Headline: Kerry meets with Palestinian leader

US Secretary of State John Kerry met with Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu in Jerusalem Thursday, in an attempt to discuss a renewal of the diplomatic process between Israel and the Palestinians. Kerry arrived at the Middle East for a round of talks and is to meet with Palestinian President Mahmoud Abbas over the weekend. A political source told Ynet Thursday that according to intelligence information, Abbas has no real intention of "promoting talks. He's willing to sit down with Netanyahu, but doesn't intend to go forward with the talks. "He wants to talk, and then reintroduce Palestinian demands," the source added. "They want to pursue the unilateral track with the UN, with no intention of making any hard or concrete decisions." Netanyahu reiterated his stand regarding the danger that a bi-national state poses, a statement that led the political echelon to wonder whether the prime minister is about to stir up a political crisis in his party, as he shifts to a more centralist stand.

Headline: Hamas: Palestinians will never recognize Israel

Headline: Hamas PM urges Abbas not to negotiate with Israel

Hamas Prime Minister Ismail Haniyeh this week reiterated that the Palestinian Arabs as a whole will never recognize Israel's right to exist, and certainly not to exist as the Jewish state. "We had two wars...but Palestinians did not and will not recognize Israel," Bethlehem-based news agency Ma'an quoted Haniyeh as saying as he welcomed a solidarity visit by international activists.

Why should anyone care what Hamas says at this point? That's certainly the line being taken by Washington and Europe, as they once again press Israel to make "peace" concessions to Hamas' rivals in the Palestinian Authority. But what most have conveniently forgotten is that Haniyeh is prime minister and Hamas legally controls a majority in the Palestinian parliament because the Palestinian public voted the group into power. Meanwhile, Haniyeh praised international activists that visit Hamas-ruled Gaza for performing a "holy duty" aimed at de-legitimizing Israel.

Ghazi Hamad, the deputy foreign minister of the Hamas government in Gaza, met on Thursday with a delegation of diplomats and journalists from Turkey who are currently on a visit to Gaza. Hamas continue to claim that Gaza is under an "Israeli siege", despite the fact that Israel allows the transfer of humanitarian aid into the region and allows Hamas to host visiting leaders and activists. Hamad told the visitors from Turkey that the Gaza government is looking forward to the upcoming visit by Turkish Prime Minister, Recep Tayyip Erdogan, given the important role played by Turkey both in the region and in the international arena and given the support it expresses for Palestinian Authority Arabs.

Headline: Obama’s risky move in Jordan could open second front in Syrian war

The CIA is stockpiling arms in Jordan for US-trained Syrian rebels, which they will use in an offensive against Damascus starting August, according to The Wall Street Journal. Up to hundreds of fighters are to be armed and sent to the battlefield monthly. The intelligence agency had stored Soviet-made arms at a network of secret warehouses in advance of the Obama administration’s decision to provide military assistance to the militants fighting against the government of Bashar Assad, the newspaper reports. The weapons include anti-tank missiles, which may be handed over to the Syrian rebels. The CIA was chosen to deliver arms to the Syrian rebels to limit public disclosures and restrict oversight to a small group of lawmakers, who would oversee the clandestine operation, the report explains. Other countries may join the US program for arming the rebels. Washington is in talks with France about pre-positioning European-procured weapons in Jordan. Saudi Arabia is expected to provide some portable anti-aircraft weapons as well, the WSJ says.

Headline: Gantz: The Flames Are Creeping Up on Nasrallah

The graduation ceremony of the IAF's 166th flight course took place on Thursday, and leaders who spoke at the ceremony mentioned the tense situation along Israel's northern borders, saying that the IDF is ready for any scenario and reminding Israel's enemies that the army has acted and will act in the face of security threats. Particularly blunt was IDF Chief of Staff Benny Gantz who, in a rare statement about the situation in the north said, "Syria is still bleeding, and in Lebanon, the flames are creeping up on [Hizbullah chief] Nasrallah. In the face of this changing reality we need to be ready and more prepared than ever." Gantz's remarks come in the wake of an Israeli assessment that the Hizbullah terror group is at one of its lowest points in years. The organization is now fighting on three fronts: against Israel, in Syria, and in Lebanon, where the group has been slammed for its support of President Bashar Al-Assad.

Two small explosive devices went off on Friday in the eastern Lebanese city of Zahle targeting a "security convoy." According to Lebanese media, the convoy belonged to the Shiite military group Hezbollah, which has been fighting alongside forces loyal to Syrian President Bashar al-Assad against rebels. "Two bombs exploded at 5:30 a.m. when a security convoy made up of three 4x4 cars were on the international highway in the city of Zahle, which leads to the city of Baalbek," a security source told AFP. "The gunmen got out of the car and fired into the air as soon as the explosion happened before they continued on their way" in the direction towards Shtoura, near the Syrian border. The two bombs were planted in the barrier that separates the road into two directions, reported AFP, adding there was some material damage. The Lebanese Armed Forces (LAF) and Internal Security Forces (ISF) deployed in the area and blocked the road. An investigation into the incident is underway.

Headline: Protests erupt in Sunni areas of Lebanon

Protests erupted across Sunni-populated areas of Lebanon on Friday, despite the Sidon mufti's appeal for calm days after the Lebanese army routed gunmen loyal to radical cleric Sheikh Ahmad al-Assir in a battle that left 17 soldiers dead. In Sidon, Salafi protesters marched from the Al-Zaatari Mosque—where communal prayers for the whole southern city were held—on Assir's Bilal bin Rabbah Mosque in Abra and clashed with Lebanese army soldiers deployed in the area. Lebanon's state National News Agency reported that gunfire was heard in the area, while local stations reported that the army fired in the air to disperse the mob attempting to enter Assir's complex. The army reasserted control over the area later in the afternoon. Meanwhile, in Tripoli hundreds of protesters congregated at the city's main Al-Nour Square and demonstrated in support of Assir as gunfire rang out in the air across the city.

Headline: Saudis hold anti-regime demo in eastern region of Qatif

Saudis have held an anti-regime demonstration in the eastern region of Qatif to express solidarity with political prisoners and those arrested in earlier protests against the ruling Al Saud regime. On Thursday, the demonstrators called on Saudi authorities to release jailed opposition activists and prisoners of conscience including prominent Shia cleric Sheikh Nimr Baqir al-Nimr, who has long been held in custody without trial. The Saudi protesters denounced the regime's deadly crackdown on rallies and chanted slogans against Al Saud family. The protest comes a day after massive funeral processions were held in the town of Awamiyah and the Qatif region for two activists killed by regime forces.

Jeremiah 49:24-27

New King James Version (NKJV)

24 Damascus has grown feeble;
She turns to flee,
And fear has seized her.
Anguish and sorrows have taken her like a woman in labor.
25 Why is the city of praise not deserted, the city of My joy?
26 Therefore her young men shall fall in her streets,
And all the men of war shall be cut off in that day," says the LORD of hosts.
27 "I will kindle a fire in the wall of Damascus,
And it shall consume the palaces of Ben-Hadad."<sup>[a]</sup>

The burden of Damascus. Behold, Damascus is taken away from being a city, and it shall be a ruinous heap.

The bodies of 16 men who died under torture at the hands of Syria's feared security forces have been handed to their families, a monitoring group said early Friday. "We have received information of the death under torture at the hands of regime forces of 16 men from Harasta," said the Syrian Observatory for Human Rights. Tens of thousands of people are believed to be held in Syria's jails, and rights groups have condemned President Bashar al-Assad's regime for systematically torturing detainees. It is unknown when the 16 from Harasta died, but the Observatory says the reports of their deaths emerged after the bodies were handed back to their families from a Damascus hospital. "It happens all too frequently that the bodies of detainees with torture marks are handed back to their families," Observatory director Rami Abdel Rahman told AFP. "I fear for the lives of thousands of other detainees."

A high Iranian politician believes the Syrian revolution could be the catalyst for sparking a worldwide conflagration that will usher in an era of Muslim domination of the world. “One can smell from the crisis in Syria the coming ... of the end of times and the coming of the last Islamic messiah,” said Ruhollah Hosseinian, a member of the Islamic regime’s parliament. Previously he was deputy of the Intelligence Ministry and a member of board of trustees of Islamic Revolution Document Center. Shiites, whose clerics rule Iran with an iron fist, believe that at the end of times, the 12th Imam, Mahdi, a 9th century prophet, will reappear with Jesus Christ at his side, kill all the infidels and raise the flag of Islam in all four corners of the world. Many analysts believe Iran is seeking nuclear capability to bring on that Armageddon.

Noting that leaders also backed talks on a pre-accession pact with Serbia's old enemy, Kosovo, he added: "This is a demonstration of the powers of attraction the European Union has." Headline: Dead fish in Canandaigua Lake being investigated

An investigation is underway to learn why a greater-than-normal number of fish for this time of year are washing up on shore around Canandaigua Lake. During spawning season it is typical to find dead fish washing up due to various stresses fish experience, such as in defending their turf and dealing with a rapid increase in temperature, said Canandaigua Lake Watershed Manager Kevin Olvany. "The usual suspects" in Olvany's words are smaller fish like perch and sunfish. This season, he said, there appears to be a greater quantity of fish washing up of all varieties, which include larger fish — such as large bass. The situation warranted an investigation, Olvany said.

Wisconsin fisheries experts suspect a virus played a role in the death of hundreds of carp in Iowa and Dane counties this month. Georgia lawmaker Doug Teper (Democrat) has proposed a bill to replace the state's electric chair with the guillotine. Teper's reasoning? It would allow for death-row inmates as organ donors, he says, since the "Blade makes a clean cut and leaves vital organs intact." In 1995, a move to replace the electric chair with lethal injection (poisoning) failed in Georgia's assembly because legislators feared that prisoners could argue for a new sentencing hearing if the state changed the law.

Headline: Dangerous Heat Engulfs the West

Warnings for extreme heat are posted into the weekend across parts of Arizona, California and Nevada as a large, hot dome of high pressure builds over the region. Temperatures will soar well into the 110s and even 120s in the days ahead. One location could even approach 130 degrees!

Hot temperatures will also spread throughout the valleys of the Great Basin and Northwest, but not to the levels we will see in the Southwest.

Headline: EARTH-DIRECTED CME

June 28th began with a double solar flare. Magnetic fields around sunspots AR1777 and AR1778 erupted in quick succession between 0130 UT and 0345 UT, producing two C-class (C4, C7) flares. A CME emerging from the sprawling blast site appears to be heading for Earth, although not squarely.

An analysis of this complicated event is still underway. It is possible that Earth's magnetic field will receive a glancing blow from the CME on or about June 30th. The impact could cause minor geomagnetic storms.

Headline: Volcanic eruptions rage in Alaska: Geologist, “for some reason we can’t explain, activity picked up”

Alaska volcano eruptions are entering a more powerful phase. After six weeks of Alaska volcano eruptions reaching five miles into the sky, covering nearby communities with ash and shutting down air flights, there looks to be no end. Alaska volcano eruptions 2013 started in May at the Pavlof Volcano, which is located about 590 miles southwest of the major city Anchorage, in the Alaska Peninsula. The most powerful phase of Alaska volcano eruptions started with low-level rumblings. According to scientists at the federal-state Alaska Volcano Observatory, the latest phase of Alaska volcano eruptions started late on Monday and continued through the night into Tuesday. The blasts emanate from the crater of a 8,261 foot volcano. Tina Neal, an geologist at the observatory said, “For some reason we can’t explain, it picked up in intensity and vigor.”

Headline: Kamchatka’s Shiveluch volcano ejects 4.3 mile ash cloud

Russia's northernmost active volcano churned out ash to a height of up to 7,000 meters (almost 23,000 feet) in the country's Far East, local Emergencies Ministry's department reported on Friday. The 3,283-meter (10,771 feet) Shiveluch volcano increased activity in May 2009 and has been periodically spewing ash from three to ten kilometers. "Considering the direction and the force of wind, the cloud of ash moved to the southwest and dissipated without having reached residential areas," the department said in a statement. Although the current eruption poses no immediate threat to nearby settlements, the ensuing ash fallouts could be hazardous to health and the environment. The clouds of volcanic ash could also pose threat to air traffic because the tiny particles cause problems with aircraft engine turbines. There are more than 150 volcanoes on Kamchatka and up to 30 of them are active.

Headline: East US Poised for Flooding Into July

An increasing frequency of downpours, on top of already locally heavy June rainfall, will raise the threat of flooding in part of the eastern third of the nation into the first week of July. Initially, downpours will tend to be isolated and flooding will be limited to urban, poor drainage areas and right along small streams. However, as the pattern continues to evolve and a swath of tropical downpours stalls in the region, flooding problems can become more extensive and common.

The Arab Spring in Prophecy

(Perilous Times Luke 21:9 & Nation against Nation, Kingdom against Kingdom Matt.24:7)
(Revelation 6:3-4 Revelation 6:8)

"For nation shall rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom.
There will be earthquakes in various places, and there will be famines and sedition; these are the beginning of the labor pains."

Mark 13:8

CIVIL UNREST

Luke 21:9 and Matthew 24:7 speak of nation against nation and kingdom against kingdom in the end times. Revelation 6:3-4 speaks of the fiery red horse given power to make men slay one another and Revelation 6:8 speaks again of this red horse in conjunction with the pale horse of Death and Hades, as the one that has the power to kill by sword. I like to call this "The Arab Spring in Prophecy" because for us it is easy to identify- that's what the world calls it.

Luke 21:9: wars & commotions; the Greek word here is Akatastasia, meaning instability, a state of disorder, disturbance, confusion (revolutions)

Matthew 24:7: the Greek word for nation is Ethnos & refers to various ethnic groups fighting among themselves, where the next sentence in the verse refers to kingdoms (basileiva) fighting one another (not to be confused with an actual kingdom but rather the right or authority to rule over a kingdom) I have tried to separate it into areas that sweep EAST from the point of North America.

At least 48 people have been killed in ethnic violence in central Nigeria, a military spokesman has said. "We now have a total of 48 dead from the attacks on three villages," Captain Salisu Mustapha, spokesman for a military task force in the region, told AFP on Friday. He said the dead included 28 residents and 20 assailants killed by soldiers who responded to the violence on Thursday. Community leaders say the violence began after a spate of cattle thefts in Nigeria's central Plateau state.

Headline: China's west erupts in violence 2nd time in 3 days

A tense minority region in China's far west erupted in violence Friday for the second time in three days, barely hours after the government called the earlier unrest a "terrorist attack" and raised the death toll to 35. State media gave few details in a brief dispatch about Friday's unrest, saying it was "a violent attack" that took place on a pedestrian street in Hotan, a city in Xinjiang, a region that has seen China's minority Uighurs clash with the ethnic Han majority. No details on casualties were released. But a woman reached by phone in Hotan said that young men rioted on a pedestrian street near Tuanjie Square, or Unity Square, at around 3 p.m., setting fires. The woman, who said she lived a bus stop away from the street where the unrest took place, refused to give her name out of fear of government reprisal. She said people were not being allowed out of their homes or to gather on the streets. Armed police and riot police were guarding intersections and have ordered residents to stay at home and shopkeepers to close early, and the area around the square has been sealed, said a man surnamed Jia, who works in real estate.
