Headline: Islamists Threaten: Al Aqsa is 'a Volcano'

The Islamic Movement in Israel warned Sunday against an alleged Israeli plan that, it says, will divide the Temple Mount between Jews and Muslims in a way that allows Jews to pray regularly, similar to current arrangements at the Cave of Machpela in Hevron. Sheikh Kamal al-Hatib, Deputy Head of the movement headed by radical preacher Raed Salah, said that this is “a great danger,” and that political and technical preparations have already been readied. Now, he claims – all that is need is “a halakhic [Jewish legal] decree” in order to go ahead with implementation of the plan. This is the last step before Jews declare that work has begun on building the Third Temple, he claimed. Hatib said “The Palestinian people will rise up to defend Al Aqsa as it did after Ariel Sharon tried to defile it in 2000.” He called the Al Aqsa Mosque “the mouth of a volcano” that is “about to explode.” The warning was likely relating to a bill, tabled by Religious Affairs Minister Rabbi Eli Ben-Dahan (Jewish Home), which would allow Jews equal prayer rights on the Temple Mount. That bill has already drawn anger from Arab MKs, many of whom oppose the presence of Jews on the Mount altogether.

Headline: Just how bad is the Geneva nuclear deal for Israel?

Headline: Zero Hour: Israel must now choose between attack and enslavement

Headline: Netanyahu hardens tone on nuclear Iran

Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu has been denouncing the emerging — but not finalized — agreement between six Western powers and Iran over the Islamic Republic’s nuclear program as a “very dangerous and bad deal for peace and the international community.” But is it really as atrocious as Netanyahu believes? The exact terms of the proposed interim deal are still unclear, but it would likely entail a freeze of Iran’s nuclear progress in return for limited sanctions relief. Whatever the final terms, it appears certain that Netanyahu’s maximalist demands will not be met. On the other hand, the deal would seriously slow down Iran’s march toward a nuclear weapon — for the first time in years — while leaving the most painful part of the sanctions regime firmly in place until a permanent agreement is signed. US Secretary of State John Kerry tried his best in the early hours of Sunday morning to assuage Israel’s fears. “As President [Barack] Obama has said, his goal is... to make certain that Iran does not acquire a nuclear weapon,” he told reporters in Geneva, moments after Iran and the P5+1 powers — the five permanent members of the UN Security Council plus Germany — came close to signing the deal and suspended talks for 10 days. “That remains our goal because we remain committed to preventing the proliferation of weapons of mass destruction and we remain committed to protecting our allies, particularly our allies in that region where security is so critical.”

Headline: PA Arabs Riot in Yehuda and Shomron

About 100 Palestinian Authority Arabs threw rocks at Israeli troops, Monday afternoon in the Yehuda (Judea) village of Hursa, southwest of Hevron. A similar incident took place earlier in Al-Fawar, next to Hevron. Dozens of PA Arabs rioted at various locations in the Binyamin region of the Shomron (Samaria), just north of Jerusalem. In all the incidents, soldiers used riot-control measures to disperse the Arabs.

Headline: ‘No deal is better than a bad deal’ with Israel, PA says

Palestinian negotiator Muhammad Shtayyeh said Monday that failing to reach an agreement with Israel was a better option than signing a bad treaty, the French news agency AFP reported.

“In the absence of political will from the Israeli side to take the negotiations seriously, we believe that it is better not to reach a deal than to reach a bad deal,” Shtayyeh said in a statement. Shtayyeh appeared to allude to Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu’s comments to US Secretary of State John Kerry last week to the effect that the US should not accept a mediocre deal over Iran’s nuclear program. The Palestinian negotiator went on to assert that Israeli settlement construction was preventing a reasonable deal and that a bad agreement would be “an agreement based upon Israeli colonial ambitions rather than upon internationally accepted principles of international law.”

“Israel is using negotiations only as a tool to avoid international pressure while on the ground it continues its colonization plans rather than peace plans,” he was quoted as saying. Shtayyeh, who is also a member of the ruling Fatah Central Committee, rejected outright the suggestion of an interim agreement that the US is reportedly promoting. “We are not looking for an extension of the interim period or any other kind of interim agreement,” Shtayyeh said. “What we seek is a comprehensive and final agreement that provides the requirements of justice for Palestine.”

Headline: Amman keen to assume Saudi UNSC seat: Jordan min

The Jordanian information minister says his country is keen to take up a non-permanent seat on the UN Security Council, which Saudi Arabia won and then rejected in an unprecedented move. On Monday, Mohammed Momeni said Amman is “consulting” with the Arab kingdoms in the Persian Gulf region, the United States and other allied governments in an effort to gather support for its bid ahead of another UN General Assembly vote. The minister, who is also the Jordanian government spokesman, further stated that Amman regards receiving the Security Council seat as a “recognition” of the country’s standing. The General Assembly must formally approve Jordan as a replacement for Saudi Arabia. The date of the vote is yet to be determined. On November 7, a UN diplomat, speaking on condition of anonymity, said Saudi Arabia has persuaded Amman to replace Riyadh in the UN body, saying, “Jordan came under a lot of pressure to take the seat.”

Headline: Jumblatt: Syrian regime seeking to transfer strife to Lebanon

Progressive Socialist Party leader MP Walid Jumblatt said on Monday that the Syrian regime is seeking to transfer strife to Lebanon. “I call on all Lebanese and Arab Druze people to distance themselves [from the Syrian crisis] because the Syrian regime is seeking to transfer strife to Lebanon,” Jumbatt said in his weekly column in Al-Anbaa online newspaper. The PSP leader also called on all Lebanese parties to distance themselves from the Syrian conflict and not to intervene in Syrian matters. Elsewhere, Jumbatt said that “the Middle East crisis and sharp sectarian conflict might increase little by little.” He added that this will be a result of “Israel’s successful pressure to render the Iranian-Western negotiations a failure,” in reference to the failure of world powers and Iran to reach an agreement on Tehran’s nuclear program over the weekend in Geneva.

Headline: Lebanon to file complaint against Israel espionage

Parliamentary Communications and Media Committee chief MP Hassan Fadlallah revealed on Monday that Lebanon would file a complaint with the UN against Israel for deploying spying equipment along the border with Lebanon. “The Parliamentary Communications and Media Committee has decided on a series of measures to face Israeli spying. Lebanon will file a complaint before the UN Security Council, especially since the aggression is taking place under the umbrella of the presence of the UNIFIL troops and [despite] UN Security Council Resolution 1701,” Fadlallah said following the committee’s meeting. Fadlallah also revealed that the ministerial committee assigned to follow up on the issue indicated that Israel has erected more than 20 spy towers since 2010. The committee also revealed the spy equipment that were introduced to Lebanon have been increasing in time. “I will not explain further because these are state secrets,” he added.

Saudi King Abdullah has received a telephone call from Russian President Vladimir Putin to discuss the latest regional and international issues, the official Saudi Press Agency (SPA) reported on Sunday. “During the telephone conversation, they reviewed bilateral relations between the two countries in addition to the latest developments at regional and international arenas,” SPA reported. Meanwhile, Agence France-Presse quoted the Kremlin saying that the two leaders “expressed a mutual interest in furthering (their) cooperation and maintaining contacts at various levels” aimed at helping resolve world disputes. In October, Saudi Arabia has rejected a much coveted U.N. Security Council seat.

ISAIAH 19: 1-4

1: The burden of Egypt. Behold, the LORD rideth upon a swift cloud, and shall come into Egypt: and the idols of Egypt shall be moved at his presence, and the heart of Egypt shall melt in the midst of it.

2: And I will set the Egyptians against the Egyptians: and they shall fight every one against his brother, and every one against his neighbour; city against city, and kingdom against kingdom. 3: And the spirit of Egypt shall fail in the midst thereof; and I will destroy the counsel thereof: and they shall seek to the idols, and to the charmers, and to them that have familiar spirits, and to the wizards.

4: And the Egyptians will I give over into the hand of a cruel lord; and a fierce king shall rule over them, saith the Lord, the LORD of hosts.

Headline: Egypt Announces Expanded Cooperation with Russia

Headline: Egypt: Russian warship docks in Alexandria

On Saturday Egyptian Foreign Minister Nabil Fahmy said his country will expand cooperation with Russia following a cooling of relations with the US that has stretched on since former President Mohammed Morsi was deposed in July. Reports indicate that Russian President Vladimir Putin will visit Egypt later this month where he is expected to announce a $15 billion arms deal between the two nations partially funded by Saudi Arabia, which likewise is experiencing a crisis in its relations with the US. Fahmy said Egypt is beginning a "new phase" as ties with America weaken. He stated, according to Al Arabiya, that "independence is having choices. So the objective of this foreign policy is to provide Egypt with choices, more choices. So I'm not going to substitute. I'm going to add." The statement comes despite Secretary of State John Kerry's pledges of friendship during his visit to Cairo last week in an attempt to patch ties. In early October the US froze part of its $1.5 billion annual military aid to Egypt following the crackdown on the Muslim Brotherhood. Some anticipate that this "new phase" in Egypt signals a shift of regional powers. Last Friday the US started removing its navy from the region less than a week after Russia brought its most powerful nuclear-powered battleship into the Mediterranean.

New King James Version (NKJV)

- 24 Damascus has grown feeble;
She turns to flee,
And fear has seized her.
Anguish and sorrows have taken her like a woman in labor.
- 25 Why is the city of praise not deserted, the city of My joy?
- 26 Therefore her young men shall fall in her streets,
And all the men of war shall be cut off in that day," says the LORD

Headline: Syrian rebels recapture northern military base near Aleppo international airport

Headline: Bomb attack kills dozen people in Syria's Aleppo

Syrian rebels launched a counteroffensive in the northern city of Aleppo, recapturing a base near its international airport hours after the army advanced into the area, activists said Saturday. The fighting came as the main Western-backed opposition group began a two-day meeting in Istanbul to decide whether they will attend a proposed peace conference the U.S. and Russia are trying to convene in Geneva. In Aleppo, al-Qaida-linked rebels and other Islamic fighters recaptured the Brigade 80 base that had protected the city's airport, the Britain-based Syrian Observatory for Human Rights and the Aleppo Media Center said. The government has not confirmed losing the base. The government-held Aleppo International Airport, which has been closed due to fighting for almost a year, is one of the Syrian rebels' major objectives. Brigade 80 first fell to rebels in February, but government troops seized parts of it early Friday during an offensive. The rebels launched a push to retake it later that day and fighting ranged overnight into Saturday, with 20 government soldiers killed as well as more than 40 rebels from different groups, including al-Qaida's al-Nusra Front and the Islamic State in Iraq and the Levant, according to the Observatory. Hard-line Islamic groups have emerged as some of the most effective fighters in the Syrian rebel ranks.

Headline: Syria activists say truce made in blockaded town

Headline: Syrian opposition agrees to join Geneva peace talks

Government officials and rebels reached a deal to ease a weeks-long blockade on a rebel-held town near the Syrian capital on Sunday, allowing food to reach civilians there for the first time in weeks, activists said. The truce is the latest to be agreed in recent months between President Bashar Assad's government and disparate rebel groups throughout the war-ravaged country. It comes as the main Western-backed Syrian opposition began the second day of a two-day meeting in the Turkish capital Istanbul to decide whether they will attend a proposed peace conference the U.S. and Russia are trying to convene in Geneva by the end of this year. The Syrian National Coalition has demanded Assad step down in any transitional government as a condition for participation in the talks. Syrian officials say Assad will stay in his post at least until his term ends in 2014 and that he may run for re-election. Coalition Spokesman Louay Safi said discussions were still ongoing.

Headline: Kerry: World powers agree to nuclear deal, but Iran 'walked away'

Headline: Iran, six powers need more time for deal: Araqchi

US Secretary of State John Kerry countered claims France had torpedoed nuclear talks with Iran, saying the six world powers "signed off" on a deal, but Iran wasn't ready to accept it. Tehran and the UN nuclear watchdog agreed on a roadmap for cooperation. Kerry delivered his comments in Abu Dhabi on Monday following rampant speculation behind why marathon talks between the P5+1 - the United States, Russia, China, Britain, France and Germany - and Iran on Saturday failed to produce an agreement. Speaking to reporters, Kerry said the major powers were "unified on Saturday when we presented a proposal to the Iranians, and the French signed off on it, we signed off on it, and everybody agreed it was a fair proposal. There was unity, but Iran couldn't take it at that particular moment, they weren't able to accept that particular thing." Kerry added that the US was "not (in) a race" to complete talks with Iran on its uranium enrichment program, reaffirming Washington's commitment to defend its allies and not undermine ties with them. Kerry officially confirmed Western diplomatic chatter on Sunday that contrary to widespread speculation, France was not responsible for scuttling the talks. In the talks, France insisted that any agreement must entail Iran suspending construction of its Arak heavy-water reactor, which can produce plutonium, as well as halt uranium enrichment to a concentration of 20 percent. In return, Western powers would ease crippling sanctions that have battered Iran's economy.

Headline: Iran Reaches Deal with UN Nuke Monitors

Iran and the UN have reached agreement regarding expanded monitoring of Iran's nuclear program. Iran's state television said the deal was struck on Monday, in talks between International Atomic Energy Agency (IAEA) head Yukiya Amano, and the Iranian nuclear chief, Ali Akbar Salehi. For two years, the IAEA has been trying to reach a deal with Iran to gain greater access to documents regarding the country's nuclear program, in addition to related personnel and sites. The sides agreed to a "roadmap" that will give UN inspectors broader access to nuclear sites, including the heavy water reactor under construction at Arak, and a key uranium mine. "The practical measures will be implemented in the next three months, starting from today," Amano said in a news conference in Tehran, broadcast on state television.

Headline: Iran Deputy Minister Assassinated in Tehran

The Iranian deputy minister of trade was assassinated in an eastern neighborhood of Tehran on Sunday night, according to the state news agency IRNA. In what is believed to be the first killing of a senior central government official in years, Deputy Industry Minister Safdar Rahmat Abadi was shot twice in the head and chest in his car. IRNA spoke to a police official who said two bullet casings were found inside the car, meaning that Abadi was likely shot by someone he was riding with, as the car's windows weren't broken and there was no sign of a struggle. According to Reuters, the Mehr semi-official news agency quoted Tehran police officer Colonel Alireza Mehrabi saying, "The likelihood is that the killing of Mr. Rahmat Abadi happened through a personal motive and talk of assassinations and political issues is not involved." While there have been other recent attacks on Iranian provincial officials in recent weeks, there had been none involving central government ministers for many years. A U.S. State Department spokesman said they had seen media reports of the shooting, but had no further information or comment.

Headline: 8 killed in attacks in Iraq

Eight people were killed and ten others wounded in separate bombings and shootings in Iraq on Monday, police said. In northern Iraq, a soldier was killed in a gunmen attack on an army checkpoint in the city of Mosul, some 400 km north of the Iraqi capital of Baghdad, a local police source told Xinhua on condition of anonymity. A body of another soldier, who was kidnapped the day before, was found in Tigris River in al-Rashidiyah district in northern Mosul, the source said, adding that the body bears signs of torture with bullet holes in his head and chest. A civilian was shot dead by gunmen in a marketplace in eastern Mosul, while a taxi driver was killed in a sticky bomb explosion in his car in northern part of the city, the source added. Meanwhile, a fierce clash erupted in the morning when unidentified gunmen attacked a police checkpoint in Saiyd Gharib area, just south of the city of Balad, some 80 km north of Baghdad, leaving two gunmen killed and three policemen wounded, a local police source said. Separately, policemen at a checkpoint outside a police station shot dead a suspected suicide bomber said to be wearing an explosive vest in the town of Saqlawiyah, some 50 km west of Baghdad, a local police source anonymously told Xinhua. Minutes later, the policemen found a car bomb at the scene and managed to defuse it, the source said. In Fallujah, gunmen using assault rifles attacked a police patrol in southern area of the city and wounded two policemen and a passerby, the source added. In Iraq's eastern province of Diyala, gunmen shot dead a government official in the city of Sa'diyah, some 60 km north of the provincial capital city of Baquba, which is about 65 km northeast of Baghdad, a provincial police source told Xinhua. Also in the province, four people were wounded, including a policeman, in two roadside bomb explosions near the town of Maqdadiyah, some 40 km northeast of Baquba, the source said.

Headline: Libyan separatists take over oil exports as PM warns of foreign intervention

A separatist Libyan region has announced an establishment of an independent oil company after taking over several commercial sea ports. As Tripoli struggles to regain control, the PM has warned of foreign intervention unless central govt rule is restored. On Monday, protesters told staff at Mellitah port, in Libya's north, to cease gas exports to Italy as parliament and government had not given in to demands for wider political rights. "We tried to convince them not to close the pipeline, but it's closed now," head of the local oil workers' union, Munir Abu Saud, told Reuters. Libya's Prime Minister Ali Zeidan said on Sunday that the demands were intolerable. "The international community cannot tolerate a state in the middle of the Mediterranean that is a source of violence, terrorism and murder," he said. Citing the Iraq experience, he warned Libyans of a possible "intervention of foreign occupation forces" in order to protect civilians under Chapter VII of the UN Charter. To avoid such a scenario, "the people must take to the streets" and "support the building up of the army and police," as the government needs more time to create a professionally trained security force, the Prime Minister said. The Prime Minister's warning comes as Libya slipped into a new string of deadly attacks in Tripoli and the Eastern part of the country over the last week.

Headline: One million facing food shortage in Niger

About one million people in Niger, one of the world's poorest nations, are facing severe food shortages due to poor harvests after a drought and flooding, Prime Minister Brigi Rafini says.

"This season was not what we expected," Rafini said during a parliamentary debate. "We can write off this year." Rafini said that according to a first evaluation "about one million are at risk and must be assisted". Figures about the actual needs would be published shortly, so people could be helped until the end of December at a cost of about 84 million euros ($A120 million), which would be financed with the support of international partners. Niger, 80 per cent of which is covered by the Sahara desert, was hit by severe floods earlier this year, that killed at least 32 people and left 230,000 homeless, also wiping out crops. Recurrent food shortages in the country are one reason for a high rate of malnutrition among children. A lack of hygiene and drinking water as well as epidemics also contribute. Since 2010, 300,000 malnourished children have been given medical attention every year but up to 6000 still die, according to government figures published by the United Nations Children's Fund last month.

Headline: NYC Food Bank Head: 40% Of Veterans Need Food Assistance

The CEO of a major food bank in Wyoming warns that "people are scared to death" over the impact of a stimulus withdrawal which has left millions of Americans short of groceries, as demand begins to overwhelm food banks in the state and across the country. Jay Martin, CEO of Joshua's Storehouse in Casper, Wyoming told the Star-Tribune that the number of families using the food bank in October was already significantly up from a year ago and that the November 1st food stamp cut caused "an immediate upswing" in demand. "People are scared to death of the lack of food availability," Martin said. Food banks across the state have also seen hikes in demand since the beginning of the month. "And we expect to see an increase for the rest of the year," said Brittany Ogden, office manager for the Food Bank of Sweetwater County, which has seen 90 new families needing assistance in 2013. From November 1st, $5 billion was wiped off the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP) as a result of a planned stimulus withdrawal. Almost 50 million Americans who are supported by the program face an average loss of $36 dollars a month, which is a significant amount for those living near the poverty line. Additional cuts are also in the pipeline.

Headline: Moody's warns of bankruptcy in Scranton as city faces $20 million budget gap

Scranton could be headed towards another fiscal crisis like the one that resulted in city workers having their pay cut to minimum wage in 2012, according to a major credit ratings agency. In a weekly publication, Moody's warned investors that Scranton could be facing the threat of default or bankruptcy thanks to a $20 million budget gap for the fiscal year that begins Jan. 1. The city is supposed to approve a new budget by Nov. 15, which would have to close that deficit to balance the budget. Without a balanced budget, the ratings agency warned that two financial institutions could withdraw from scheduled debt financing for the beleaguered northeastern Pennsylvania city. "The resulting liquidity squeeze would leave the city with few options to meet its financial obligations, raising the threat of default or bankruptcy," warned Moody's analysts.

Prophecy Sign: Wars & Rumors of Wars Matthew 24:6 , Revelation 6:3-4 & Revelation 6:8
“And you will hear of wars and rumors of wars. See that you are not troubled; for all these things must come to pass, but the end is not yet.” Revelation 6:3-4 speaks of the fiery red horse given power to make men slay one another and Revelation 6:8 speaks again of this red horse in conjunction with the pale horse of Death and Hades, as the one that has the power to kill by sword.

Prophecy Sign: Weapons of Mass Destruction Zechariah 14:12

Headline: Report: Pyongyang Developing EMP Bomb

According to French press agency AFP, South Korea's intelligence services claim that North Korea is using Russian technology to develop nuclear electromagnetic pulse (EMP) weapons aimed at paralyzing Seoul's military electronic equipment. Seoul's National Intelligence Service (NIS) said in a recent report to parliament that the North had purchased Russian electromagnetic pulse (EMP) weaponry in order to develop its own versions of the weapon, for possible use against South Korea. EMP weapons are detonated at high altitudes to damage computers and other electronic equipment across a very large territory, effectively sending the affected area into the Stone Age without directly killing anyone. Arutz Sheva analyst Mark Langfan, who has been warning of the EMP threat for a long time, notes that North Korea and Iran have long been cooperating in the nuclear field, and that technology that reaches Pyongyang can be assumed to have reached Iran as well.

Headline: Saudi says first camel tests positive for MERS virus

The Saudi government said Monday that a camel has tested positive for MERS, in the first case of an animal infected with the coronavirus that has killed 64 people worldwide. A camel owned by a person diagnosed with the disease had "tested positive in preliminary laboratory checks," the health ministry said in a statement carried by SPA state news agency. The ministry said it was working with the ministry of agriculture and laboratories to "isolate the virus and compare its genetic structure with that of the patient's". If the virus carried by the camel and that of the patient "prove to be identical, this would be a first scientific discovery worldwide, and a door to identify the source of the virus," it added. In August, researchers pointed to Arabian camels as possible hosts of the SARS-like virus, which has hit hardest in the desert kingdom, where 53 people have died from the disease.

Prophecy Sign: Apostasy Amos 8:11 & 2 Peter 2:1-3

"Behold, the days are coming," says the Lord GOD, "That I will send a famine on the land, Not a famine of bread, Nor a thirst for water, But of hearing the words of the LORD." (Amos)

"But there were also false prophets among the people, even as there will be false teachers among you, who will secretly bring in destructive heresies, even denying the Lord who bought them, and bring on themselves swift destruction. ² And many will follow their destructive ways, because of whom the way of truth will be blasphemed. ³ By covetousness they will exploit you with deceptive words; for a long time their judgment has not been idle, and their destruction does not slumber." (2 Peter)

Headline: A 'mega-church' where God is unwelcome; atheists unite at Sunday Assemblies across US, globe

It looked like a typical Sunday morning at any mega-church. Hundreds packed in for more than an hour of rousing music, an inspirational sermon, a reading and some quiet reflection. The only thing missing was God. Dozens of gatherings dubbed "atheist mega-churches" by supporters and detractors are springing up around the U.S. after finding success in Great Britain earlier this year. The movement fueled by social media and spearheaded by two prominent British comedians is no joke. On Sunday, the inaugural Sunday Assembly in Los Angeles attracted more than 400 attendees, all bound by their belief in non-belief. Similar gatherings in San Diego, Nashville, New York and other U.S. cities have drawn hundreds of atheists seeking the camaraderie of a congregation without religion or ritual. The founders, British duo Sanderson Jones and Pippa Evans, are currently on a tongue-in-cheek "40 Dates, 40 Nights" tour around the U.S. and Australia to drum up donations and help launch dozens of Sunday Assemblies. They hope to raise more than $800,000 that will help atheists launch their pop-up congregations around the world. They don't bash believers but want to find a new way to meet likeminded people, engage in the community and make their presence more visible in a landscape dominated by faith.

Headline: Eritrean Government Imprisons 150 Christians for Praying Together

Eritrean security forces recently raided yet another prayer meeting, arresting about 150 Christians in a suburb of Asmara, the African nation's capital, according to Religion Today. The Christians — members of an underground fellowship known as "Living God" — reportedly met to pray about Eritrea's refugee crisis and other national concerns. "Living God" is part of a network of underground fellowships that sprang up in Eritrea after 2002 when the government banned all religious groups with the exception of three state-sanctioned denominations: the Eritrean Orthodox Church, the Catholic Church and the Lutheran-affiliated Evangelical Church of Eritrea. All of the Pentecostal and independent evangelical groups that had established missions in Eritrea were excluded, according to The Christians.com. In August, Eritrean authorities also arrested 30 members of the Church of the Living God when they gathered for prayer in the Kushet suburb of Asmara.

Headline: Retired Police Officer Arrested for Sharing Gospel in New Jersey Mall

A retired police officer was arrested and charged with trespassing this week for witnessing to patrons of a New Jersey mall. David Wells is a former corporal with the Long Branch Police Department, and over the past year, he has spent time sharing his faith at the Monmouth Mall in Eatontown. Wells says that he likes to distribute materials from Ray Comfort's Living Waters Publications to shoppers in hopes that it will cause them to ponder matters of eternity. This past week, he handed out Comfort's trillion dollar bill tract while asking a "trillion dollar" question. "I simply approached individuals and asked them if I could ask them a question. If they said no, I left them alone," Wells explained. "If they said yes I simply asked, 'Are you going to Heaven?' How I responded was based on how they answered that question." Wells states that he has witnessed to mall patrons in the presence of mall security without issue in the past. However, this past Tuesday, things were different. "The mall security came over and immediately told me to stop what I was doing and to leave the property," he explained. "They indicated that the mall was private property and [that I couldn't distribute tracts there]." But Wells noted that the state courts had declared malls a quasi-public venue, and "with that understanding I went to the mall to talk to people about the Gospel."

Headline: Philippine typhoon kills at least 10,000, survivors 'walk like zombies'

Gulf Arab states, the United States, Australia and the United Nations are mobilizing emergency aid to the Philippines as the scale of the devastation unleashed by Super Typhoon Haiyan emerges.

Donations from Arab states include the United Arab Emirates, which has announced support and assistance programs and projects worth $10 million to the Philippines. Saudi Prince Talal bin Abdul Aziz's Arab Gulf Program for Development announced a $100,000 donation to the victims channeled through the Philippine government. The Pentagon is sending military personnel and equipment to assist with the relief effort following the typhoon, which may have killed more than 10,000 people in what is feared to be the country's worst natural disaster. "The United States is already providing significant humanitarian assistance, and we stand ready to further assist the government's relief and recovery efforts," U.S. President Barack Obama said in a statement. Some 90 Marines and sailors, and two KC-130J Hercules aircraft, left Japan for the Philippines on Saturday, with equipment including tilt-rotor aircraft which can operate without runways, Marines Colonel John Peck said. The Australian government pledged Aus$10 million dollars ($9.38 million), with Foreign Minister Julie Bishop describing the unfolding tragedy as "absolutely devastating" and on a "massive scale".

Headline: Typhoon Haiyan makes landfall in Vietnam

Headline: Weakening Haiyan continues north to China and Vietnam, killing more Typhoon Haiyan made landfall in Vietnam early Monday, meteorologists said, days after it left thousands feared dead and widespread devastation in the Philippines. The US Joint Typhoon Warning Center (JTWC) said in an update at 2100 GMT the storm "is currently making landfall" approximately 100 miles (160 kilometres) east south-east of the capital Hanoi. The storm, which had weakened significantly since scything through the Philippines over the weekend, made landfall with sustained winds of 75 miles (120 kilometres) per hour, said the JTWC, a joint US Navy and Air Force task force located in Pearl Harbor, Hawaii. More than 600,000 people were evacuated on the weekend as Haiyan bore down on Vietnam. Residents of Hanoi were braced for heavy rains and flooding, while tens of thousands of people in coastal areas were ordered to take shelter.

"We have evacuated more than 174,000 households, which is equivalent to more than 600,000 people," said an official report by Vietnam's flood and storm control department. The storm changed course on Sunday, prompting further mass evacuations of about 52,000 people in northern provinces by the coast.

Headline: Cyclone kills 100, flattens hundreds of homes in Somalia's Puntland

At least 100 people were killed when a tropical cyclone hit Somalia's semi-autonomous Puntland region at the weekend, the government said on Monday, declaring a state of emergency and appealing for international aid. The government said hundreds of people were missing after the storm made landfall on Saturday. "Houses and livestock were swept into the ocean by the floods," President Abdirahman Mohamud Farole told reporters in the capital Garowe. "We urge United Nations aid agencies to assist the victims. As Puntland, we have established a committee to investigate the loss and damage. Electricity, communication and fishing boats were all destroyed." The government said preliminary information showed more than 100,000 livestock were lost and fishing boats swept away, endangering the livelihoods of tens of thousands of people. The storm was forecast to move inland and continue until Wednesday. The storm hit the Eyl, Beyla, Dangorayo and Hafun districts along the eastern coast and across to Alula at the tip of the Horn of Africa. High winds and heavy rains caused flash floods and cut off roads to the coastal areas.

Headline: Expect increasingly violent cyclones, weather experts warn

Meteorologists have yet to formally link global warming to typhoons like the one that devastated the Philippines, but they expect increasingly extreme weather phenomena due to a rise in ocean temperatures. The trail of death and destruction left in the wake of Super Typhoon Haiyan was at the forefront of a new round of United Nations climate talks that opened Monday in Poland, as Philippine authorities warned some 10,000 people may have died. Haiyan -- the most powerful typhoon to make landfall ever recorded -- swept over the Philippines Friday, just days before the 12-day UN climate talks opened in Warsaw to a slew of warnings about potentially disastrous warming with increasingly extreme weather phenomena. "There is a tendency of (oceans) warming up and an increase in the intensity of cyclones is part of the risks," said Herve Le Treut, a Paris university professor and climatologist. Typhoons, hurricanes and cyclones are different names given to the same powerful weather phenomenon according to the region it hits, but meteorologists use the generic term "cyclone" when talking generally about these super storms. In September, the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change (IPCC), mandated by the United Nations to make scientific assessments about the risks of climate change, concluded in a report that it was "virtually certain that the upper ocean... warmed from 1971 to 2010".

Comment: Global warming- a fancy term coined by ‘researchers’ as the cause of unusual storms and unexplained changes in Earth’s atmosphere and oceans. They can call it whatever they would like and blame it on whatever scapegoat reason they have for the day- but the Word of God stands and He specifically tells us in Isaiah 30:26 and Revelation 16:8-9 that the Earth will be ‘heating up’ and that we will be seeing more and more ‘roaring of the seas’. He even tells us WHY and the reason isn’t pollution or lack of recycling- It is because Jesus is coming soon!

The Arab Spring in Prophecy

(Perilous Times Luke 21:9 & Nation against Nation, Kingdom against Kingdom Matt.24:7)
(Revelation 6:3-4 Revelation 6:8)

“For nation shall rise against nation,
and kingdom against kingdom.
There will be earthquakes in various places, and there will be famines and sedition; these are the beginning of the labor pains.”

Mark 13:8

UNREST

Luke 21:9 and Matthew 24:7 speak of nation against nation and kingdom against kingdom in the end times. Revelation 6:3-4 speaks of the fiery red horse given power to make men slay one another and Revelation 6:8 speaks again of this red horse in conjunction with the pale horse of Death and Hades, as the one that has the power to kill by sword. I like to call this “The Arab Spring in Prophecy” because for us it is easy to identify- that’s what the world calls it.

Luke 21:9: wars & commotions; the Greek word here is Akatastasia, meaning instability, a state of disorder, disturbance, confusion (revolutions)

Matthew 24:7: the Greek word for nation is Ethnos & refers to various ethnic groups fighting among themselves, where the next sentence in the verse refers to kingdoms (basileiva) fighting one another (not to be confused with an actual kingdom but rather the right or authority to rule over a kingdom) I have tried to separate it into areas that sweep EAST from the point of North America.

Headline: 1000s protest austerity measures in Greece

Thousands of Greeks have staged a protest against austerity measures in the capital Athens, as the government survives a no-confidence vote in parliament. On Sunday, the demonstrators mainly from the leftist opposition party, SYRIZA, gathered in front of the parliament in Athens, carrying banners which read, "Go now" and "No to austerity policies." The protest came after the government of Prime Minister Antonis Samaras narrowly survived the no-confidence vote put forth by SYRIZA in the parliament. Some 124 of the 300 lawmakers in the parliament voted for the opposition's censure motion and 153 rejected it.
