like fire. You have heaped up treasure in the last days." (James)

Headline: Syrian pound tumbles to record low on military intervention talk

Washington's decision to arm opponents of Syrian President Bashar al-Assad and reports of Gulf military aid to rebels have sent the Syrian currency plunging to a new record low, currency dealers and bankers said on Monday. Traders across Syria reported widely fluctuating rates and two currency dealers in Damascus, where the pound appeared to be hit hardest, said it fell below 200 to the dollar for the first time in what one described as panic buying of the U.S. currency. On Monday evening the pound traded at 205 to the dollar, down 20 percent in four days and 77 percent down since the start of the anti-Assad uprising in March 2011 when it was at 47. "It's total chaos. Demand for the dollar has increased with the news...of the Americans preparing military help to rebels," said Assem Salman, an exchange dealer in the bustling Sabaa Baahrat in downtown Damascus

Prophecy Sign: Wars & Rumors of Wars Matthew 24:6 , Revelation 6:3-4 & Revelation 6:8

"And you will hear of wars and rumors of wars. See that you are not troubled; for all these things must come to pass, but the end is not yet." Revelation 6:3-4 speaks of the fiery red horse given power to make men slay one another and Revelation 6:8 speaks again of this red horse in conjunction with the pale horse of Death and Hades, as the one that has the power to kill by sword.

Prophecy Sign: Weapons of Mass Destruction Zechariah 14:12

“And this shall be the plague with which the LORD will strike all the people who fought against Jerusalem: Their flesh shall dissolve while they stand on their feet, Their eyes shall dissolve in their sockets, And their tongues shall dissolve in their mouths.”

Headline: Egypt talks war over Nile dam

Two weeks ago, Ethiopia announced that it had begun to divert the Blue Nile, the major source of Egypt's water, in the process of building a giant dam. Alarmed, Mr Morsi summoned senior political and religious leaders to discuss Egypt's options the next day. Unknown to the participants, their heated discussion was broadcast live on national television by mistake. Some were heard calling for Egyptian warplanes to overfly the Ethiopian capital, Addis Ababa, as a warning. Others called for supporting anti-government rebels in Ethiopia if the project proceeded or even dispatching special forces to destroy the dam. Mr Morsi himself stipulated that "all options are open". In a clear warning that this included the option of war, he said: "If a single drop of the Nile is lost, our blood will be the alternative." Ethiopia's parliament yesterday raised the political temperature further by unanimously ratifying the the Co-operative Framework Agreement that strips Egypt of its right to the lion's share of the Nile river waters. The deal allows upstream countries to implement irrigation and hydropower projects without first seeking Egypt's approval. In addition to Ethiopia, Burundi, Kenya, Rwanda, Tanzania and Uganda have all signed the CFA, while Democratic Republic of Congo and South Sudan have said they also intend to join. Cairo said the move was not significant and did not change Egypt's official position rejecting the agreement.

Comment: Could this be to what Ezekiel 29:9-12 is referring? We know that Ezekiel chapters 30-32 talk about Egypt's fate on and after “the day of the Lord”. But the first part of chapter 29 says “Egypt will become a desolate wasteland. Then they will know that I am the LORD. “Because you said, “The Nile is mine; I made it,”¹⁰ therefore I am against you and against your streams, and I will make the land of Egypt a ruin and a desolate waste from Migdol to Aswan, as far as the border of Cush.¹¹ The foot of neither man nor beast will pass through it; no one will live there for forty years.¹² I will make the land of Egypt desolate among devastated lands, and her cities will lie desolate forty years among ruined cities. And I will disperse the Egyptians among the nations and scatter them through the countries.” Verses 13 and 14 tell of the desolation of Egypt for 40 years. There is simply no time in Egypt's history where this prophecy has been fulfilled as written. Egypt has been continuously inhabited since well before Ezekiel's time. In fact non-believers often cite this prophecy as proof that God does not have a perfect record in fulfilling His prophecies. They don't understand that Egypt still has quite a future ahead.

Headline: China to Host North Korean Officials for Talks

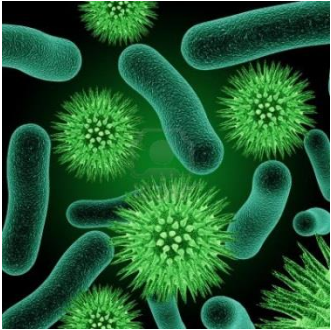

North Korea proposed high-level regional security talks with the United States on Sunday, following the recent failure to resume direct talks with rival South Korea, the Yonhap news agency reported. "(We) propose high-level talks between the North Korean and US governments to ease tensions on the Korean Peninsula, and establish regional peace and security," Yonhap cited a statement by the North's National Defense Commission. The move comes five days after planned negotiations between the Democratic People's Republic of Korea (DPRK) and South Korea collapsed over Pyongyang's claim that Seoul fielded negotiators of insufficient rank. Meanwhile, China will host talks with North Korea this week, the Foreign Ministry said on Monday, after Pyongyang offered high-level negotiations with the United States to ease tension on the Korean peninsula. North Korea's proposed talks with Washington came days after it abruptly canceled planned official negotiations with South Korea. The White House has said any talks must involve actions by Pyongyang to show it is moving towards scrapping its nuclear weapons.

Headline: H1N1 flu cases up sharply in Venezuela

The number of H1N1 swine flu cases rose sharply in Venezuela during the last week of May, the health ministry said Wednesday, refusing to disclose whether any deaths have been linked to the outbreak. Health Minister Isabel Iturria, explaining why deaths would not be reported, blamed “political or economic interests” for creating alarm over the outbreak. The ministry said there were 414 new cases of H1N1 in the week from May 26 to June 1, pushing the total number of cases from 724 to 1,138. The virus was detected for the first time in Venezuela in 2009. The current outbreak has surpassed one in 2011 that resulted in 900 cases and eight deaths.

Saudi Arabia says four more people have died from a new respiratory virus related to SARS, bringing the total number of deaths to 32 in the kingdom at the center of the growing crisis. Overall, nearly 40 people have died from the virus since September, mostly in Europe and the Middle East. That's according to local officials and the World Health Organization. The Saudi Health Ministry also said on Monday that it confirmed three more cases of the virus, including in a 2-year-old child. Officials are still seeking clues on how easily it is spread between humans.

Prophecy Sign: Scorching Sun Isaiah 30:26 & Revelation 16:8-9

“Moreover the light of the moon will be as the light of the sun, And the light of the sun will be sevenfold, As the light of seven days, In the day that the LORD binds up the bruise of His people And heals the stroke of their wound.” (Isaiah 30:26) “Then the fourth angel poured out his bowl on the sun, and power was given to him to scorch men with fire. ⁹ And men were scorched with great heat, and they blasphemed the name of God who has power over these plagues; and they did not repent and give Him glory.” (Revelation 16:8-9)

Prophecy Sign: Drought Jeremiah 50:38 & Isaiah 42:15

“A drought is against her waters, and they will be dried up. For it is the land of carved images, And they are insane with their idols.” “I will lay waste the mountains and hills, And dry up all their vegetation; I will make the rivers coastlands, And I will dry up the pools.”

Headline: Farmers scuffle through record South Texas drought

Headline: Lawmakers told that NM drought likely to persist

Normally the flat fields surrounding this small farming community display neat rows of cotton running to the horizon and grain sorghum with heavy seed heads waving in the breeze. But now dozens of wind turbines whirl lazily above a patchwork of fields, some completely barren, others displaying only spotty growth. South Texas is in the midst of a yearslong drought that is the driest ever recorded here. While swaths of the state have somewhat recovered from the historic dry spell of 2011, farmers in this agriculture-rich region are dealing with massive crop losses in which entire fields have been wiped out. "It's been a hard year, difficult to figure out what to do, difficult to manage the situation," said Harold Parker, 64, who has some fields east of Lyford that display what can most generously be called uneven growth. Parker's sorghum that sprouted a couple months ago is now more than a foot tall, sitting beside sections of 2-inch-high green sprouts that only came up after a good rain at the end of April. The entire region is in severe, extreme or exceptional drought and crop losses are mounting as insurance adjustors travel field to field. Agriculture officials have predicted losses of cotton, corn and grain sorghum crops could double the region's $50 million lost in 2006, though the claims are still coming in.

He died of cardiac arrest, apparently succumbing to the temblor that lasted several seconds, according to the president of the national disaster response agency, Mr Guillermo Gonzalez. He said some buildings suffered cracks, including the offices of the Ministry of Development, Industry and Trade.

The Arab Spring in Prophecy

(Perilous Times Luke 21:9 & Nation against Nation, Kingdom against Kingdom Matt.24:7)
(Revelation 6:3-4 Revelation 6:8)

“For nation shall rise against nation,
and kingdom against kingdom.
There will be earthquakes in various places, and there will be famines and sedition; these are the beginning of the labor pains.”

Mark 13:8

UNREST

Luke 21:9 and Matthew 24:7 speak of nation against nation and kingdom against kingdom in the end times. Revelation 6:3-4 speaks of the fiery red horse given power to make men slay one another and Revelation 6:8 speaks again of this red horse in conjunction with the pale horse of Death and Hades, as the one that has the power to kill by sword. I like to call this “The Arab Spring in Prophecy” because for us it is easy to identify- that’s what the world calls it.

Luke 21:9: wars & commotions; the Greek word here is Akatastasia, meaning instability, a state of disorder, disturbance, confusion (revolutions)

Matthew 24:7: the Greek word for nation is Ethnos & refers to various ethnic groups fighting among themselves, where the next sentence in the verse refers to kingdoms (basileiva) fighting one another (not to be confused with an actual kingdom but rather the right or authority to rule over a kingdom) I have tried to separate it into areas that sweep EAST from the point of North America.

Headline: Russia to Fly Inspection Missions Over United States

Russian military inspectors will start on Sunday a series of monitoring flights over the United States under the international Open Skies Treaty, Russia’s Defense Ministry has said. Russian experts will carry out two consecutive monitoring missions in a Tupolev Tu-154 M/LK-1 aircraft from June 16 through July 1, the ministry said in a statement. The missions will be carried out from the Travis Air Force Base in California and Wright-Patterson Air Force Base in Ohio. Russian inspectors, accompanied by US specialists, will operate surveillance equipment on board of the aircraft as set out in the international Open Skies Treaty. Under the treaty, each aircraft flying under the Open Skies program is fitted with a sensor suite including optical panoramic and framing cameras, video cameras with real-time display, thermal infrared imaging sensors and imaging radar. These will be Russia’s 16th and 17th monitoring flights in 2013 over the territories of the Open Skies Treaty member states.

Thirty-nine people were injured and 30 others detained in clashes as around a thousand Brazilians demonstrated outside the national stadium in the capital, Brasilia. The crowds voiced their anger against the amount of money spent on next year's World Cup. Police used tear gas, pepper spray and reportedly rubber bullets, as demonstrators staged their rally before the game, which ended in Brazil beating Japan 3-0. Protesters held posters reading "We don't need the World Cup" and "We need money for hospitals and education." The demonstrators also chanted slogans such as "FIFA go away!" referring to the Federation of International Football Associations, which awarded the hosting rights to Brazil. Protests took place across Brazil, with hundreds holding a rally near Maracana Stadium in the country's second largest city, Rio de Janeiro. The rally turned violent, as it did in Brasilia, with police firing tear gas and rubber bullets before the start of another Confederations Cup match, which ended in a tie between Italy and Mexico.

Headline: The UN prepares to go to war for the first time, with a 3,000-strong task force sent to fight rebels in the Congo

The UN is about to go to war for the first time in its history after the Security Council voted unanimously to intervene to fight rebels in the Congo. Around 3,000 UN troops wearing the blue insignia, are being deployed to the central African nation which has been wracked by years of civil war and lawlessness. The UN has led a 14-year-long peacekeeping in a bid to end the ethnic conflict which was sparked by the genocide in neighbouring Rwanda when thousands of Hutus fled into the Congo to evade justice. Much of the fighting is now over the country's natural resources which include large quantities of gold, copper, diamonds, and coltan (a mineral used in cell phones). According to the organisation World Without Genocide, the violence has killed as many as 5.4 million people making it the world's bloodiest conflict since World War II.

Thousands of Houthi demonstrators have taken to the streets in the Yemeni capital of Sana'a to demand the prosecution of those responsible for the killing of more than a dozen Shia Muslims, Press TV reports. On Sunday, the protesters gathered outside Yemen's National Security Intelligence Agency headquarters under a rally called, Loyalty to the Blood of Our Martyrs. The demonstrators urged Yemeni officials to exercise their rights and prosecute the culprits. "We came out in support of our martyrs and to say that these demonstrations will be victorious because we will not let the blood of our martyrs go to waste. This is the message that we want to send to the criminals responsible for the killings," a demonstrator said on condition of anonymity.

Headline: Bulgarian premier rejects calls to resign despite massive protest

The Bulgarian prime minister has rejected calls to resign after a massive protest was held against his controversial appointment of a top security chief. Plamen Oresharski's announcement came on Sunday after about 15,000 Bulgarians had staged a protest outside the government headquarters in the capital of Sofia, demanding his resignation and a new election. "This government was put forward as a technocrat one. We expected change. And now it's the same old faces selling us the same old tricks. This last DANS chief nomination was just disgusting," said Georgy Milanov, a protester. The protest began on June 14 after the two-week-old Socialist-led government quickly approved Oresharski's nomination of media mogul Delyan Peevski as the chief of Bulgaria's National Security Agency (DANS).

Headline: Portuguese teachers boycott exams in anti-austerity strike

Thousands of teachers across Portugal walked away from final exams held at secondary schools on Monday to protest against planned spending cuts in education, leaving many pupils unable to take the tests, unions said. The cuts are among the most recent austerity measures proposed by Portugal's center-right administration to meet the fiscal targets of an EU/IMF bailout. Portugal is in the third year of its worst economic recession since the 1970s and unemployment is at a record 18 percent. Anti-austerity protests have been largely peaceful and more subdued than those in Greece and neighboring Spain but the country has seen a rise in rallies and strikes in recent months.
