ISRAEL

(Zech.12:3 & 9 - The Burdensome Stone)

Zechariah 12:3 “And in that day will I make Jerusalem a burdensome stone for all people: all that burden themselves with it shall be cut in pieces, though all the people of the earth be gathered together against it.”

Headline: Israel opts to stay vague on chemical arms policy in wake of Syria disarmament

Israel's security cabinet is sticking to its decision not to ratify the Chemical Weapons Convention – even though top defense figures have come out in favor of the treaty, a senior official said. Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu convened the cabinet a few weeks ago to discuss Israel's policy on the pact, which outlaws the production, stockpiling and use of chemical weapons. Israel has signed but not ratified the treaty in the Knesset or cabinet. At the end of the meeting the ministers decided to continue with the existing policy. The senior official, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said the debate was held in the wake of the agreement between Russia and the United States about dismantling Syria's chemical weapons and allowing the UN inspectors to act in Syria. Although Israel signed the Chemical Weapons Convention in 1993, by not ratifying the accord it declines to subject itself to the treaty. Meanwhile, Israeli officials have commented on foreign media reports about alleged stockpiles of chemical weapons and the demand to dismantle them. Netanyahu raised the issue at a security cabinet session dealing with the situation in Syria, after the ministers heard surveys about the process of destroying Syria's arsenal of chemical weapons.

Headline: Ban: Releasing Murderers is Good, Building is Bad

Releasing terrorists is good, but approving new Jewish construction in Jerusalem is wrong, according to the head of the United Nations. Secretary General Ban Ki-moon, in a statement he released on Wednesday, condemned Israel's announcement that it will build 1,500 new housing units in the Jerusalem neighborhood of Ramat Shlomo. "Settlement activity is contrary to international law and constitutes an obstacle to peace. Any measures that prejudge final status issues will not be recognized by the international community," said the statement. Ban then expressed "appreciation" for Israel's decision to release terrorists who murdered Israelis as a "gesture" to the Palestinian Authority. According to the statement, Ban "understands that Israel took a difficult step in continuing to release Palestinian pre-Oslo prisoners in the face of deep domestic opposition, and appreciates this gesture." However, he added, "In keeping with the statement by the Quartet on September 27, the Secretary General expects the parties to take every possible step to promote conditions conducive to the success of the negotiating process and to refrain from actions that undermine trust."

Headline: EU demands Israel stop settlement activity, 'including natural growth'

Headline: Israel plans another 3,360 settler homes amid EU anger

The figure includes the construction of 1,500 new homes in east Jerusalem which was announced early on Wednesday but the report also detailed plans for another 3,360 homes which are to be pushed through various stages of the planning process.

The European Union's foreign policy chief Thursday condemned Israel's announcement of expansion plans in East Jerusalem neighborhoods, calling on the government to desist even from construction intended to accommodate "natural growth." "The EU deplores the recent settlement announcements. Any actions that could hamper or undermine the ongoing negotiations must be avoided," Catherine Ashton said in a statement. "The EU has repeatedly stated that settlements are illegal under international law. It has also called on Israel to end all settlement activity, including natural growth, and to dismantle outposts erected since March 2001." With her statement, Ashton joined a long list of international leaders who criticized the Israeli plan, which was largely seen as a response to the release of 26 Palestinian prisoners from Israeli prisons Tuesday night. Controversial in Israel, the prisoner release occurred in the framework of US-brokered peace talks with the Palestinian Authority. PA President Mahmoud Abbas's spokesman, Nabil Abu Rdeneh, was quoted by the AFP news agency saying the move "destroys the peace process and is a message to the international community that Israel is a country that does not respect international law."

Headline: Palestinians threaten international legal action over Israeli settlement construction

The Palestinian Authority announced Thursday that it was "seriously studying" filing immediate complaints against Israel with international courts and forums in a bid to halt construction in West Bank settlements and east Jerusalem neighborhoods. The PA Foreign Ministry said that the complaints would be designed to "preserve peace and the negotiations" with Israel. The ministry said that the PA was seeking a condemnation of Israel for violating international law. Strongly condemning recent decisions by the Israeli Government to build new housing units in settlements and east Jerusalem neighborhoods, the ministry called on the international community, especially the US and UN, to do more than issue denunciations of Israel. "Israel is seeking to destroy the two-state solution and undermine any effort to ensure the success of the peace negotiations," the foreign ministry said in a statement. "We call on the international community to take action and measures to put a decisive end to settlement and relate to it as a war crime." PLO officials on Thursday similarly called for halting the peace talks with Israel in response to continued settlement construction and Israeli "raids and assassinations" in the West Bank. The officials called for an "overall national strategic revolution" that would see Palestinians going to international agencies and the UN Security Council to take measures against Israel.

Headline: Jordan: Building in settlements – direct threat to peace

Jordan's Information Minister Mohammad Al-Momani fiercely condemned Israel's decision to build 1,500 housing units past the Green Line. He said that Israel's decision is a direct threat to the peace process, defying the will of the international community and international decision related to the conflict. He said the Israeli method only serves extremism and violence.

Headline: Report: Hezbollah Preparing for 'Battle for Damascus'

Hezbollah is enlisting 15,000 fighters for what it is calling the “battle for Damascus,” Reshet Bet reports. The report is based on information from sources in the Syrian opposition. Hezbollah has been heavily involved in fighting alongside Syrian President Bashar Assad as he battles opposition groups. Hezbollah recently claimed to have taken the decision to withdraw 1,200 of its troops from Syria and to focus on security in Lebanon, where the group’s strongholds have been targeted in terror attacks. However, this latest reports suggests the purported withdrawal may have been a diversion aimed at lulling the group’s opponents in Syria into a false sense of security, as well as an attempt to offset growing dissent against the group back in Lebanon. Al-Arabiya reports that Hezbollah and other groups fighting with Assad have been tightening the siege on areas south of the Syrian capital. Fierce fighting has been reported in the region, and rebel groups have reported Hezbollah and Iraqi involvement. Assad has turned to various groups of foreign fighters for help in his battle to maintain power, including Hezbollah, Iran, and North Korea. His opponents have had significant help from overseas as well; several thousand Islamist fighters from the Muslim world - and some from Europe, Israel and the United States as well - have reportedly joined the battle against Assad.

Headline: Tripoli clashes renew

Clashes resumed Thursday afternoon in Tripoli after a brief two-day lull of calm that followed a week of fierce fighting and growing tension over the Jabal Mohsen-based Arab Democratic Party's purported role in August's twin bombings in the city. Lebanon's state National News Agency reported shortly after 2 p.m. that fighting erupted between the rival Jabal Mohsen and Bab al-Tebbaneh neighborhoods. The NNA said that gunfire, grenade blasts and sniper fire rang out along Syria Street, which divides the Alawite-populated Jabal Mohsen and the neighboring Sunni area of Bab al-Tebbaneh, adding that the Lebanese army was responding to the sources of fire. The gunfire from the fighting was reaching as far as the international highway linking Tripoli to the Akkar, especially near the Abu Ali Roundabout, the report added. Meanwhile, LBC television cited security sources as saying that the Lebanese army engaged in fighting with armed men in Bab al-Tebbaneh after troops attempted to raid the neighborhood and arrest Ali Sharkas, Mahmoud al-Halaq and Khaled al-Qawas, who are charged with firing into Jabal Mohsen. As the army attempted to arrest Sharkas, the man threw a hand grenade at the patrol, after which a group of armed men opened fire at the troops, LBC added. Thursday's resumption of fighting comes amid heightened tension in the city after the Internal Security Forces Information Branch summoned Ali Eid—the father of Jabal Mohsen's ADP leader Rifaat Eid—for questioning regarding the August bombings that hit two Tripoli mosques.

Saudi Arabia

Headline: Saudis Pushing UN Resolution to Condemn Syria Violence

Saudi Arabia has initiated a draft UN resolution that would strongly condemn "widespread and systematic gross violations of human rights" by the Syrian government and "any" abuses by anti-government armed groups, reports The Associated Press. UN diplomats said the draft resolution, obtained on Wednesday by AP, is expected to be submitted to the human rights committee of the less powerful but much larger General Assembly by Friday's deadline. The committee is expected to discuss it next week and vote on it in late November, according to the report. If approved, it is virtually certain to be adopted by the 193-member General Assembly in December. However, unlike Security Council resolutions, General Assembly resolutions are not legally binding. The draft resolution is highly critical of President Bashar Al-Assad's government, expressing "outrage" at the continuing escalation of violence that has killed more than 100,000 people since March 2011. It also expresses "alarm" at the regime's failure to protect its people.

ISAIAH 19: 1-4

1: The burden of Egypt. Behold, the LORD rideth upon a swift cloud, and shall come into Egypt: and the idols of Egypt shall be moved at his presence, and the heart of Egypt shall melt in the midst of it.

2: And I will set the Egyptians against the Egyptians: and they shall fight every one against his brother, and every one against his neighbour; city against city, and kingdom against kingdom. 3: And the spirit of Egypt shall fail in the midst thereof; and I will destroy the counsel thereof: and they shall seek to the idols, and to the charmers, and to them that have familiar spirits, and to the wizards.

4: And the Egyptians will I give over into the hand of a cruel lord; and a fierce king shall rule over them, saith the Lord, the LORD of hosts.

Headline: Egyptian Islamists call for daily protests before Mursi trial

Supporters of Egypt's ousted President Mohamed Morsi have reportedly held demonstrations in Cairo, Alexandria, Damanhur and Port Said. The protesters on Wednesday chanted slogans against what they called a coup by the Egyptian military against Morsi. Demonstrators also expressed opposition to the military rule through an unelected government. On the same day, large crowds of al-Azhar University students in Cairo held a demonstration on campus to renew their demand for the reinstatement of Morsi. Police fired tear gas on the students and arrested several of them. Since the start of the academic year in September, Egyptian university campuses have witnessed a number of protests. The student protest on Wednesday came after Egyptian authorities announced the detention of Essam el-Erian, deputy leader of the Muslim Brotherhood's Freedom and Justice Party. Erian was the most senior Brotherhood figure on the run after the arrest of nearly all of its top leaders.

Jeremiah 49:24-27

New King James Version (NKJV)

- 24 Damascus has grown feeble;
She turns to flee,
And fear has seized her.
Anguish and sorrows have taken her like a woman in labor.
- 25 Why is the city of praise not deserted, the city of My joy?
- 26 Therefore her young men shall fall in her streets,
And all the men of war shall be cut off in that day," says the LORD of hosts.
- 27 "I will kindle a fire in the wall of Damascus,
And it shall consume the palaces of Ben-Hadad."^[a]

The burden of Damascus. Behold, Damascus is taken away from being a city, and it shall be a ruinous heap.

Syria

Headline: Syria completes destruction of chemical arms equipment

THE HAGUE, Netherlands — Syria has completed destruction of critical equipment for producing chemical weapons and filling munitions with poison gas, the global chemical weapons watchdog said Thursday. The announcement by the Organization for the Prohibition of Chemical Weapons came one day ahead of the November 1 deadline set by the Hague-based organization for Damascus to destroy or “render inoperable” all chemical weapon production facilities and machinery for mixing chemicals into poison gas and filling munitions. Destruction of the equipment means that Syria can no longer produce new chemical weapons. However, Damascus still has to start destroying existing weapons and stockpiles. The country is believed to have around 1,000 metric tons of chemicals and weapons including mustard gas and the nerve agent sarin. In a statement, the OPCW said its team is “now satisfied that it has verified — and seen destroyed — all of Syria’s declared critical production and mixing/filling equipment.” It added that, “no further inspection activities are currently planned.”

Headline: Lebanese report: Turkey behind attack in Latakia

A Syrian air defense base near the port city of Latakia was completely destroyed on Thursday morning in a missile attack from the sea, Arab media reported. According to reports emanating from the rebels seeking to oust Syrian President Bashar Assad, a large explosion occurred near the army base in Latakia on Wednesday night. Witness posted on Twitter that the explosion happened near coastal city Jableh, 30 kilometers south of Latakia, a stronghold of Assad's Alawites. It is unclear who is behind the explosion or its purpose. There were no reports of casualties. Members of the Syrian and Lebanese media have charged that Israel is behind the attack. Israel's defense establishment has not responded to the report. Channel 2 News reported that the attack's target was a S-125 surface-to-air missiles battery. Satellite images of the area obtained by Channel 2 show the Russian-made Neva missiles, as well as a SA-3 missile battery, that also includes a command center with a radar to track the missiles' targets and broadcasting antennas to track the missiles as they are launched. The missiles have a range of 35km. and a 70k. warhead.

Headline: Braced for imminent nuclear accord with Iran, US pulls away from military option, IDF stays on the ready

Israel’s high command, working on the assumption that an American-Iranian nuclear accord is near its final stage, plans to keep in place advanced preparations for a unilateral military strike on Iran’s nuclear program into 2014 – hence the IDF’s request for a supplemental NIS3.5bn (app. $1bn) defense budget this week. debkafile’s military sources report exclusively that the main body of the accord is essentially complete. All the same, President Barack Obama plans to announce before Christmas that only partial agreement has been achieved and negotiations will continue. He will be cagey in public – partly because not all parts of the accord have been finalized, although the pace of US-Iranian negotiations have been accelerated, and partly to avoid coming clean on the full scope of the deal with Tehran. The US-Iranian talks are being held at three levels: 1. American and Iranian diplomats and nuclear experts are discussing the technical aspects of the accord in Vienna. Some of these meetings - but not all - take place at International Atomic Energy Agency headquarters in the city. The talks in Vienna between IAEA chief Yukiya Amano and Iranian deputy foreign minister Abbas Araqchi on Oct. 29-30 in Vienna were held to review items already approved between the American and Iranian delegations. It remained for the two officials to consider how to integrate those understandings in the future IAEA inspections routine. Araqchi reported he had brought new proposals to the talks, saying they were productive. Amano said more cautiously: "I am very hopeful that we can come out with a good result." 2. Secretary of State John Kerry and Undersecretary of State for Political Affairs Wendy Sherman, who is the senior US negotiator, are handling the second level of direct negotiations opposite Foreign Minister Mohammed Zarif and his deputy Abbas Araqchi. Because of his direct involvement, Kerry sounded unusually impatient Monday October 28, when he said, "Some have suggested that somehow there's something wrong with giving diplomacy a chance. We will not succumb to those fear tactics and forces that suggest otherwise." He did not name Israeli Prime Minister Binyamin Netanyahu, but clearly lashed out against what he regards as the prime minister's "fear tactics." Neither did he admit how much progress had been made in the direct US line with Tehran. 3. The third level deals with sanctions. It is run by officials of the US Treasury Department's Office of Foreign Assets Control, which oversees the sanctions regime, and senior staff from President Hassan Rouhani's bureau. They are working to determine which sanctions will be lifted and at which stage of the negotiations.

Headline: Washington reiterates commitment to help Iraq combat terrorism

Twin car bombs north of Baghdad killed six people Thursday, while attacks elsewhere in Iraq left six others dead, officials said, the latest casualties in a nationwide spike in unrest. The attacks come as Iraq witnesses its worst violence since 2008, a surge in bloodshed that has killed more than 5,400 people this year despite authorities having carried out a swathe of operations and implemented tightened security measures. In Thursday's deadliest attack, twin car bombs in a residential area in Tuz Khurmatu, a disputed town north of Baghdad, killed six people and wounded 42 others.

Three of the dead were from the same family. As emergency responders rushed to the scene of the attack, a third bomb went off, but did not cause any casualties, Mayor Shallal Abdul told AFP.

"The two car bombs went off simultaneously, and bear the fingerprints of Al-Qaeda," a police major, who spoke on condition of anonymity, told AFP.

Headline: Eurozone unemployment reaches new record high

The number of unemployed in the 17-nation eurozone reached a record high in September as the bloc's nascent recovery failed to generate jobs, official data showed Thursday. The ranks of the jobless swelled by 60,000 to a record 19.45 million, according to Eurostat, the European Union's statistics agency. Though the unemployment rate remained steady at 12.2 percent, the previous month was revised up from 12 percent. "The latest figures put a dent in hopes that the labor market may have reached a turning point," said analyst Ben May of Capital Economics. A sharp and unexpected drop in inflation also cast doubts over the recovery of the eurozone, which just emerged from recession, and put pressure on the European Central Bank to act. The euro dropped from above $1.3700 to about $1.3640 in midday trading. Ernst & Young analyst Marie Diron said growth will remain slow and unemployment high until the eurozone finishes cleaning up its banking sector to restore confidence and help boost lending. "A stable unemployment rate is as good as it gets for the eurozone in the current environment," she said. "Businesses are not yet confident enough about the growth outlook to switch to creating jobs."

Headline: Moscow Conducts Large-Scale Nuclear Attack Drill

Russian strategic forces carried out a large-scale surprise military drill on Wednesday, launching four nuclear missiles that were closely monitored by U.S. intelligence agencies, U.S. officials said. The drill began around 9:00 am ET and included the test launch of two land-based intercontinental ballistic missiles (ICBMs) and two submarine-launched ballistic missiles (SLBMs). The test firings were unusual because of the number of missiles fired at one time, said officials who discussed some details of the drill on condition of anonymity. State Department spokeswoman Alexandra F. Bell confirmed the tests and said the long-range missile firings were "conducted consistent with the requirements of the New START Treaty." At the Pentagon, spokeswoman Cynthia O. Smith said: "With regard to Russia's recent testing of its strategic forces missiles, the United States received the proper notifications prior to the launches." Other officials said the tests were notified in advance to the U.S. government as required by a 1988 U.S.-Soviet agreement requiring advance notification of ICBM and SLBM launches. The agreement requires notifying the Nuclear Risk Reduction Center, run by the Pentagon, of the impending launches within four days of their launch.

Headline: Japan, China Territorial Tensions Rising Over Unmanned Drones

China on Thursday accused Japan of interfering in its recent naval exercises and said it may take unspecified further action if the meddling doesn't stop. The tough talk comes amid a bitter dispute over competing claims to an uninhabited island group in the East China Sea. Defense Ministry spokesman Yang Yujun told reporters that a Japanese navy ship entered the exercise zone on Oct. 25 and stayed for three days, despite a Chinese notice to ships that it's navy would be conducting drills in the area. Yang said Japanese ships and aircraft also lingered close by for days conducting "high intensity" tracking and surveillance. "Not only do those actions constitute interference in our normal training activities, they also threaten the safety of our ships and planes and could lead to accidents or miscalculations," Yang said. Japan must cease such "provocations" or "bear responsibility for the consequences," he said. "China reserves the right to take further measures." Oct. 31, 2013

Headline: China Moves Spy Ship to Hawaiian Waters in "Retaliation" Against U.S.

China has sent a surveillance ship to Hawaiian waters for the very first time in an unprecedented move which is being described as a provocative retaliation to the U.S. naval presence in the East China Sea. According to a report by GoldSea.com, a news outlet aimed at Asian-Americans, a 4,000 ton People's Liberation Army electronic reconnaissance ship was recently spotted near Hawaii within the U.S. 200-nautical mile EEZ (Exclusive Economic Zone). The report was also picked up by the Honolulu Star-Advertiser, which ran an article entitled China moves spy ship near isles, Asian media say. The ship "is equipped with various electronic gear for eavesdropping on radio communications and tracking ships and aircraft. It is also believed to have jamming equipment to interfere with the radio communications of other ships," according to the report. The development is unprecedented because China has never sent a ship within the U.S. EEZ, although the U.S. has entered the Chinese EEZ on numerous occasions for decades. It is not known whether the ship violated the territorial waters of the United States, which extend to 12 nautical miles under the 1982 UN convention on the Law of the Sea. The fact that the ship got within 2,400 miles of San Francisco represents "a potential for offensive actions against the US by the Chinese military," according to the report. The development is apparently part of China's growing military confidence, which was also exemplified with the country's recent declassification of its nuclear-armed Xia-class submarine fleet, which according to state media represents an "assassin's mace that would make adversaries tremble."

Headline: Pedophilia Officially Classified as Sexual Orientation by American Psychiatric Association

A shocking announcement made by the American Psychiatric Association (APA) in its latest edition of the Diagnostic and Statistical Manual of Mental Disorders caused an uproar among pro-family organizations and many others, as the APA states it now classifies pedophilia as a sexual orientation or preference instead of a disorder. Sandy Rios, cultural expert and talk show host on the American Family Radio network, has issued a statement on behalf of the American Family Association in response to the APA’s position on pedophilia: "Just as the APA declared homosexuality an ‘orientation’ under tremendous pressure from homosexual activists in the mid-'70s, now, under pressure from pedophile activists, they have declared the desire for sex with children an ‘orientation,’ too. It's not hard to see where this will lead. More children will become sexual prey.

Prophecy Sign: Persecution Matthew 24:9 & Revelation 6:9

“Then they will deliver you up to tribulation and kill you, and you will be hated by all nations for My name’s sake.” (Matthew)

“When He opened the fifth seal, I saw under the altar the souls of those who had been slain for the word of God and for the testimony which they held.” (Revelation)

Headline: Muslim Brotherhood 'just like evangelicals'

Department of Homeland Security adviser Mohamed Elibiary has penned yet another controversial tweet, this time likening the Muslim Brotherhood to evangelical Christians and comparing the Brotherhood’s indoctrination to Bible study groups. WND found that Elibiary tweeted: “Ignorant #Islamophobes (redundant I know) protested my saying #MB like #Evangelicals. Usra like Bible study grp.” The “MB,” or Muslim Brotherhood, seeks a worldwide Islamic caliphate ruled by Shariah, or Islamic law, and teaches followers to help establish an Islamic state wherever they live.

An usra is a small teaching group devised by Brotherhood founder Hassan al-Banna to indoctrinate his followers. Brotherhood leaders form weekly meetings to teach the Islamist group’s methods and ideology. Earlier this month, Elibiary used his Twitter account to warn the tea party against attempting to change the U.S. political landscape through “Christianist Xenophobia.” Elibiary further charged some “white identity/privilege types” have a problem with a “black president” and “brown Mexicans.” Elibiary further provoked controversy when he used his Twitter profile to defend the Muslim Brotherhood while implying Egypt’s persecuted Christian minority incited against Islam.

Prophecy Sign: EARTHQUAKES/WEATHER

(Isaiah 24:19-20 , Matthew 24:7, Mark 13:8 , Luke 21:11 , Luke 21:25 - storms)

Headline: Northeast China hit by two earthquakes

Communication services were down in Songyuan, northeast China, after the area was hit by two earthquakes Thursday morning, officials said. A 5.5-magnitude quake shook the city at 11:03 a.m., China's state-run Xinhua News Agency reported. That quake had a depth of about 5 miles. Then, 5.0-magnitude quake at a depth of about 4 miles struck at 11:10 a.m. An officer from Qian Gorlos Mongol autonomous county said telecommunications were cut off due to the quakes. There were no reports of injuries or deaths, but some houses in the region were damaged, Xinhua said.

The Arab Spring in Prophecy

(Perilous Times Luke 21:9 & Nation against Nation, Kingdom against Kingdom Matt.24:7)
(Revelation 6:3-4 Revelation 6:8)

“For nation shall rise against nation,
and kingdom against kingdom.
There will be earthquakes in various places, and there will be famines and sedition; these are the beginning of the labor pains.”

Mark 13:8

CIVIL UNREST

Luke 21:9 and Matthew 24:7 speak of nation against nation and kingdom against kingdom in the end times. Revelation 6:3-4 speaks of the fiery red horse given power to make men slay one another and Revelation 6:8 speaks again of this red horse in conjunction with the pale horse of Death and Hades, as the one that has the power to kill by sword. I like to call this “The Arab Spring in Prophecy” because for us it is easy to identify- that’s what the world calls it.

Luke 21:9: wars & commotions; the Greek word here is Akatastasia, meaning instability, a state of disorder, disturbance, confusion (revolutions)

Matthew 24:7: the Greek word for nation is Ethnos & refers to various ethnic groups fighting among themselves, where the next sentence in the verse refers to kingdoms (basileiva) fighting one another (not to be confused with an actual kingdom but rather the right or authority to rule over a kingdom) I have tried to separate it into areas that sweep EAST from the point of North America.

Middle East- ONLY COUNTRIES NOT IN PROPHECY

Headline: Bahrainis hold anti-regime protests

Anti-regime protesters in Bahrain have held demonstrations in several towns and villages across the country. Demonstrators on Wednesday chanted slogans against the ruling Al Khalifa family and expressed solidarity with the opposition leaders who have been imprisoned by the regime. The protests were held after a court sentenced ten anti-regime protesters to jail. Nine of the protesters were sentenced to between three months and one year in prison for participating in anti-regime demonstrations. Another protester was given a six-month jail term for an alleged attack on a police station. In another incident also on Wednesday, Bahraini regime forces stormed and shut down an exhibition called the revolution museum, two days after it was opened by Bahrain's main opposition group, al-Wefaq. The event had been organized to document regime brutality over the past months of the uprising in Bahrain. According to al-Wefaq, the Manama regime's harsh clampdown on activists has intensified over the past months. Amnesty International has also censured the Bahraini regime over its crackdown on protesters.

Europe

Headline: Thousands protest in Greece over planned new tax

Thousands of protesters clogged the Greek capital's streets Thursday to demonstrate against a new property tax. The anger was registered across society, with retirees, disabled groups, shipyard workers and high school teachers among those taking part in demonstrations. Parliament is due to vote next week on proposals to replace an emergency property tax included on electricity bills with a permanent levy, breaking a pledge made last year by the conservative-led coalition government to abolish the tax. More than 50 conservative lawmakers are demanding changes to proposals, arguing they unfairly burden their rural constituents. The government is also planning new cuts to state benefits and the public workforce, triggering another general strike planned by unions for Nov. 6. Outside the Labor Ministry, more than a thousand disabled demonstrators who traveled from around Greece blocked traffic outside the building, before filing through the city center in wheelchairs, on crutches and using white canes for the blind.

Headline: Indonesia hit with mass strike over wage hike demands

Tens of thousands of workers went on strike across Indonesia Thursday, in the latest industrial action to hit Southeast Asia's top economy as its citizens seek a greater share of the spoils from stellar growth. Unions are calling for hefty pay rises as the cost of living skyrockets due to surging inflation, which has been driven up in recent months by an unpopular fuel price hike. Factories producing everything from clothes to electronics, often for international companies, stopped operations as workers across the country downed tools on day one of a two-day strike. Union leaders said that two million took part in the action across the archipelago. Their figures are usually higher than those given by the police, who said around 60,000 had walked out in the capital and surrounding districts and there were also small strikes and demonstrations in other parts of the country. Security was tight with more than 17,000 police mobilised in Jakarta and surrounding areas. Thousands of workers in uniform marched past deserted factories in Pulogadung industrial estate in East Jakarta, led by a truck with people shouting from loudspeakers. Hundreds of strikers rode motorcycles, waved banners and shouted: "Long live the workers" and "Raise our pay". "I am not asking to live in a castle or sleep on a bed of gold, just for what we deserve from working so hard to contribute to the economy," said Achmad, 46, a welder who like many Indonesians goes by one name. The protests were largely peaceful although police said that some windows were smashed and motorbikes pushed over in the industrial hub of Bekasi, just outside Jakarta. Elsewhere, police said around 5,000 took part in the strike in Surabaya in East Java province, and 1,000 downed tools in Makassar on the central island of Sulawesi. TV pictures also showed crowds striking in the industrial hub of Batam island, near Singapore, although police did not have an estimate of the numbers involved. "All factories in Java's industrial hubs have stopped," said Said Iqbal, chairman of the Confederation of Indonesian Workers Union, adding that the strike would affect 20 of the nation's 34 provinces. With inflation hitting 8.4 percent year-on-year in September, Iqbal said ordinary people were deeply concerned over the rising cost of living.

Headline: 1 Killed in Police Firing on Crowd in India

One person was killed and at least five others were injured when police opened fire to disperse a crowd in the northeast Indian state of Assam on Thursday, local media reported. The incident took place in Goalpara district where some people were occupying a national highway, said Indo-Asian News Service. The crowd was opposed to the elections to a local government and were holding protest. Disputes among local tribes were the cause of the clash, said police. Assam is populated by numerous tribes and ethnic communities with different cultural and ethnic identities. Clashes took place between local tribes and Muslim community last year, triggering widespread violence which killed dozens of people.
